Sport Chat

Street Foreman Malcolm McLeod reports that his work of repairing the dam at Morse Creek has been successful and that the water has now risen to the top and there are no leaks now. The use of Morse Creek pond for skating when the next cold snap comes is thus assured and there is no doubt but that many will use it. Some people who have not felt like crossing the harbor to the Salt Lakes in the past will go skating now so close at hand.

The Pioneer Roller Rink Tickers, who have sent out a challenge to the Intermediate League for basketball games, feel convinced that they will still be able to show the public of Prince Rupert and their opponents something about the popular indoor game. They are keen and enthusiastic about meeting their chosen rivals and the fans are looking forward to some pleasant diversion in seeing the old timers and the youngsters pitted against each other.

Apt Halliwell, the Toronto football goalie, who went to the Old Country a short time ago to play for the Dunfermline Club in the Second Scottish League, has suddenly returned to Toronto. While with the professional team he played five games and showed up well. He may remain in Toronto and seek reinstatement but this he will not be able to get until he has been back in the country six months. It is also possible that he may receive offers from other Old Country Clubs and accept them.

FORLORN HOPE.

Editor Daily News:

Sirs—I have read and re-read M. M. Stephens' hysterical outburst in your columns yesterday, but, probably like many others, am quite at sea to discover a reason for this tirade. Does Mr. Stephens object to the editor of the Interior News changing his mind? If the answer is in the affirmative, is this gentleman's position not rather illogical? Col. Peck's prize supporters, Major McGregor, Mr. Stewart, Mr. McCaffery and Mr. Nickerson have also it seems, changed their minds and are highly commended by Mr. Stephens.

But there is an alternative. Mr. Stephens may be obsessed by the hallucination that it is the crime of crimes to desert the Conservative and support the Liberal candidate while the opposite is a virtue which entitles the actors to halos and white robes.

Well, if Mr. Stephens is going to hand out halos and white robes I am sure we will trust the recipients will find them becoming.

Mr. Stephens' shrieks of approaching victory on the 6th, indicates that he believes in the Teutonic dictum the "will to win," a belief that does not appear to be shared by the bulk of the Conservative Party who are advancing on a forlorn hope, not the full of hope miss-named "forlorn" but the most forlorn of all forlorn hopes.
