People Triumphant

All Along the Line.

"The people triumphant" is being heard all along the line. All the information coming in from north, south, east and west is to the effect that the people of Canada are awakening to a realization of the fact that they have been governed by the money bags of the nation and that they want no more of it. They are preparing to throw off the domination of the big interests, and Skeena electoral district will take its part in the great movement. Mackenzie King says he expects one-half of the constituencies of British Columbia to return Liberals. If present indications can be taken as a forecast of what will happen on December 6, Mr. King will get good measure, pressed down and running over, from this province.

There is taking place throughout the country one of the great revolutionary movements of the age, the revolution of the people against the controlling interests that have milked them dry.

Labor Tells

Sordid Tale.

Ask James... Murdock, the labor leader, who was at one time a member of the Board of Commerce, placed in the position for the purpose of controlling prices in the Dominion. Ask him what he thinks of the Meighen Government that has had the support and confidence of Colonel Peck. He can unfold a tale and has unfolded it. He tells that he was given fatherly advice from the members of the Government—the Government that Peck supported—not to do anything that might inconvenience the big interests. They were expected to make a show of controlling prices but to allow the profiteers to make even larger and yet larger profits at the expense of the people who were ground down by high wartime prices. These are the people to whom Fred Stork is opposed. Has Colonel Peck said he is opposed to them? Did he not support them as long as he was able, right up to the last vote, and then when he returned here he made a tour through the constituency with one of their chief supporters, a member of that same Government. That is why the people are going to vote for Fred Stork at this election.

Casting Slurs on

Liberal Leader.

An attempt is being made in some quarters to cast a slur on the wartime record of the leader of the Liberal party. He did not accept a commission as an officer in the Canadian army and join the throng of officers overseas. There was no scarcity of officers. There were often more than were needed. Mr. King had other gifts and these he gave to his country, with far greater effect than anything he could have done as a junior officer. True he had a blind father and an invalid mother, both of whom have died since, and also a dependent sister and a tubercular brother, but these were not the reasons for his remaining on this continent rather than following the crowd to Europe. He was given work in connection with increased production on this continent, both in Canada and the United States. He spent much of his time straightening out labor tangles and keeping the supplies of ammunition and food rolling forward to back up the men who were fighting at the front. There was no more reason why Mackenzie King should have gone to the front from this country than that Lloyd George should have left his post in Britain and led the armies in France. He had to combat the German conspiracy, and it required a keen intellect and courage and diplomacy of the right kind to get results. That he was successful is a great recommendation. It was the best possible training he could have had to fit him for leading the nation through the present tumultuous and difficult times.

Now Turn to Another Picture.

Let the Vancouver World tell the story of the bargain in soldier votes:

"After all, murder will out. The Tilsonburg speech of Mr. Charles Murphy, former secretary of state, exposing the Unionist Government plot to steal the votes of 80,000 soldiers overseas in the 1917 election only gives in detail form what many people had seen in process of being carried out.

"Doubt about the matter, of course, was removed when Colonel Frank Reid of the Canadian headquarters staff, having delivered 128,000 votes instead of the 80,000 he had contracted for, failed to get the brigadier-generalship and the honor of being made a Companion of the Bath, which had been promised him as his reward. Colonel Reid, in retaliation, disclosed the correspondence and telegrams passing between himself and his eminent fellow conspirators.

"Colonel Reid's annoyance was primarily directed against Sir Robert Borden. He had received a written request from Sir Robert's election agent asking for 100 votes for the Premier's constituency. He had enquired which other constituencies 'required attention' had had been thanked for having changed the results in five Halifax constituencies.

"The episode of the gallant chancery office soldier hungering for a generalship and a C. B., agreeing to win them by delivering 80,000 Unionist votes and then disappointed of his reward, might be forgotten today were it not that Premier Arthur Meighen was among the beneficiaries. A telegram signed by Mr. Meighen is one of the interesting exhibits in the Reid controversy. It asked for one thousand votes for Manitoba, specifying how they were divided—300 for Selkirk and the balance equally divided between Provencher, Macdonald and Springfield.

"No more sordid and shameful spectacle could be well imagined than gentlemen in uniform bargaining with political agents for promotion and honors at a price to be paid in soldier's votes. The soldiers whose votes were, as Mr. Murphy picturesquely put it, "done up in sacks like so many bushels of grain and diverted as seemed best in the uncertain ridings," must especially resent the shameful trafficking in their overseas vote."

MURDOCK CAUSES CONSTERNATION IN CONSERVATIVE CAMP

TORONTO, Nov. 21.—That James Murdock's speeches have caused considerable alarm in Conservative circles has more than once been manifest. His work on the Board of Commerce was a real and valuable service to the consumers in this country in so far as he showed why and where they were paying too much for the necessities of life, and how many of those who are now so solicitous for the return of the Meighen party were the chief beneficiaries under that Government's benevolent regime. Had the Board of Commerce been allowed to do the work for which it was created there would have been vigorous prosecution and a rigorous reduction of prices on necessities of life instead of the benevolence which left the consumers incensed but helpless.

JENNEY GOES EAST

Will Take Position at General Agent for Canadian National at New York.

Charles E. Jenney, district passenger agent, Canadian National Railways, Vancouver, has been appointed general agent for the Canadian National Railways at New York and will take up his new duties at the American metropolis next month.

Mr. Jenney is one of the most popular officials in British Columbia transportation circles, and his many friends, while wishing him every success in his new sphere, will regret his departure from the coast. Prior to the absorption of the Grand Trunk Pacific by the Canadian National Railways, Mr. Jenney was general agent in charge at the Vancouver office, being succeeded by Osborne Scott, following the amalgamation of the railway lines. Since that time he has been district passenger agent in charge of steamship traffic.

Ten Years Ago in Prince Rupert

November 24, 1911.

C. W. White, secretary of the Vancouver branch of the B. C. Library Association, has written to the council to ascertain if the city can arrange for a Carnegie Library here. The matter may come before the ratepayers at the next municipal election.

Active steps are being taken to form a Ratepayers' Association in Prince Rupert. A number of the ratepayers met last night and discussed preliminary arrangements.

Ald. Morrissey says he will apply for an injunction if the trunk sewer bylaw providing for an outlet into Hays Creek passes. "It will make a niche hatchery of the creek," he says.

TWO LAWYERS FROM ONE FIRM

Lougheed and Bennett Are Both Ministers in Meighen Government.

Government orators are overwhelmed with panic when they see, or think they see, the bogey of class government in the distance. But just look over the men whom Mr. Meighen has appointed to his cabinet to represent the prairies, the Manitoba Free Press suggests. Here they are: Arthur Meighen, lawyer, of Portage la Prairie; Sir James Lougheed, lawyer, of the firm of Lougheed & Bennett, Calgary, and R. B. Bennett, lawyer, of the firm of Lougheed & Bennett, Calgary. Three lawyers from three provinces predominantly agricultural in character—two of these lawyers from the same office!

And two of the three—Messrs. Bennett and Lougheed—are identified with corporation interests, says the Free Press. It is this sort of thing which has bred class feeling among a section of the farmers. They think that, since class representation in the government is an established institution, they are entitled to some representation themselves. But Mr. Meighen frowns upon their presumption. He has twenty-one colleagues, and not a farmer among them.

WOULD TRAIN BOYS TO PLAY IN BAND

An effort is to be made to train young boys to take their places in the G.W.V.A. band. With that object in view it has been decided to start a school of instruction for lads at the G. W. V. A. rooms with a view to teaching them instruments which may be used later in the band. Boys must be fourteen years of age. With a view to getting a class started, a meeting will be held at 8 p.m. in the G.W.V.A. rooms to which all interested are invited.

The Man in the Moon SAYS—

IT must be said that Mr. Justice Pattinson conducts a rather unusual court.

HE last night gave a good example of courtship.

POOR Frank, and he did feel bad when the lady said she loved him.

The eggs from cold storage I view with alarm. But if I don't eat them They'll do me no harm.

Ah, how I abhor it. That last week made pie. But if I don't eat it I may never die.

And politics a touch of it As old as the hills. If you take too much off it You'll also need pills.

GOOD intentions are all right, but the bank does not lend much money on them.

BY the time the Prince of Wales becomes king he should be worthy of a place on the Government front benches rather than being stacked away as a social centre. This dodging clubs is hardly in line with the pink tea business.

THERE are plenty of candidates in the field and the pity is they can't have the election tomorrow and get it over.
