GOLD FISH GIVEN AWAY

Hundreds Being Distributed to Customers Today at Ormes.

Like sending coals to Newcastle was the arrival of a shipment of fish in the city this week from Ohio. Prince Rupert sends fish by the car load to the United States and it is seldom that our big neighbor to the south has any to export here. These, however, were no ordinary fish. They were fish with a pedigree, raised by one of the largest breeders in the world. And breeding fish for the market is no ordinary occupation.

Two big tanks were sent here by express. The water had to be changed daily and the fish fed by the expressmen enroute, which also was no ordinary job for an expressman. It was no habit, however, but goldfish, and they are to be seen at Orme's Sixth Street Drug Store today. They are lively little things and seem to be none the worse as a result of their long trip. The youngsters are specially interested in watching them dart around, reflecting every ray of sunshine. As a pair of gold fish in a glass bowl are being given away free, every child in the city is already wanting to have some. Parents should see to it that they secure a bowl at once before they are "all gone."
