An Opportunity For Live Man.

There seems to be an opportunity in this city for a live man who wishes to establish a steamship agency. Usually most of the work of that kind is in the hands of one firm, and the one that gets it first is the one likely to keep it. Reference is made to the efforts now being made to secure a steamship service for this city. It needs a man to work it up and give it a good deal of time and energy. Anyone who will whip up the business and get the steamships to handle it will be likely to have the first opportunity to act as agent for the company that comes here. If he is keen enough to get the business going he will have the first opportunity after it is going. In that way a real live man could serve both the city and himself.

A letter published on another page in regard to possible trans-Pacific shipping is very interesting in that it shows the attitude of the steamship companies. It is just a matter of business. If we have the goods to ship there is no difficulty in the world about securing the vessels to carry them. Particularly is this true at the present time when cargoes are none too plentiful.

Value to City of Live Business Man.

Often it is found that the citizens rail at a live business man. They do not always like to see a man succeed. Yet there is nothing of as great value to the city as a man who is keenly looking after his own business and keeping it right up to date. A city is very largely gauged according to the business houses. If the shops have a bright and progressive appearance, with prices that can compete favorably with other cities, it is sure that the city is going ahead and that it will continue to show progress.

So it is in dealing with outside business firms. If the local people are prompt in their payments, careful about their correspondence, and up to date in their methods, a good impression is created and the result is that the city gets a good name commercially, and a good name is worth immense sums of money in the commercial world today.

Citizens Also Can Be Living Advertisements.

At a recent meeting of the Elks it was shown that one of the things expected of a member is that he looks after the interest of his city and tries to give it a good name and improve it on every possible occasion. When people go south or east they are living advertisements, either of the progressiveness of the city or of its backward social status. The place is judged by its inhabitants. Wherever we go we are marked as Prince Rupert people and we create the public impression of what the city is generally like. There is a responsibility on us to take pride in ourselves so that the city may not suffer.

It is worth while considering, when leaving town, what the impression you are going to carry with you everywhere you go. Are you carrying the impression that this is a rube town, or are you showing that the people who come from here are the equal of any in the world, intellectually, physically and socially? Because a city is a little isolated is no reason why it should be different from other places. All depends upon the people who live there.

Begin to Plan For the Autumn.

This is a good time to begin planning for the autumn. It will not be long before we shall begin to feel the days closing in slightly and it will be necessary to provide for the evening recreations. There are always dances, plenty of them, but little intellectual stimulus. What about a debating society this year? There surely should be sufficient talent offering to make a local club a success. Young men who cannot speak in public can hardly expect to hold their own in the world. It is as necessary today to be able to express ideas and to think on one's feet as it was a hundred years ago. With such a plethora of written matter there is an absence of personal influence which comes from direct communication. A debating club is one of the best means of recreation and also of education. It is worth considering.

Do You Read the Wireless Reports?

Readers of The Daily News will have noticed a new feature during the past few days. We are publishing the wireless reports from different stations on the coast giving the weather conditions, barometric pressure, temperature, and passing vessels. This should prove of interest, not only to seagoing people but to all the people here. Get the habit of reading the report and making comparisons and see how interesting it is.

WHAT CENTRAL INTERIOR HAS FOR EMIGRANTS

Article in English Publication Says It is Natural Place For Investors.

The Field, the Country Gentleman's Newspaper, an English publication, in a recent issue published a lengthy article on Central British Columbia in regard to the possibilities of emigration. From this standpoint it is a very interesting and well written article which strikes pretty well at the true conditions. It was written by G. E. Altee Coley.

"Cheap land, rich soil and abundant food for stock have never failed to attract the man who is seeking the best investment for his capital," says the writer. "These three factors have laid the foundations of prosperity throughout the Great West and the areas where they may be found in combination are becoming more and more restricted. One of the last great fields in which they still offer is the Central Interior of British Columbia.

Natural Place.
"It is pointed out that clearing costs in southern British Columbia are much greater than in the central interior and the land is much higher in cost. Thus Central B. C. is the natural place for the emigrant from an economic standpoint. Its winters are moderate but not so humid as in the southwest portion of the province.

Besides its agricultural value, the country includes many thousands of acres that are covered with merchantable timber. The Grand Trunk Pacific, the Canadian National and the Pacific Great Eastern Railways provide excellent outlets for all the produce.

Pleasant Homes.
The article describes Central British Columbia as a great country to live in. Getting a living is only one half of life and the making of a home, the other. For home making climate and scenery is most suitable. Game abounds and fish are plentiful in the streams and the abundance of wild fruit forms an important contribution to the table.

The great Central Interior is essentially the place for the energetic and the ambitious. It has nothing to offer to the man who clings to a highly finished civilization. But to the man who loves an open-air life, wide spaces and bracing atmosphere, who wants to see broad acres increase around him and to have the comfortable knowledge that cattle on the range and sheep and pigs and poultry nearer at hand are all doing their share towards giving him a generous livelihood—the enterprising man of this stamp, the Central Interior of British Columbia offers great opportunities, while exacting less outlay in capital than is required almost anywhere else in North America.

BISHOP BUNOZ IS BACK FROM YUKON; OFF AGAIN SOUTH

Bishop Bunoz who returned from a tour of the Yukon territory on Saturday last is leaving tomorrow night for Ocean Falls in connection with the routine work of the diocese.

Telling of his trip north, the Bishop said that while the placer mines of the north were being worked out, the people there were pinning their faith to the Mayo silver camp. The Guggenheims had shipped 3,000 tons of ore to San Francisco for treatment. While the quality of the ore at that place was known to be high, the quantity is as yet unproved.

Many tourists are now visiting the Yukon attracted by the scenery and fine climate of the summer season. A great many are also going into Atlin.

Bishop Bunoz was north in connection with the Catholic Church, of which he is the head for this diocese, and he said he found every thing in a satisfactory condition. The Bishop was formerly stationed at Dawson before being elevated to his present rank. He had charge of the church at St. Mary's where he formerly officiated.

DISORDERLY HOUSES UP FOR DISCUSSION

Questionable Men and Premises to Be Subjected to Persistent Series of Raids.

Disorderly houses, their habits and patrons came in for a round of discussion at the meeting of the police commission last night.

Commissioner Macdonald, referring to one of the throat-cutting incidents of last week, stated that he understood there were others in the city of the same ilk as the man involved in this. Some of them were "camouflaging" under certain lines of business and there seemed to be a circuit of them running between Vancouver, Seattle and Prince Rupert. They abused women who were afraid to report to the police. This should not be so.

The commissioner also reported that he understood there were disorderly houses on Fulton Street and in other parts of the city. Respectable families and children were submitted to witness the goings on. "As long as the district is allowed, and I believe that it must be, under control, such persons must be forced to go over and slay or get out," said Commissioner Macdonald and was endorsed by Mayor Rochester.

A series of persistent raids was suggested as the only means of dealing with the question.
