THE MARCH FROM COW BAY

There's a road winding down from the streets of our town,
And it passes quite close to Cow Bay;
It's tattered and torn, it's ragged and worn,
But it's travelled by thousands each day.
What crime it has done to be left all alone,
With its planking decayed and awry,
We are all left to guess, but yet nevertheless
'Tis a sight to cause most folk to cry.

If you walk it by day very often you may
Scape the dangers that are in your way,
If you tremble or stumble you surely will tumble
In the slime and the dirt underway.
There are wide gaping holes, with a few warning poles,
There are planks if you but gently tread,
Will snap with delight as you fade out of sight,
To be buried in mud to your head.

Each evening at five that road is alive,
And the sound of quick marching is heard;
They're the men from the dock, but they never will talk,
For 'tis death if in one step they erred.
With eyes wide and keen every danger is seen,
They sigh when the danger is past;
And they ask why a road that's not fit for a toad
Should be left just to die and not gassed.

There's a crowd at Cow Bay that I'm right glad to say
Their equal you don't often meet;
They're honest and good, and they pay for their food
And the boots that they wear on their feet.
They're keeping the town, but we're doing them brown,
To help them we don't give a damn;
Their money we'll take, their bones they may break
As the shell of an oyster or clam.

If the Grand Trunk Pacific, whose neglect is terrific,
Refuses to come to their aid;
If the powers that be are asleep and don't see,
We still have a live Board of Trade;
If they let us rail, we still cannot fail,
For our councillors oft come that way,
So for our own sake let us quick action take,
And give them a "road" to Cow Bay.

PREMIER TAKES FAST ZIP RIDE

Crawls Along in the Tortoise at Sixty Miles an Hour with Norman Yarrow.

VICTORIA, Aug. 6.—Premier Hon. John Oliver with the Hon. John Hart were guests of Norman O Yarrow in several trial runs on board the Tortoise, the hydroglider of the Esquimalt ship repair plant owner, says the Victoria Times. The party embarked in the roomy cockpit of the Tortoise, and settled down for a comfortable cruise at fifty miles an hour or so, around the waters of the Esquimalt Harbor. After enjoying this form of aqua-aviation for some time the Premier and the Finance Minister regained the shore, and stood on the end of the wharf while Norman A. Yarrow put the Tortoise through her best paces, and ably demonstrated that the name of his ship did not reflect a true indication of its ability to move over the water. The Tortoise, seen from the shore gives a clear idea of her wonderful speed and the exhibition manoeuvers that followed the landing of the party were thoroughly enjoyed by the distinguished party.

At the conclusion of the trials the Premier and the Hon. John Hart expressed themselves as delighted with the general speed facilities of the Tortoise and the expertness of her master.

Zip-Ride "Wonderful."

"My it's a wonderful boat," said the Premier.

He explained that it was the first zip-ride he had ever been on. The boat went around Esquimalt harbor a couple of times and made around 40 miles an hour. The Premier was delighted, and Mr. Yarrow stepped on the gas to the limit. The boat shot ahead with such speed that the pressure of the air broke the windshield. No one was hurt, however.

Never Up in Air.

The Premier was asked how he would like to own a hydroglider, so he could take a zipride before breakfast on fine summer mornings.

"I would if I had the income on which I could afford to own one," replied the Premier. "And I would put in a good deal of time on the water if I did own one, that's one thing certain.

"Have I even been up in an aeroplane? No, I've never been up in the air, and I'm not going up."

James McIntosh, who is to be chief engineer on the Canadian Scottish, the Canadian Government Merchant Marine vessel which is now nearing completion at the Wallace Shipyards, arrived from Vancouver today on the Prince George.
