COMIC OPERA WAS SPLENDID

"Trial By Jury" Put on by Musical Society Struck Responsive Note From Audience.

ATTENDANCE LARGE

Musical Comedy Was Delightful Combination of Art and Mirth.

In the presenting of Gilbert and Sullivan's comic opera "Trial By Jury" last night at the Westholme Theatre, the Prince Rupert Musical Society achieved one of the best concert successes in the history of the city. With this musical comedy, which combines art and mirth in a delightful manner, the society undoubtedly struck a popular note and one that was possibly more generally appreciated than any of its previous efforts along oratorical or cantabile. The opera was splendidly rendered and it was practically impossible to detect a weak point in it. Solo roles and choruses were sung in splendid manner and reflected the natural ability of the amateur artists as well as long unobtrusive practice which must have been necessary to attain such a successful result. The theatre was crowded and every person present was highly pleased with the performance.

The Court Scene.

The scene of the opera is an old English court room. The action is the hearing of a breach of promise case between the plaintiff, a girl, who is all prepared for her wedding, and the defendant, the villain, who has changed his mind about marrying the girl. These two roles were respectively taken by Mrs. H. L. Campbell and Frank Moore. The judge was H. Pattinson; counsel for the plaintiff, Frank Dibb; usher, W. H. Meliari and foreman of jury, S. Darton. The jury comprised one of the most motley throngs of rascally appearing gentlemen that one could possibly imagine. With the public benches lined with a tattered and early morning shoppers, the whole personnel of the opera presented a sight which kept the audience fairly convulsed with their antics. Especially was the court policeman, Captain C. B. Foremy, funny.

Leading Roles.

The leading roles were, of course, those taken by Mrs. H. L. Campbell and Frank Moore, both difficult, but carried out without flaw. Mrs. Campbell showed unusual talent along these lines and the manner in which she acted, melting in tears most of the time, made it quite natural that she should obtain the sympathies of the entire court, judge, jurymen and spectators. She was assisted by a chorus of bridesmaids, Mrs. B. McDaniels, Mrs. Baker, Mrs. W. S. Ackroyd, Mrs. Stanley Bennett, Miss E. G. Davies and Miss I. Lindland. Their singing was dainty and tuneful and their costumes were very attractive. The leading lady's bridal costume was indeed a pretty one, her solo singing was one of the features of the play. Frank Moore, the defendant, against whom the court was plainly antagonistic, was no less effective in his singing and acting, especially. It would have been difficult to have selected a more suitable person to take the role. H. Pattinson, the judge; Frank Dibb, counsel for the plaintiff; W. H. Meliari, usher, and S. Darton, foreman of the jury, all played their parts well and were no less effective than the principals in the solo roles.

The opera was, of course, the main feature of the concert and for its excellent presentation great credit is due E. V. Ling, the conductor, and all the members of the society who worked so faithfully. They must have been pleased themselves with the excellent reception accorded and the complimentary remarks that have been passed by the public generally. Charles Bagnago was the accompanist. The officers of the society are as follows: President, W. E. Fisher, secretary-treasurer, F. W. Grimbey; executive, Mrs. W. S. Ackroyd, Mrs. S. Darton, George Wilson and S. King.

Mr. and Mrs. Brady.

Second only to the opera in importance and effectiveness, was the scene from Shakespeare's "King John" put on by Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Brady assisted by Howard Frizzell and Willie Kergin. The scene was that famous prison one where Hubert, King John's henchman and warder, is persuaded by the little Prince Arthur from his purpose of carrying out the king's order to burn out the latter's eyes. Mr. Brady took the role of Hubert, Mrs. Brady, Prince Arthur, and Howard Frizzell and Willie Kergin acted as executioners. The acting of Mr. and Mrs. Brady was as usual of a high order and the whole scene was rendered without a single hitch.

H. Pattinson's song in costume, "A Policeman's Lot is Not a Happy One," was excellent and delighted the audience.

Mrs. Stanley Bennett rendered the solo "Try Again, Johnny" in her usual pleasing style. Charles Bagnago played the pianoforte solo, Rachmaninoff's "Prelude in C Sharp Minor," with effect and responded to an encore.

There was a quartette "A Regular Royal Queen," from "The Gondoliers" rendered by Mrs. E. L. Munro, Mrs. Stanley Bennett, James Mitchell and S. Darton.

The Overture.

The overture "Zampa" by Herold and a march by the Westholme Theatre completed the wholly excellent program.
