FRANCOIS LAKE MULE WAS STUBBORN BEAST

Believed That Provincial Steam Shovel Was His Home and Would Not Leave.

A mule is the most perverse creature on earth. That is the opinion of one man in the Francois Lake country. Recently one of the settlers along Colleymount way was riding a mule to Burns Lake. It was a little mule that had been used on railway construction and he had learned as part of his railway experience that the best place to be is around where the steam shovel is working. That is where the feed is kept.

The settler was taking a route to town that took him close to where the steam shovel was working on the Colleymount road. As they approached the mule showed interest and quickened his pace. Coming to the spot he placed his forefeet well forward, ooped his head and came to a halt. No efforts of the rider could induce him to proceed.

Self-Will'd Creature.
Now the settler did not want to stop at the steam shovel—he was bound for Burns Lake and wanted to get on. He dismounted and led the refractory beast along the road in the direction of the ferry, and when clear of the attraction of the big machine, threw one leg across and was again in the saddle ready to proceed. No sooner was he properly balanced than the mule turned and made at full lick back for the steam shovel.

Again the settler led Mr. Mule along the road and the workmen at the shovel thought they had seen the last of him and were forgetting the incident when again they looked up and saw the man and beast coming back, the mule intent on reaching the goal and the man unwilling and protesting.

This time the men left their work and tried to help the settler break the animal of the homing tendency. They took their shovels and sticks and beat the little beast and yelled at him. He was led for a mile or more, but he still hankered for the steam shovel and its environment and the third time returned carrying the unwilling passenger.

Many Weary Miles.
This time Mr. Mule was led by the irate settler along the road for many weary miles until the attractions of Burns Lake became stronger to him than those of the steam shovel and it is supposed he arrived safely at his destination.

The moral of this story is never to ride a mule if you can get any other animal and never take him near a steam shovel.

THINKING HARD.

What surprises me most about Scotland (writes a visitor) is not the absence of haggis and the kill or the presence of finely metalled roads, but the silence of the barbers' shops. Artist and client say nothing more to each other than the few words necessary for the success of the operation in hand. When I remarked on this phenomenon to a much-travelled Scot, "Aye," he commented, "they're both thinking hard about the tip—London Morning Post."

Had Bad Cough and Sore Throat

Never neglect a cough or cold however slight. If you do it can have but one result; it leaves the throat or lungs, or both, affected. A single dose of DR. WOOD'S NORWAY PINE SYRUP will help to stop the cough, soothe the throat, and if the cough or cold has become settled on the lungs the healing virtues of the Norway pine tree along with the soothing and expectorant properties of other excellent herbs, roots and barks promptly eradicates the bad effects, and the persistent use cannot but help to bring about relief.

Mr. Albert Marsh, Lower L'Ardoise, N. S., writes:—"About a year ago I contracted a cold accompanied by a very bad cough and sore throat. I sent for the doctor, but what he prescribed did me so little good I began to get discouraged. A friend came to see me and asked me if I had ever used Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup. I told him I had not and sent him right away to get me a bottle. I started using it, and after a couple of days I found I was getting relief, and after taking two bottles the soreness in my throat seemed to be leaving me, so I resolved to continue its use, and after I had used five bottles both my sore throat and cough were gone. I would not be without 'Dr. Wood's' for any money."
