Further Particulars of Fatality Which Befel James Smith

James Smith, aged 53, was drowned at Anyox near the buildings east of the slagpile.

Deceased was on the gasboat "Alida," while his partner, J. E. (Deafy) Forsman, was busy unloading lumber from the gasboat to a rowboat and taking it ashore. Smith was observed to jump or fall off the gasboat into the water and Forsman promptly started towards him in the rowboat. When about a hundred and fifty feet from him. however, Smith went down and was not seen again.

The police were promptly notified and dragging operations commenced at once but, owing to a strong win dand rough sea, these were unsuccessful. They have been continued since. Smith came to Anyov with Forsman about two weeks ago and they went fishing together. He was formerly a tent and sail-maker at Prince Rupert, conducting his own business. He was an ex-service man, having served in the 35th Battalion, Canadian Infantry, as quartermaster-sergeant.

Smith was well known in Prince Rupert, being an ex-president of the Prince Rupert branch of the Canadian Legion. For about three TO HOLD weeks prior to his death Smith was said to be in a very despondent mood. It is understood that he has a son in Prince Rupert.
