GERMAN SHOPS ARE REOPENING

BERLIN, Oct. 18.—The principal former military and naval work-shops of the German government, which were closed in 1919 in accordance with the treaty of Versailles, have been reopened as "peace-time factories" and are producing goods more adapted to usages of peace than war.

Two hundred thousand workmen, thrown out of employment by the closing of the shops, have been re-employed.

Among the larger factories converted from military to commercial pursuits were the artillery workshops, ammunition gun, powder and fireworks laboratories at Amberg, Dachau, Cassel, Erfurt, Ingolstadt, Lippstadt, Munich, Siegburg, Spandau and Wolfzang, near Hanau, as well as the navy yards and naval torpedo shops at Friedrichsort, Kiel and Ruestringen.

Operate Full Time. These factories are operating virtually full time, producing foundry products, castings and wrought iron stamped and drawn pieces, all sorts of machinery, railroad supplies, motors, motorcycles, hand and machine tools, pneumatic tools, electrical utensils, ship machinery, motor and sailing boats, agricultural implements, furniture, locomotives, railroad cars, automobiles and auto-trucks.

The work of transforming the war factories to commercial uses, undertaken by the government with the permission of the Council of Ambassadors, was assigned to a stock company, shares of which were taken by the government, the board of control being composed of government officials and representative financiers and industrialists.

Ready Market. German demands are accounting for most of the output of these factories but surplus products are finding a ready outside market, particularly in the Scandinavian countries, where the high price of money as against the attractiveness of purchases of German wares. German-made automobiles are especially in demand by foreign dealers.

The manufacturers of farm machinery and railroad equipment are looking to Russia as a chief customer as soon as conditions in that country have been established and already hundreds of representatives of German exporting firms have gone into the Soviet republic to study the situation and prepare for a commercial offensive, in which the British are expected to be the most alert competitors.
