KETCHIKAN BOUT IS ATTRACTING SOME ATTENTION

KETCHIKAN, June 30.—The coming championship bout between McIntosh and Madden at Ketchikan on July 2 is being commented on by sporting writers in Pacific Coast papers.

The Seattle Star has a long article and the past performance of these two fast boys is being looked into with interest by the various sport writers.

Madden arrived in Ketchikan last week to establish training quarters and McIntosh has been at work for some time.

These boys fought a draw in Seattle and both are confident of winning in Ketchikan.

LOCAL BETTING GIVES ODDS TO DEMPSEY

Local betting on the big fight between Carpentier and Dempsey on Saturday seems to be in favor of the champion. Although there is a good deal of even money being placed, odds that are being offered are on Dempsey. A local cigar store has $400 to offer at 10 to 7 on Dempsey. This seems to represent the feeling as far as local fans are concerned, although some 2 to 1 wagers have been laid. Despite the fact that odds are against him, Carpentier is the general favorite and most people would like to see him carry the title if for no other than sentimental reasons. Many fans are in the position of wanting to see Carpentier win, but are not willing to play their money on his chances.

LOCAL TENNIS PLAYERS TOURNAMENT AT ANYOX

Miss Betty Barrow, Miss Phyllis Jennis, T. B. Hooper and G. M. McKay left on the Prince Rupert last night for Anyox where they will take part in a tennis tournament on Dominion Day with the players of the smelter town. Mrs. Hooper also went along, accompanying her husband.

Sport Chat

Jack Dempsey, world's heavyweight boxing champion, and Georges Carpentier, French contender for the title will meet on Saturday afternoon in Tex Rickard's giant arena at Jersey City in a bout that never before has been equalled in world wide interest. The greatest publicity campaign that ever was carried for a single sporting event has characterized this battle. Due to the international feature of it, interest has been keyed up to a pitch that never before attended such an event. The names of Dempsey, Carpentier and Rickard, in the past few months, have practically become household words and when the great fighters enter the ring on Saturday the attention of the sporting world from South Africa to the Yukon will be rivetted on them.

Both fighters have completed training and during the next forty-eight hours will but mark time. Trainers have finished their duties and all is in readiness. As the last few hours pass speculation becomes more tense, the supporters of either man appearing to bear a great degree of confidence. However, the Dempsey supporters seem to be the surer. As far as the general public is concerned both Dempsey and Carpentier at the present time are more or less unknown quantities. There is no doubt that they are two best heavyweights in the world at the present time but how they are going to stack up against each other seems uncertain. Neither have met the same contestants for Dempsey has confined his rather rare public activities of the past few years to America while Carpentier has met only Europeans.

The only two battles that can be taken as in any measure indicating their abilities are Dempsey's with Brennan and Carpentier's with Beckett, but as both Beckett and Brennan were second raters one can judge little. True it is that Carpentier had little difficulty with Beckett while Dempsey did not make such a good showing with Brennan. But Dempsey never fought Beckett and Carpentier never met Brennan so they cannot be compared that way. All that the general public seems to know is that Dempsey is a terrible mauler and has a great deal of elemental strength. On the other hand, Carpentier is the cleverer of the two and is a more skilful boxer. In many respects the battle will be one of brawn against brain. If strength would win the fight there would be but one winner, Dempsey; if cunning and headwork were the requisite victory would certainly be Carpentier's.

It is not the general opinion that the battle will go the full scheduled time. Each fighter is going to watch for the opportunity from the minute he enters the ring and when an opening is offered, he it even in the first minute of the first round, is going to be taken advantage of. Neither Dempsey nor Carpentier are going to play to the spectators or to the moving pictures. Each will be out to win and that at the earliest possible moment. The fight will possibly be over before the sixth round and certainly will unless a great deal of defensive is employed on either side. Defence and wits will likely count more in this battle than in any other heavyweight championship bout staged in the history of the ring.

The line-up for the Great War Veterans' football club in the final play-off for the Dominion Day cup tomorrow afternoon against the Sons of Canada will be as follows: T. C. Brice; Ed. Ross and J. Stewart; Lumsden, A. Griggs and Davis; McGrate, D. Wiggins, Sid Hardy, Dan Main and Ed. Harding. Reserves—Kirkby, Wm. Ross and Schofield.

A. S. Wallace, of Shellmouth, Manitoba, is a visitor to the city staying at the Prince Rupert Hotel.

Mrs. Bradshaw's Salads

Mrs. George Bradshaw says she makes nicer flavored salad dressing with Pacific Milk than with fresh cream. A friend gave her two or three recipes, but Mrs. B. said she never could get them to taste just right till the friend told her to use Pacific instead of cream. People often ask for her method, and it is a very common one, she says.
