Are We Clannish
In This City?

Sometimes we are said to be very clannish in this city. We have English, Scottish, native Canadian, Scandinavian and Catholic societies. We have about all the fraternal organizations there are going, and politically we are not missing much. That prevents us from being clannish. It is our salvation.

Take as an instance the matter of nationality. Scotsmen are proverbially clannish. They have a society where some of them spend their evenings together and meet in pleasant association. This would tend to narrowness were it not that there are other influences at work. One Scotsman is a member of the Elks and another perhaps is a Mason. One is a Liberal and the other a Conservative. These diverse interests tend to overcome the clannishness that would otherwise very soon be apparent.

In some cases there are groupings according to churches and along comes the leaven of other interests which breaks up the church clannishness, and we get a community that mixes well. It is a community in which one is apt to have a large circle of acquaintances. It has many advantages over the big city, for people here are less inclined to snobbishness than in most places. It is a good place in which to live.

Very Cosmopolitan
Are People Here.

There are few places in the world where people of more different nationalities are grouped together into a little community than are found here. Very few countries of the world are missed in the makeup of the place. Natives of every country in Europe and most countries in Asia are here. Languages most varied are spoken, in addition to the national language. Possibly half the population can speak some other language than English. Yet we all agree well and the younger generation who go to our public schools speak the same language, acknowledge the same flag, adopt the same customs and are taught the same subjects. There is no differentiation. We are a community, and in time we shall gain that homogeneity that makes for nationhood.

Danger of Becoming Peculiar People.

At this distance from the rest of the world there is just a little danger of our becoming different from other people. A concentrated community acquires characteristics that set it apart, so that when members of that community again mix with the world they are found to be odd. Against that we have to guard. The saving custom is that of residents making periodic trips to the outside on holiday or business bent. Gradually we are becoming large enough to be important and people are coming here on business or for holiday trips, and the more travel there is this way the less likely we are to become provincial in our manners and customs. It is not good for any person to stay in Prince Rupert for a decade without stepping out for a short time to see how the rest of the world does things. Narrowness of outlook has to be carefully guarded against, and the only way to offset the tendency toward narrowness is to read a good deal and to mix freely with other people, and especially with people from other places.

Value of Library
In Place Like This.

This leads naturally to the suggestion that a public library is a necessity in a place like this. Reading helps to put people in touch with the thought and custom of other places. It has a broadening influence. For this purpose modern literature is as necessary as classical literature.

A lending and reference library is one of the essentials of modern city life, and especially in a city like Prince Rupert. Citizens should be encouraged to read and study and should be given every facility to do so. We cannot afford to be without a library in a city like this. People are hungry for books, and those who are not could be encouraged to read. The present seems a very opportune time to take this matter up and make it an accomplished fact.

BIG FISH TOWED
VANDERBILT, THEN
LEFT HIM BEHIND

LIVERPOOL, N. S., Sept. 21.—W. K. Vanderbilt, New York financier, was towed six and a half miles out to sea here the other day by a big fish. The finny monster, species tuna, which must have weighed about five hundred pounds, judging by the horsepower developed, took Mr. Vanderbilt's hook when he was out looking for that very fish on a small boat with J. C. Baxter, of New York and L. D. Mitchell, who arranged the party. They gave him line and more line and played him for the fish that he was as he pulled them rapidly away from shore. Three miles and a half outside the international limit, the tuna grew peevish and gradually gave over the struggle permitting himself to be led by the nose to within three quarters of a mile from land. Here the gods of the deep played trump and jamming Mr. Vanderbilt's line allowed him to drop the hook on a slack and sail away—a wiser tuna.

Another Lost.
The knickerbocker disciples of Isaak Walton ran in further hard luck the same day when Mr. Baxter hooked another big fish and lost him with three hundred yards of valuable line. However, they were satisfied with the sport and Mr. Vanderbilt, who came here in his yacht "Eagle" especially to get a tuna, says he is coming back again next year.

Many people read newspapers as much for their advertising columns as they do for news.

Low—11:56 a.m., 8.9 feet.

The time used is Pacific Standard, for the 120th Meridian west. It is counted from 0 to 24 hours, from midnight to midnight.

The table given is for Port Simpson but the time for Prince Rupert varies only a few minutes on some days and on others is the same. The range of the tide may be computed as 5 per cent greater at Prince Rupert than at Port Simpson both at springs and neaps. Therefore the rise in the Prince Rupert harbor is slightly greater than Port Simpson.

The height is in feet and tenths of feet above the average level of lower low water.

A NUT came off the machine. It was a political machine, and the nut is still off.

THE latest sport is betting on how long it is going to take to pave Second Avenue. One man has wagered a dollar that it won't be finished this year.

PRINCE Rupert has always been noted for its negative attitude. When Carnegie wanted to give the city a library they threw it back in his teeth and felt horribly righteous over it. When they had a chance to build up a real city by encouraging a hydro-electric concern, the citizens refused it and kept the city struggling along. Now a pulp mill is proposed and a lot of citizens quibble over giving them a little waste water to help float the company. Well, well! If it was whiskey now?

NOW that the election is coming on it is about time we were getting some tall timber for some of the politicians to take to.

THE way of the transgressor is hard and yet the way is terribly crowded all the time. It seems to me that people must like hard things.

ONE thing about the younger generation, the boys will never learn to curry the old mare or hitch up the team of 2:42 pacers to the old democrat.

SYNOPSIS OF LAND ACT AMENDMENTS

Minimum price of first-class land reduced to $5 an acre; second-class to $2.50 an acre.

Pre-emption now confined to surveyed lands only.

Records will be granted covering only land suitable for agricultural purposes and which is non-timber land.

Where pre-emptor is occupation more than 3 years, and has made improvements, he may be granted intermediate certificate of improvement and transfer his claim.

Records without permanent residence may be issued, provided applicant makes improvements to extent of $250 per acre and records same each year. Failure to make improvements or record same will operate as forfeiture. Title cannot be obtained in less than 3 years, and improvements of $100.00 per acre, including 5 acres cleared and cultivated, and residence of not less than 2 years are required.

Pre-emptor holding Crown Grant may record another pre-emption, if he requires land in conjunction with his first, without actual occupation, provided statutory improvements made and residence maintained on Crown Grant land.

Unsurveyed areas, not exceeding 20 acres, may be leased as homesteads, title to be obtained after fulfilling conditions and improvement conditions.

For grazing and industrial purposes areas exceeding 640 acres may be leased by one person or company.

Mill, factory or industrial site on timber land not exceeding 40 acres may be purchased; conditions include payment of stumpage.

Natural hay meadows inaccessible by existing roads may be purchased additional upon construction of a road to them. Rebate of one-half of cost of road, not exceeding half of purchase price, is made.

PRE-EMPTORS' FREE GRANTS ACT.

The scope of this Act is enlarged to include all persons joining and serving with His Majesty's Forces. The time within which the heirs or devisees of a deceased pre-emptor may apply for title under the Act is extended from one year from the death of such person, as formerly, until one year after the conclusion of the great war. This privilege is also made retrospective.

No fees relating to pre-emptions are due or payable by soldiers on pre-emptions recorded after June 28, 1915. Taxes are remitted for five years. Provision for return of money accrued, due and paid since August 4, 1914, on account of payments, fees or taxes on pre-emptions.

Interest on agreements to purchase town or city lots held by members of the Forces or devisees, acquired direct or indirect, remitted from installment to March 31, 1920.

SUB-PURCHASERS OF CROWN LANDS

Provision made for issuance of Crown grants to sub-purchasers of Crown lands, acquiring rights from purchasers who failed to complete purchase, involving forfeiture, on fulfillment of conditions of purchase, interest and taxes. Where sub-purchasers do not claim whole of original purchase price due and taxes may be distributed proportionately over whole area. Applications must be made by May 1, 1920.

GRAZING. 1915 for systematic development of livestock industry provides for grazing districts and range administration under Commissioner.

Annual grazing permits issued based on numbers ranked, priority for established owners. Stock-owners may form Associations for range management. Free, or partially free, permits for settlers, campers or travellers, up to ten head.
