LOOKING BACKWARD

The National City Bank of New York in its monthly letter discusses the recent Ottawa conference and says that it failed to realize the hopes of its promoters. It says the result of the conference vindicated the judgment of the orthodox British economists who always have held that the moral and political unity of the Empire would be more surely maintained by a policy allowing Great Britain and her scattered Dominions to manage their business affairs independently and with sole reference to the particular circumstances of each, than to attempt to have a common and exclusive economic policy.

The letter throws doubt on the value of the wheat preference but admits that a certain amount of inter-Empire trade may result. After discussing the various phases of the conference the article concludes:

"From our viewpoint it is something to regret that the Conference did not yield results more satisfactory to the participants. It may be said to have reflected the state of disorder existing generally in international trade. The British peoples are as hard-headed, practical and intelligent as any in the world, and if they cannot find a broader basis than this for trade among themselves there does not appear to be much reason for expecting an improvement in trade relations elsewhere in the near future."

Canadian banks are strangely silent in regard to the result of the conference. The monthly letter of the Royal Bank while discussing the wheat situation does not mention the Conference as a factor in the marketing of Canadian crops.

Canadian newspapers have viewed the conference with optimism which is probably best summed up in the words of one of the smaller eastern dailies:

"One may criticize some of the details, but this is a minor matter, for no one can gainsay the fact that the business delegates at Ottawa have laid a wonderful foundation for the building of Empire trade."

TERRACE FOR FRUIT

This season fruit and berry growers at Terrace and Remo have been supplying the Prince Rupert market with an excellent product so that many people are now looking to the people there to supply their needs. Merchants have been handling the fruit and paying good prices for it, much better than the prices paid in the south so that the interior growers have been able to benefit.

Now that the price of land around Terrace is down and that a market for the goods is being established, there seems no good reason why that district should not make good progress in the next few years.

Prince Rupert people prefer to buy Terrace fruit when they can get it because it arrives in better condition than from Southern British Columbia.

Brought to Canada to Learn Nursing

Hong Kong Girl is Now Ready to Start Upon Her Studies

MONTREAL, Sept. 9.—To become a nurse so that she may return to Hong Kong and be of service to the people of her native city is the ambition of Rose Wong, who was brought to this country by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. Wong of this city, at the age of four months. She was educated in Montreal High School and Highland Manor School,

Kerrytown, N.Y., and is now preparing to enter the School of Nursing at John Hopkins University. "I now nurses are very few in Hong Kong and I plan to return there to work," said Miss Wong, this serious-minded Chinese girl, who is very pretty and very much a Westerner.

A delegation from the local Rotary Club is planning a visit to Ketchikan, leaving on Sunday, September 13. HOME GAS GRAND OLD B. C. MADE MAN PASSES

Company Has Investment of Over Two Million Dollars in Province; Growth Remarkable
Robert Corlett Died at Terrace on Labor Day at Age of Eighty

TERRACE, Sept. 9.—Following a sudden apoplectic attack, Robert Corlett, one of the best known and most prominent pioneer residents of the Terrace district, passed away at his home on Monday evening of this week before medical aid could be summoned. Born in England and over eighty years of age, he was often affectionately referred to as "The Grand Old Man" of the Kitsumkalum and Lakelse district.

On Labor Day the late Mr. Corlett was around town as usual and was having his supper early in the evening with a view to attending a lodge meeting afterwards. During the meal he got up to take a drink of water and fell unconscious to the floor. The doctor was summoned but life had passed before he was able to arrive.

Throughout life, the late Mr. Corlett was always active and energetic and enjoyed consistently good health. He was a member of the board of village commissioners, school board, fair board and Farmer's Institute, and took a prominent part in municipal affairs. On his eightieth birthday last year he was made noble grand of the local Oddfellows' Lodge. He also belonged to the Orange Lodge. He was a life-long and devoted Conservative. For years he ranched in the Lakelse Valley, having taken up land there before the advent of the railway. Several years ago he moved into town.

Last spring, the late Mr. Corlett was married to Miss Donald. His widow survives him. A previous wife predeceased him. There were one son and two daughters of the first union all living in the United States.

Deceased was always an enthusiastic supporter of athletics and, out of respect to his memory, a baseball game scheduled for Labor Day was called off.

Funeral on Wednesday
The funeral service was held on Wednesday at 3:30 p.m. from the I. O. O. F. Hall and was conducted by members of that lodge, assisted by the Rev. C. W. McKim of the Anglican Church. The service was very largely attended by sympathizing friends.

Following the Oddfellows' burial service at the Kitsumkalum Cemetery the Orange Lodge conducted their burial service. Pallbearers were R. M. Cory, E. T. Kenney, H. King, W. H. Oliver, J. McLaren and H. A. Swain.

The casket was banked with numerous floral tributes; mute testimony to Mr. Corlett's popularity in the district.

Partners of Gold Rush Are Buried At Joint Service

Funeral services for Patrick Mannion and Michael Richard Henry, who were partners in the Yukon Gold Rush days, were held jointly in Vancouver on Tuesday morning of this week. Mannion died recently at Telegraph Creek while Hussey passed away in the General Hospital at Vancouver. As they were old friends, it was considered appropriate that they should be buried together.

The funeral service took place in St. Patrick's Roman Catholic Church, Vancouver, and was followed by interment in Ocean View Burial Park. Old friends acted as pallbearers.

Among the mourners were Rev. Mother Cecilia and Rev. Sister Louise of Presentation Convent, Aberdeen, South Dakota, sisters of Mr. Hussey and nieces of Mr. Mannion.
