KETCHIKAN IS STILL KNOCKING

Interview Published in Christian Science Monitor Deals With Fisheries.

What purports to be a special despatch to the Christian Science Monitor is published in a recent number of that paper under a Juneau date line. It deals with a subject which has been already turned down by the Alaska territorial legislature and is advocated chiefly by H. G. Strong, of Ketchikan, whose interview follows:

"Alaska, our much-talked-of but generally unknown land of wonders, and resources, is today facing conditions that require and deserve the attention of our statesmen. The decline in gold mining has been accompanied by a great shrinkage in population, due to the lack of other industries and employment; yet during this time Alaskans have witnessed the building of a city, Prince Rupert, British Columbia, but 93 miles away, which is thriving through the operation of a large fishing fleet which is bringing wealth and prosperity to that Canadian port.

Canada's Foresightedness.

"The astonishing feature is that Alaska's great natural resource, her fisheries, and the American market for fresh and frozen fish are directly responsible for the prosperity of Prince Rupert. There are two reasons for the existing conditions: First indifference and lack of actual knowledge on the part of our statesmen, and second, the aggressiveness of the Canadians, with the assistance rendered by their government, in taking advantage of their geographical location, lying between the Alaskan fisheries and the markets of our eastern states.

"The Canadians possess direct rail connection, and operate through refrigerator cars between Prince Rupert, which is but 43 miles from the border of Alaska, and the larger cities of the United States. At Prince Rupert, the Canadian Government subsidized the largest fish freezing and packing plant on the American continent. Every condition is looked after to attract, and practically oblige, the north Pacific fishing fleet to make that port its home.

Everything at Prince Rupert.

"The fresh-fish dealers of the United States are annually sending in excess of 85,000,000 to Canada to pay for halibut and salmon, nearly all of which has been caught in the waters adjacent to the Alaskan coast, by vessels using American harbors, but operated from Canadian ports. The vessels may fly either the Canadian or American flag, it matters not under existing conditions, for regardless of nationality, the boats discharge their fish at the Canadian port of Prince Rupert, where the fish is weighed, paid for, iced, and boxed, or otherwise prepared for shipment in refrigerator cars, to the eastern markets of the United States. The earnings are then and there disbursed, the crew is paid off, and the vessel is again outfitted for her next trip. The value of the cargo has gone into circulation at the Canadian port though the fish were taken from the banks directly tributary to Alaska, and the consumers in the United States have furnished the money.

Needs In Development.

"Alaska must have permanent industries to support her present population, which has been on the decline during the past decade; and the protection of her fisheries is the key to the situation. The money now being sent to Canada to pay for the fish caught almost within sight of Alaska's shores would bring prosperity and increased population to Alaska towns. The fisherman is an asset to the community where he discharges his fish and receives his pay; that place becomes his home. Alaska must be made his market place, and this can be accomplished successfully only through an act of Congress.

"In no way can Congress render a greater service to Alaska and at the same time protect the American fisheries, than by placing a duty of 3 cents a pound upon fresh and frozen halibut and salmon which have been prepared for shipment at a foreign port, and a duty of 1 cent a pound upon all other fish that have been prepared for shipment at a foreign port. This duty will not affect the price paid by the consumer, nor the price to the producer, but it will move the market place, the center of the fishing industry, the supply point of the fishing fleet, and the home of the fishermen who are fishing to supply American consumers, from a Canadian port to Alaska.

Car Ferry Proposed.

"Transportation will then be obliged to reach to Alaska for this tonnage; and instead of the fishing fleet carrying their cargoes to the British terminal, the Canadian railway will be obliged to establish a car ferry service to the principal southern port of Alaska, Ketchikan, or surrender the business to the all-American, but longer route.

"Canada is in a position to dominate the fishing industry of the North Pacific and will until such time as Congress passes legislation which in effect will cause the fleets fishing for American markets to discharge their fish at an American, instead of a Canadian port. Such congressional action will be far reaching in adjusting Alaska's economic conditions, every effort should be made to place this matter clearly before Congress."

SUFFERED YEARS WITH ECZEMA

"Fruit-a-tives" Cleared Her Skin

POINTE ST. PIERRE, P.Q.

"I suffered for three years with terrible Eczema. I consulted several doctors and they did not do me any good.

Then, I used one box of "Soothe Salve" and two boxes of "Fruit-a-tives" and my hands are now clear. The pain is gone and there has been no return.

I think it is marvellous because no other medicine did me any good until I used "Soothe Salve" and "Fruit-a-tives", the wonderful medicine made from fruit".

ROMANTIC CAREER OF ENTERTAINER

Iona Robertson Gives Another of Her Recitals Here Tonight.

Not only is the artiste who is known professionally as Iona Robertson, a singer, elocutionist and actress of exceptional ability, but she is also prominent in other important spheres of public activity. She has been called in the English Press the "Maud Gonn" of the Highlands because of her exertions on behalf of the distressed Highland Crofters in 1904. She is also a prolific writer, and is now collecting information throughout Canada for English and Scotch Publications regarding the Immigration situation in the Dominion. She is very popular in London society, her father being a cousin of the Duke of Abercorn and her mother a Robertson of Struan. She has been married twice, her first husband Lieut-Colonel Campbell Mackenzie have been killed in the Great War.

Reverses of fortune caused by the war, have resulted in her taking up again the work of professional entertainer in which she made a great name for herself throughout England and Scotland before her marriage, and she is again delighting audiences wherever she appears. She gives an entertainment at the Empress tonight.

FUNERAL OF RAYMOND PORTETTE TOOK PLACE IN FAIRVIEW TODAY

The funeral of the late Raymond Portette took place this morning from Hayner Bros. chapel, Rev. Father Cocola officiating. Interment was in Fairview Cemetry and a number of mourners followed the remains to their last resting place.

ANOTHER ATTEMPT TO SWIM CHANNEL FAILS AT DOVER

DOVER, Eng., Sept. 22.—Henry Sullivan, who has made his fifth attempt to swim the English Channel, was obliged to abandon the effort last night before reaching the French coast. He was taken out twelve miles from here after having been in the water for nine hours.

TOURISTS DANCED AND IGNORED OTHER GAMES

Even the Bishop Joined In Fun as Judge of Masquerade.

Tourists who have just returned from a visit to the Norwegian fjords tell of the wonderful time they had on the ship. An entertainment committee was formed and they tried various forms of amusement without success. The magic mixer was found to be dancing.

There was dancing every night from nine to twelve, and one afternoon when rain came on the ship's fiddlers were routed out and everybody, or nearly everybody, danced until dinnertime. At Molde the dancers went ashore and danced till midnight at the little theatre just opened there.

A bishop entered into the fun of it all with great relish. He doffed his apron and gaiters, and, though he declined to dance, he served as a judge of fancy dresses, and when he had to decide between a saintly nun in white and a saturnine figure in black—with playing cards for color touches and a champagne bottle for a head-dress—he gaily plumped "for this time only" for the representative of the road to ruin. Dancing beat all other forms of diversion easily. Nobody touched draughts or chess. A whist drive attracted only four and twenty out of four hundred, and a proposed auction bridge tournament was a washout.

CAREFULLY BROUGHT UP.

The business man had decided to try a girl secretary and was interviewing the applicant for the job.

He eyed, rather suspiciously, a fair young thing, who wore a V-cut blouse, a short skirt, gray silk stockings and a lot of gaudy "jewelry."

"I—er—hope you were carefully brought up?" he stammered nervously.

"Oh, rather, old bean!" replied the damsel. "Old Bill, who works the lift, is an old flame of mine; he wouldn't hurt me for worlds."

THE SUBSTITUTE.

"Your honor," said the prosecuting attorney, "your bull pup has went and chawed up the court Bible."

"Well, grumbled the court, "make the witness kiss the pup; we can't adjourn court to get a new Bible."

PRESENTATION TO MRS. J. R. MORIN BY ST. ANDREW'S LADIES

Party Invades Home and Mrs. James Lee Officiates.

Mrs. J. R. Morin of the Pioneer Laundry Apartments was last night the recipient of a handsome present from the Ladies' Auxiliary of St. Andrew's Society when about twenty-five members invaded the home and presented her with a beautiful cut glass bowl as a wedding present.

Mrs. James Simpson and Mrs. Arthur convened the party and Mrs. James Lee, president of the auxiliary made the presentation to which Mrs. Morin suitably replied. The evening was then spent with music and games. Miss Iona Robertson, who is still in the city, was with the party and gave one of her wonderfully interesting recitations.

Mrs. Morin was married about two weeks ago.

PRINCE RUPERT TIDES

Thursday, September 22.

Low—10:13 a.m., 7.3 feet.
22:53 p.m., 5.4 feet.
Friday, September 23.
High— 5:13 a.m., 17.0 feet.
17:12 p.m., 19.0 feet.
Low—11:04 a.m., 8.1. feet.
23:51 p.m., 5.9 feet.
Saturday, September 24.
High— 6:18 a.m., 16.3 feet.
18:15 p.m., 18.3 feet.
Low—11:56 a.m., 8.9 feet.
Sunday, September 25.
High— 7:35 a.m., 16.1 feet.
19:30 p.m., 18.0 feet.
Low— 0:59 a.m., 6.3 feet.
10:34 p.m., 9.3 feet.

The time used is Pacific Standard, for the 120th Meridian west. It is counted from 0 to 24 hours, from midnight to midnight.

The table given is for Port Simpson but the time for Prince Rupert varies only a few minutes on some days and on others is the same. The range of the tide may be computed as 5 per cent greater at Prince Rupert than at Port Simpson both at springs and neaps. Therefore the rise in the Prince Rupert harbor is slightly greater than Port Simpson.

The height is in feet and tenths of feet above the average level of lower low water.
