SEASONAL FRUITS IN

Prices of Staple Articles Are Still on Downward Trend.

On the whole, prices of staple articles on the local market are still on the downward trend and in such lines as sugar, flour and meats small reductions are noted.

In the meat section, the prices of the more expensive cuts are down 5c per pound or so. Eggs, however, have gone up an average of 5c per dozen.

New potatoes are now in and are selling at 5c per pound. Summer fruits such as peaches, raspberries, cantaloupes and cherries are selling on the city stands. This year's prices are much lower than those which prevailed last season.

In the fish section, drops of 5c a pound for halibut and salmon are noted.

CAKES

of Mrs. Mc.

Mrs. McIntyre writes to say she always considered herself a "very fair cake baker" until she came here. Then every cake seemed coarse. A friend told her to try a can of Pacific Milk for her next baking. She did it and her cakes are "nicer than ever," so it must be the milk.

"Oh," cried Mrs. Gush, "what a darling blouse! How much is this gorgeous creation?"
"Fifty shillings, and so sweet for the price," continued Mrs. Gush. "It's a dear; just exactly what I want. The color and everything just as I like it. I think I will take it, though fifty shillings—"
"Pardon me, madam," said the assistant. "I have made a mistake! This is marked only fifteen shillings not fifty."
"Oh, I see! Well, show me something a little better."—Answers.

A. Gentle Int.
Dentist (after preliminary inspection)—Extraordinary thing—there's one of your teeth only half filled.
Patient—Ah, that were 'tother dentist. The lad 'urt me, so Ah gave 'im a good lick in 't' jaw.
Quite a Different Smash.
Wife—I heard a noise when you came in last night.
Hubby—Perhaps it was the night falling.
Wife—(coldly)—No, it wasn't. It was the day breaking.

TRAGEDIES ON THE RAILWAYS SOUTH RUSSIA

RIGA, Latvia, July 9.—The chaotic conditions and daily tragedies that followed upon re-occupation of free trade in South Russia are described by a writer for the Moscow Izvestia who has just made a trip through the Ukraine.

The peasants, he says, carrying sacks of grain or other food to the cities are literally overwhelmed by the railways. He thus describes the appearance of one of the trains coming into Kiev. "Along the tracks is crawling a huge grey caterpillar—a train covered all over with the grey masses of food-carriers. From beneath these masses neither cars nor locomotives can be distinguished. The grey mass covers everything, the car roofs, the steps and even the spaces between cars. Every available nook is occupied. Everything is filled up. Only when the train begins to slow down, nearing Kiev station, it begins to shed its grey fleece. Little by little, while yet in motion, the locomotive and car roofs begin to uncover."

"At Kiev all out-bound trains are literally pasted all over with people. On the locomotive, cars, fire-wood truck, water tank and under the cars—anywhere that it is only possible—people fasten themselves to every hook, nail or crevice. Those who have been fortunate enough to get a place on a brake platform are looked upon as favorites of fortune, who are comfortable for their whole trip."

"The departure of every train is accompanied by lamentations, wails, crying, shouting and all kinds of accidents. When the train is beginning to get in motion, those who were not able to board it and those who have been forcibly removed from it start mad rushes for it again. The military detachments, whose duty it is to maintain order during the boarding of trains, run after the trains, pulling down some of the surplus passengers who have managed to fasten on to them, while from others caps are pulled off and so on."

"One of the results is that the Kiev railway shops every month have to make about 300 coffins for food-carriers who have been run over by the trains."

M. Dzerzhinsky, head of the "Cheka," or Committee to Combat counter-revolution, known as one of the most efficient men in Soviet Russia, has been appointed by Lenin as Commissar of Railways to regulate this traffic of food-carriers.
