Ensure Your Boy's Education

Boys with a public school education in after life earn $588 per annum on the average. Boys with a high school training earn $1550 on an average.

It has been shown that for every day of high school work boys afterward received a compensation of nine dollars.

Figures carefully prepared by the American Bureau of Education show that a youth with a college training has 800 times as many chances of success as one without schooling.

A Mutual Policy will guarantee your boy an education. The Mutual Life Assurance Company of Canada

TREED BY WOLVES ALASKAN WOODS MORE SETTLERS FOR AUSTRALIA

Lost Hunter Did Not Like Sound of Snarl Close to Camp Fire.

In Order to Secure White Country Sir Joseph Carruthers Would Populate It.

PETERSBURG, Dec. 12.—Treed by hundreds of wolves and forced to spend the night in the top of the tree in almost zero weather after having been lost for two days, was the experience of Magnus Johansen of Petersburg. He was rescued by a searching party at the head of Duncan Canal.

Johansen and Johnny Grafstad went hunting in Portage Bay and became separated. Grafstad returned to the boat late in the afternoon and waited for his partner. At dark he started in the woods and searched until midnight, and not finding any trace of the missing man and the weather being very cold he came to town and gave the alarm.

Searching parties were organized at once and left for the scene, two boat loads going to the head of Duncan Canal. The latter party found Johansen on the beach at the head of the canal and brought him to town none the worse for his experience.

Johansen says that he became confused and finding a cabin in the woods spent the first night there. The next day he continued on his way and nearly reached the beach at Duncan, but being overcome by darkness, built a fire against a tree. When the moon came up he continued his trip, but after going a short ways, heard the wolves and returned to the fire, but they kept sneaking in closer and closer, until fearing for his safety, Johansen took to a tree. He says that he could hear what seemed like hundreds of the animals in the brush under the tree snarling and fighting all night. With the coming of daylight they disappeared and he was able to make his way to the beach where he was found.

CONSTANCE TALMADGE IN NIGHTMARE SCENE

Has to Walk Through New England Village in Wet Bathing Togs.

Constance Talmadge has a perfect horror of nightmares and consequently is very careful about eating such delectable and sleep-destroying things as Welsh rarebits before going to bed, but nevertheless she thought it was a great joke when she was called upon to enact a scene from one of her most dreaded dreams, that of finding herself walking around town not completely dressed.

In this instance she had to depict the mental plight of a young girl who, wringing wet in her bathing suit, cringed from pillar to post in a stern New England countryside as the result of being deserted by a yachting party while in swimming in Long Island Sound. How she obtained more conventional attire and the scene that awaited her return to New York furnishes a chain of engaging humor that has a weak link throughout Constance Talmadge's latest attraction, "Good References," which will be shown at the Westholme Theatre tonight.

Husband, gently—"My dear, a man was shot by a burglar, and his life was saved by a bullet which the bullet struck."

Wife—"Well, what of it?"

Husband, meekly—"Nothing, only the bullet must have been on."
