U.S. Gives Germany Cold Shoulder JAPANESE FREIGHTER BURNING OFF COLUMBIA RIVER; CREW RESCUED

NOT LIABLE TO PAY ACCIDENTS

City Will Post Notices Apprising Public of Condition of Certain Streets.

RECOMMENDATION ROUGH GRADING NOT ACCEPTED

A report was received from the Board of Works by the city council last night recommending the rough grading of Sixth Avenue from Taylor Street to Hays Cove Circle, Fifth Avenue from Emerson Place to Hays Cove Circle, and Dunsinuir Street from Fourth to Fifth Avenue, but was turned back to the city engineer for separate estimates for the different sections of the work. While the council seemed to favor the advancing of the scheme, the feeling was expressed by some of the members, including Alderman Parker, that the scheme was somewhat too comprehensive and that such a general decision should not be made until there was some idea of what the work would cost. Alderman Dybbah held similar views, stating that an estimate for similar work had been asked for some eight months ago, but had not yet been received.

It was decided on recommendation of the city solicitor to post notices up on various condemned streets notifying the public of their condition and at the same time pointing out that the city would not be responsible for accidents occurring through their use.
