Armistice Day Is Celebrated.

This is Armistice Day and everyone is remembering the splendid work done by British people and the Allies everywhere. It is a wonderful record. At the same time we remember the fine men who fell, fighting for that which they believed to be the right. Today, more than at any time in the year, the nation is unified in the desire to honor every soldier who fought and especially those who fell.

As we look around at the world today and see the condition in which the war has left us it makes us wonder why it all is. And yet it is not for the ordinary man to judge of results. Changes have come which will remain. Other changes are temporary in character. With our limited knowledge it is difficult for us to get a clear grasp of the situation. Things are working out, though not perhaps in the way we would like. We have been brought up to see things in a certain light and changes offend us. Possibly ten or twenty years hence we shall get a better perspective on the social, religious and political changes which are steadily taking place.

Forget Politics While We Remember.

So far as possible everything of a contentious political nature is omitted from The Daily News today. We can forget our little differences in the shadow of the great contention, the end of which we celebrate. There is danger that in our little back yard battles we may not remember what our really great men did for us. So that this may not be the case it is well to dwell today on the one great theme.

Peace Conference at Washington.

Today there is a peace conference in session at Washington. It is the greatest peace conference that has ever assembled, a gathering for the purpose of trying to prevent future wars. It is going on the assumption that prevention is better than cure. It is a great assembly. It is called by the head of a great nation, and all the great nations of the world are represented there.

There is little hope that any very complete plan for preventing future wars will be worked out, but it is a beginning, the first big effort of its kind, although minor efforts along similar lines have preceded it without success. The call of the Czar of Russia was the first. The nations all have their own problems which affect them more than any other, and for these they have to prepare. The problem of the British Empire is to feed the people of the British Isles in case of war. To protect the trade routes with this purpose a large fleet of air and water ships is necessary. To suggest that Britain shall give up her navy is to slap her in the face. So France has a problem, that of defence against a possible revived Germany. Germany was beaten but not by any means crushed, and she is showing wonderful signs of reviving. Other nations have other problems. That of the United States and Canada is chiefly on the Pacific Ocean, where the Oriental is getting a foothold and is commencing to menace industrial life and where there is danger of young Japan becoming too powerful for the peace of the world. All these are problems, and there are many more that the conference that meets today for the first time will be called upon to deal. Possibly by the time this is published the wires will have carried to us an outline of what steps it is intended shall be pursued.

Lloyd George's Words May Be Challenge.

When Lloyd George mentioned in his Guildhall address that the friendship between the United States and Britain was an unbreakable one he doubtless spoke with a purpose. The annual Lord Mayor's banquet is a place where the leaders of the British Government usually declare policies. In effect the Premier stated that while Britain wished to be allied with Japan, she is already allied to the United States by an unbreakable tie. It is an indication of the views of the British leader, uttered preparatory to the opening of the conference, and seemed like serving notice on Japan that in any friction with the United States the friendship between Britain and that country could not be broken.

How Many Women

with sensitive skins, but what dread another Canadian winter? Yet chapped hands, chilblains, cold sores and frost-bites are readily overcome by Zam-Buk. This famous balm keeps the skin smooth, healthy and flexible under most trying conditions. Zam-Buk's pure herbal essences are so highly refined that the pores and tissues absorb them readily. They take out smarting pain and irritation instantly, heal roughness and soreness, and prevent eczema and blood-poisoning. Miss B. Strojka, of East Hanford, N.S., writes: "My hands bleed and become so painfully chapped that I dare not put them in water. Zam-Buk caused smarting pain and soreness to quickly disappear and I continued to use it until my hands were thoroughly healed." Miss A. Leppard, of Beavercreek, Ont., writes: "Where other remedies all failed, Zam-Buk soon rid me of chilblains. It quickly ended the itching irritation, drew out the inflammation and healed perfectly." Also splendid in eczema, ulcers, abscesses, piles, poisoned wounds, cuts, burns and scalds. 50c., all dealers.

ADVERTISE FOR NURSE FOR PUBLIC SCHOOLS

Decision of School Board Last Night to Try to Secure Trained Woman.

At their meeting last night the school board decided to advertise for a trained school nurse. The matter was discussed the supervising principal explaining that he had been making inquiries in the south and found there were no trained nurses available. He urged that if possible one be secured.

It was decided to advertise and then the matter of appointment could be taken up along with the estimates.

FINGER PRINTS WAS MEANS OF SHOWING PRISONER A CONVICT

OTTAWA, Nov. 11.—Two years in St. Vincent de Paul penitentiary was the sentence imposed by Magistrate Millar upon Alfred Mills, of Ottawa, who, on Saturday, was found guilty of stealing $25 from the person of David Lawrence.

When the accused was called for sentence, Magistrate Millar informed him that he was an escaped convict from the Ohio state penitentiary, Mills, through finger print records furnished by the R.C.M.P., was shown to be Earle Barvin, alias Eddie Davis, who after being committed to an indefinite term in the penitentiary, escaped last September. Mills seemed surprised when he was confronted with his record, but had nothing to say in denial of it. It is likely that after he completes his two-year term in St. Vincent de Paul, he will be extradited to the United States and charged with jail breaking by the authorities.

FAMOUS COURT CASE COMING

Women Jurors Unprejudiced, But Sympathies Are With Plaintiff.

That Prinice Rupert may lead the Province in the matter of having women serve on a jury at the coming sitting of the High Court is one of the interesting possibilities. At this particular time with a Dominion election pending, the sheriff is having considerable trouble in securing a sufficient number of men, who are not already prejudiced; a recent ruling making precedent that should any man called for jury service admit to being already prejudiced, he is unfit to serve. This is giving the sheriff very much difficulty in securing the necessary twelve good men and true for the case which is interesting the community largely and the date for which being heard has already been fixed for November 23. The case is one of breach of promise and the first of its kind ever heard in the local courts.

No Secret.

Counsel for the plaintiff who has not hitherto been heard in a Prinice Rupert court, is, unlike most counsel, talking very much about his client and is making no secret of the evidence which he proposes to call. He has secured already a certain amount of public sympathy for the alleged injured lady, it which however, he has apparently overreached himself as the sheriff cannot now find an unprejudiced jury. His idea was of course to have a special Order in Council passed permitting women jurors to sit, but with Parliament being dissolved and the members of the late Government being busy with election matters, it is doubtful whether the necessary permission will reach here in time. And with women on the jury, the plaintiff's counsel was certain of obtaining substantial damages, as while unprejudiced, their sympathies would undoubtedly be with the lady in the case.

Morals Bad.

The defendant who will conduct his own case, denies any breach and says that although married, he is quite prepared to marry the other lady tomorrow. This aspect of the defence is a novel one and is based upon old statutes.

In legal circles there is considerable interest as to whether these old edicts, never repealed and therefore still law will carry any force in this generation, and in this old Crown colony. The statutes referred to date from the time of James II and his cousin Prinice Rupert, after whom this city is called. At that period, however, public and private morals were notoriously bad and it is a matter of question whether a bad law will be sustained just because it is law and has never been repealed.

On account of the local interest in the characters concerned and the peculiarity of the case, Court will sit in the Westinghouse Theatre during the evening of November 23 and admission will be by ticket and seats may be booked in the ordinary fashion at Orme's.

ENFORCE THE LAWS AGAINST ORIENTALS

Complaint Made That Chinese Laundries Were Operating on Sunday.

Commissioner Macdonald, at the Police Commission meeting last night, said complaints had been made of Chinese laundries in the city working on Sundays contrary to law while white laundries were conforming with the laws. He thought this should not be allowed.

Another complaint was that Chinese stores were allowed to deliver goods on Sunday while other stores were closed.

The Chief of Police was asked to look into these matters and see that there were no law infractions.

A committee consisting of Trustees Patmore and McLennan was appointed by the school board last night to confer with the school contractor and the architect over some extras at the new school for which payment was demanded by Mr. Godwin.
