WRIGLEY ISSUES NEW DIRECTORY GIVING REVISED POPULATION

Sixty new communities have come into existence in the province during the past year, bring the total number to 2,209. The new settlements are largely created by the occupation of new lands by soldier settlers and are indication of the growth of the basic agricultural industry in British Columbia. That is from information given in the new Wrigley directory.
Roy Wrigley, head of the firm, is highly pleased with his product. The population of the province is given in a conservative estimate at 609,000, as compared with the figures of 718,000 by the Dominion statistician, R. H. Coats. The increase in the rural district has been remarkable. The following table shows the increase in communities, the arrival of families settling in
