Veterans' Band Worthy of Support.

There is no institution in the city better worthy of support than the G. W. V. A. Band. In a city where we are largely shut in on ourselves and dependent on ourselves for musical entertainment, a band is very desirable. The veterans' band has already done good work and is the basis of a valuable civic organization worthy of the support of everyone.

With the closing of the construction part of the local shipyard a number of men find themselves out of employment or will very soon so find themselves. Among the number are several important members of the band. An effort is being made to keep these men employed so that they may remain in the city. Employers who are able to aid in this would be doing the city a great service if they would stand behind the bandsmen and give them whatever preference is possible. Music is a civic asset and anything we can possibly do to encourage it should not be neglected.

There is a committee appointed to try to make arrangements for the continuance in the city of several of the men who are proposing to leave. It is to be hoped they will meet with success.

Britannia Tragedy Excites Sympathy.

The sympathy of the people of Prince Rupert will go out to the people of Britannia who have lost parents or children, relatives or friends in the awful tragedy of the floods of the last week-end. It came upon them in their own homes at night. They were absolutely defenceless, and the horror of the situation was made worse by the dread of uncertainty as to the extent of the trouble. Parents were separated from their children and wives from their husbands. Whole families were wiped out, and what was even worse, in some cases members of families were taken and others left.

The people of this city were keen to know the extent of the tragedy, and if necessary will be just as keen to help the survivors.

Candidates Out Looking for Votes.

The candidates in the forthcoming federal election are out looking for votes. They are trying to impress the electors with the fact that the district will benefit from support of the particular candidate. Colonel Peck tells of what he has done, and on the strength of that and his military career expects to be sent back to Ottawa, not as a Conservative this time but as a Don Quixote to till at any windmill he may happen to see. Fred Stork, on the other hand, asks for support not on his own merit so much as because he represents a set of principles, the principles of the Liberal party. Stork has a leader whom he will follow, so in returning him everyone knows exactly what they are voting for. There is nothing personal about it.

Liberalism has stood the test of many years. It is not by any means a fixed principle. It is opposed to Conservatism in that it refuses to be tied and bound by the outgrown usages of the past, but it refuses to be led headlong into doubtful experiments by the too radical element. It has often been used and abused by petty politicians for their own ends, but it remains as before, the surge forward which keeps men and women abreast of the times without encountering the dangers of being too far in advance.

Carrying Banner of Liberalism.

Fred Stork is carrying the banner of Liberalism. If elected he will be a supporter of W. L. Mackenzie King or any other leader whom the Liberals by popular vote may select. We know exactly where he is and what we are voting for in supporting him. If on the other hand we support Colonel Peck we do not know whether he will support the Tory leader, Arthur Meighen, high protectionist and friend of the profiteers; T. A. Greer, head of the farmer movement, or Mackenzie King. If we give him our vote we do not know what he will do with it.

If we vote for a Socialist we know he will carry the banner of Socialism. If we vote Conservative we know the candidate will be a high protectionist and will carry favor with the millionaires of the East, the Sir William Mackenzies and the Flavelles. If we vote for Stork we know he will be in the march of progress; he will be looking to the people for guidance rather than to the millionaires; but if we vote for Peck we stick our vote on the roulette table and spin and pray that it may come out a winner.
