The Empire Honors Her Noble Dead SHIPYARD TAKEN OVER MONDAY AND OPERATED BY RAILWAY

EDITORIAL MOMENTOUS MESSAGE

Three years ago today at 11 o'clock a. m. there was flashed across the globe, probably, one of the most momentous messages that this world had ever received. It said to the millions of men engaged in the most terrible and ghastly struggle of the century, "cease fire," and peace has been arranged. Looking back, even after the short years that have elapsed since the termination of the Titanic struggle, forced humanity through the necessity of right minded men taking a stand in the defense of the weaker and weaker nations against the world, as conducted today, it is hard for those who have survived to realize the crisis that mankind has passed through in such a comparatively short space of time. A tremendous upheaval of the earth and upsetting of our cherished and in many ways, as yet, unshaken beliefs, has been the means of broadening our vision and bringing us into closer touch with the peoples of other lands, who have suffered and gone through such a series of similar heart-breaking tragedies and sufferings. In touch with every other part of the British Empire, as well as other parts of the world, forgetting the enemy countries, the word "Armistice" will be a word to the right and the one thing that has been the terrible years between 1914 and November 1918, millions of human beings were fighting for cessation of hostilities, "peace."

All Look Forward.

In the ordinary man, who is back and tries to piece together more his actual feelings when he, in company with others, realized that word he had been waiting for had actually been pronounced, it is almost impossible to realize that the experiences through were other than a dream. However, today we all once again what is termed military parlance "as you try," trying in our various capacities to "carry on" and make the most of the situation and enjoy the spell of the granted to us in the allotted time in which it has pleased to place us. There should be no cynical or critical looking backwards or comment on what has taken place in the past. Everyone should look forward, with the one aim in mind to make this world a better and happier place for all of us to live in, and try to profit by the experiences and lessons of the last few tragic years, so that after all the sacrifices of millions of our fellow countrymen made in doing what they thought their duty as they were made in vain. This seems to be the message to be conveyed to all, on commemorating Armistice Day.

Railway Takes Over Shipyard On Monday Morning: Is Said Will Do Railway Work Here

On Monday the railway company takes charge of the local shipyard and will operate it under the management of J. H. Pillsbury. Most of the present staff of shop foremen will be retained and the ship repair work will proceed as usual. This closes the work of the Wallace Company at this port for the present.

While there is nothing definite to announce yet, it is understood it is the intention of the railway company to do a good deal of its car repair work at the yard in this city, as well as building cars and other railway work. The yard is admirably fitted for such a purpose and if this gets going, according to the intimation, there will be a busy time here. There is no other place on the system so well suited for the work and with such good machinery and favorable conditions.

TERRACE WANTS BRIDGE BUILT

Monster Petition Has Been Signed
and Forwarded to Victoria
Asking Action.

TERRACE, Nov. 11.—A monster petition to the Government of British Columbia asking it to proceed at once with the bridge across the Skeena River at this point has been signed by everyone in the district. The petition states that the people are willing to abide by the decision of the engineers of the department as to the site.

It is understood that the reason for delay in commencing the bridge has been the fact that the people here could not agree where it should be built, one part of the district pulling against the other. Now they have agreed that what they need is a bridge and the experts shall decide where it is to go.

The people here are also very keen to have the road to Kitsumkalum Lake put in shape for traffic. An immense number of oil claims have been staked and there is a mill established at one of the mines. What is needed now is means of transportation.

RAISED FROM MURKY WATERS

Olier Desner's New Studebaker
Brought to Surface and Lifted Out.

Olier Desner's new car, which ran backwards and fell into the waters of the harbor on Wednesday was yesterday afternoon salvaged by Swanson's boat. Pachea aided by Albert & McCaffery's crane. A diver was sent down and affixed a rope to the submerged vehicle. Then it was raised with windlasses and towed to the Albert & McCaffery wharf where it was lifted clear by the big steel crane and landed safely on the wharf.

The top of the car had disappeared and will not be recovered. A new one will have to be built to replace the other.

The men who fell in the water are today none the worse for their ducking.

The school board at their regular meeting last night decided to accede to the desire of the committee in charge of the installation of the Booth tablet at the new school and change the name to the Booth Memorial School. This will be briefer and more suitable, it is thought.

On the tablet will be mention of the reason for the name and hung in the building will be an enlarged photograph of the late Sergeant William Booth, together with the medals and ribbons of the deceased soldier after whom the school is named.

The committee reported that up to the present they had collected $291.24 toward the fund with which to erect the tablet.

IN FLANDERS FIELDS

The first of these three poems was suggested to an enlisted medical man of Montreal, Canada, at the beginning of the battle of Ypres, by the sight of the devastation of Belgium. The second was written, as an answer to the first, by the State Librarian of Ohio. The third was composed by a priest of Lennox, a small place in Lincoln County, North Dakota.

1. The Call (1915)

In Flanders fields the poppies grow
Between the crosses, row on row,
That mark our place; and in the sky
The larks, still bravely singing, fly,
Scarce heard amid the guns below.
We are the dead. Short days ago
We lived, felt dawn, saw sunsets glow,
Loved and were loved, and now—we lie
In Flanders fields.

Take up our quarrel with the foe:
To you from failing hands we throw
The torch. Be yours to hold it high.
If ye break faith with us who die
We shall not sleep, though poppies blow
In Flanders fields.

2. The Pledge (1915)

In Flanders fields the cannon boom
And flitful flashes light the gloom,
While up above like eagles fly
The fierce destroyers of the sky.
With stains the earth wherein you lie
Is redder than the poppy bloom
In Flanders fields.

Sleep on, ye brave. The shrieking shell,
The quaking trench, the startled yell,
The fury of the battle hell
Shall wake you not, for all is well.
Your flaming torch aloft we bear,
With burning heart an oath we swear
To keep the faith, to fight it through,
To crush the foe, or sleep with you
In Flanders fields.

3. The Fulfilment (1918)

In Flanders fields the poppies bloom
Above your lowly, hallowed tomb.
That your brave deeds may never die
The torch of freedom, lifted high,
Shall shine forever where you lie.
No more in Flanders fields will grow
The crosses, endless row on row:
For crushed and conquered lies the foe.
We kept the faith. We've seen it through,
Our myriad brave lie dead with you
In Flanders fields.

Sweet be your rest. Our task is done;
The tramp of armies, boom of gun,
The furious cry of savage Hun
Are silent now. The victory's won.
Peace to your souls. The victory's won
In Flanders fields.
