HERRING CHASED BY SEA LIONS

Driven Ashore on Prince of Wales Island in Countless Numbers

Chased up on the beach by a great herd of sea lions, thousands of herring were beached on the shore of the Inlet at Klwak on the west coast of Prince of Wales Island, recently, according to members of the crew of the Light-house tender Fern, which stopped there.

"They shone like a great live silver horde," says First Officer Charles H. Nerup, and in places were several inches deep. The sea lions were so plentiful in the bay that none dared venture across in a small boat.

Millions of herring spawn in the vicinity of Klwak each year, especially on Fish Egg Island, where natives from Graiz and Klwak have for years gathered eggs and dried them for food. There were so many herring in the inlet last Thursday that when the sea lions appeared they simply crowded each other up on the beach, where they were left by the receding tide.

MORSE CREEK BRIDGE WORK

Bents are Now Up from Both Ends—Should be Finished April 11

The putting up of the bents for the new Morse Creek bridge is proceeding steadily under Contractor E. H. Shockley, who now has about a dozen men working on the job. The approach from the western or Section 2 end is now up as far as the wye tracks and from the east end as far as the foot of the Second Avenue rock dump. H. L. Landry, the city building inspector, is spending a good deal of his time on the job, which he is supervising carefully. The contract signed by Mr. Shockley calls for the completion of the bridge by April 7, three months after the date of signing.

MISS MARGARET MORGAN APPOINTED MATRON OF HOSPITAL AT SIMPSON

Miss Margaret Morgan, a graduate of the local general hospital and one of Prince Rupert's best known girls, has received a temporary appointment as matron of the Port Simpson hospital and leaves at the end of the week to take up her new duties. Miss Morgan had intended going to California and was all ready to leave on last night's steamer for the south when the appointment was made.

Miss K. M. Laing, who was called east four months ago on account of the illness of her sister, has resigned after a number of years as matron at Port Simpson. Miss Macdonald, who has since been in temporary charge, has also resigned.

POLICE COMMISSION RECOGNIZE SERVICE

Sergeant Adams is Given Month's Salary on Leaving Force After Long Service.

At the police commission meeting it was decided to give Sgt. Adams, who leaves the force at the end of the month, a month's extra salary as a mark of appreciation of the ten years' faithful service rendered in police work. This will also assist the officer in getting settled at Victoria. The officer disclaims the report that he had cleaned up $30,000 "graff" during his service and the police commission is also unanimous in refuting the report. Sergeant Adams and his family will leave for their new home on March 31.
