Churchill Should Tour Dominions.

The London Times suggests that Right Hon. Winston Churchill should tour the Dominions. Such a trip would have a broadening effect on the Chief Secretary of State for the Colonies and would enable him to gauge the public sentiment of the overseas dominions with which he will have to deal.

Scotland's Day Was Yesterday.

Scotland's Day was yesterday. It was the anniversary of the birth of a famous poet who has left a lasting impression on the whole English speaking world. St. Andrew may be the patron saint of Scotland, but the memory of Burns is the memory they love to keep green.

Crosby School And the Loss.

The loss of the school at Port Simpson is a serious one in that it interferes with the education of a number of Indian girls who promise to make good citizens. The girls and teachers are left without any of their personal belongings except the clothes in which they escaped, and the teachers did not even rescue their own clothes.

Premier Mine Again in Limelight.

The Premier mine is again in the limelight. Another strike of rich ore is reported and active shipping and development is going on. Also there is litigation in progress to define the actual ownership of the mine. Pat Daly, apparently sets a high value on the property judging by the claim based on ten million dollars for less than a half interest.

SURRENDER TO SOVIET

LONDON, Jan. 25.—The proposed Russo-British trade agreement is declared by the London Times to be "a complete surrender to Soviet sentiment."

STOPPED HER HEADACHES

Years Of Suffering Ended By "Fruit-a-lives"

112 HAZEN ST., ST. JOHN, N. B.
'It is with pleasure that I write to tell you of the great benefit I received from the use of your medicine "Fruit-a-lives", made from fruit juices. I was a great sufferer for many years from Nervous Headaches and Constipation. I tried everything, consulted doctors; but nothing seemed to help me until I tried "Fruit-a-lives".

UNITED STATES ANXIOUS FOR DISARMAMENT

Three Resolutions Before Congress Looking to Some Move to Lift Load of Expenditures

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26.—Disarmament has focussed the attention of both houses of the United States Congress recently and the general public as well and there appears to be a well-defined desire in the United States that the nations should take a step in that direction to relieve the people of the heavy burden of taxation which it entails. Three resolutions on the subject have been introduced in Congress and are under discussion by the various committees to which they were referred before going before either the Senate or House of Representatives for definite action.

The movement started just over a month ago with the presentation of a joint resolution by Senator Walsh of Montana, one of the ablest legal minds in the Senate and a Democratic leader, who expressed the earnest desire of the United States government to cooperate with the League of Nations through its council or commission appointed for that purpose in the formulation of plans looking to a general reduction in armaments. Senator Walsh expressed regret that President Wilson had not accepted the invitation of the Council of the League of Nations to appoint a United States member of the commission created to deal with international disarmament. He undertook to demonstrate that the invitation might well have been accepted without in any way committing the United States to support of the League itself, which thought was in the presidential mind. His resolution was referred to the Committee on Foreign Relations where it now is being considered with others on the same subject.

Not long afterwards Senator Borah, the pugnacious Republican "bitter-ender" from Idaho, who has been fighting the League at every turn, introduced a resolution directing the President to take up with the governments of Great Britain and Japan the question of disarmament with the purpose of securing an agreement to reduce their naval building program fifty per cent within a period of five years. Senator Borah said he was impelled to offer this resolution because Premier Uchida of Japan had publicly stated that "The Japanese government could not even consent to consider a program of disarmament on account of the building program of the United States."

Representative Brooks of Illinois, Republican, also introduced in the House a resolution authorizing the President to call an international convention to consider projects for the limitation and reduction of armaments. There also have been received by Congress a number of petitions from women's organizations, and peace elements begging Congress to forward this great object.

It happened disarmament was thus forced upon the attention of Congress at the time the committees of the two Houses were engaged in drafting the great annual army and navy appropriation bills. It soon became evident that it was powerfully influencing Congress in its treatment of these appropriations. Naturally it was argued that if there was any reasonable chance to secure limitation of armaments, these expenditures might be greatly reduced. This possibly quickly engaged the interest of the ways and means committee of the House and of the finance committee of the Senate, which committees are now struggling with the problem of devising new means of taxation to meet the deficiencies resulting from the war. Naturally the military and naval committees of Congress also were drawn into consideration of the disarmament project as it affected their own plans for army and naval reorganization which devolves upon the present Congress.
