Correspondent
Wishes to Know.

A correspondent wishes to know what group Colonel Peck will support if he is sent to Parliament, which the same correspondent hints is a most remote contingency. He wants to know why the Colonel does not show his hand and what he is keeping hidden. Is he prepared to oppose the Conservative administration from which the Skeena district has suffered for so many years? If so he would like to know it. Is he a farmer candidate and prepared to throw in his lot with Mr. Greer as a class representative? If not, why does he not say so? Finally the correspondent intimates that he does not think the Colonel stands for any particular line of policy but is an opportunist. We are sorry that the letter is such that we cannot publish it as received, but the questions he asks are very much to the point at the present time. People are asking questions from The Daily News. Here are a few which we take pleasure in passing on to Colonel Peck in order that he may clear up the fog in our correspondent's mind.

Archbishop Du Verney
Sees Wide Movement.

It is characteristic of any great movement that it does not stand alone, but is part of a larger whole, says Bishop Du Verney writing in the Montreal Star. This is true of the strong current which is setting in all over the Christian world towards church union. It is part of a wider movement.

Modern thought demands for the foundation of all our thinking a social idealism which is world-wide in its scope. Not only is an individual as an independent unit known now to be a mere fiction of the brain, but it is also clearly seen now that a nation as an independent unit is something which does not and cannot exist. As the individual is called upon to be a ministering member of a society which ever widens in its scope, so also the nation is called upon to be a ministering member in the society of all nations. In other words, in our thinking we cannot rest until we reach the universal—the society of mankind, where the good of each is the good of all, and the good of all is the good of each. "No man lives to himself." This is the great discovery of social idealism. Equally true is the extension of this fundamental principle—"No nation lives to itself." Mutual service is the law of all membership in universal society.

Urging Toward Universal Fellowship.

How can any sectarian church which does not keep the vision of the universal brotherhood of man based upon the universal fatherhood of God ever before it expect to fulfil its divine mission? The Spirit of Christ within us is ever urging us towards this universal fellowship. For this reason anything like bitter sectarianism, no matter how confident it may be of its monopoly of the truth, is the enemy of Christ.

The refinements of theology make no perceptible difference in the characters of men. The Spirit of Christ is the spirit of service, the spirit of sacrifice, the spirit of the Cross. It is the spirit shed abroad in the hearts of men which makes all the difference in the world.

Each branch of the church of Christ thinks that it has something most precious to conserve and pass on as a valuable contribution to the comprehensive church which is yet to be. This is why the Anglican Church at its General Synod recently held emphasized the importance of episcopacy as a link of historic continuity in order to maintain an outward bond of unity, but there can be no question about it that while good and long tested organization is very valuable, what is most vital is the Spirit of Christ within the church. The very conservative churchmen to be found both in the Anglican Church, and also in the Presbyterian Church and others, think that they are doing God service by being loyal to denominational differences, and in so far as they are conserving valuable elements for the reconstructed church of the future this is no doubt true, but there is still an immense amount of unreasonable religious prejudice founded only upon religious fashion which must be swept away by a fresh outpouring of the Spirit of Christ, which is the Spirit of Universal Fellowship.

JUNIOR CHOIR
FINE CONCERTGirls Score Great Success at
Entertainment Last Night—
Mr. Hacker Speaks.

The first annual concert of the Methodist Church Junior Choir given in the Methodist Church last night promises to be the forerunner of many such like events. The concert was well attended in spite of the inclement weather and the audience was very appreciative of the able efforts of the artists. The singing of the Junior Choir under the direction of H. G. Higgins, spoke volumes for the interest taken by both the youthful performers and their teacher, "Hail, Smiling Morn," "A Song of May" and "Old King Cole" were splendidly sung. The well arranged program also contained the following items.

Violin solo—Selected—Mrs. R. B. Lipzy.
Quintette—"Juanita"—Misses L. Lindland, W. Dibb, V. Shockley and L. Currie.
Song—"Comin' Thro the Rye"—Miss Verna Thompson.
Violin Solo—"Alice Where Art Thou"—Mrs. R. B. Linzey.
Quintette—"Flow Gently, Sweet Afton"—Misses G. Irvine, M. Kergin, L. Currie, V. Shockley and Mr. H. G. Higgins.

Rev. G. G. Hacker made a few fitting remarks, as the speaker put it "just to give the choir a rest."

Armistice Day.

He remarked that he was a great financier in his young days, in fact when a few months old he could always make both ends meet by opening his mouth and putting his foot in it, and went on to say that the particular day of celebration in commemoration of the Armistice called for serious thought. It was well to look back, he said, and think of the time of storm and stress that everyone had past through during the late war, and that unless we did that he felt we could not go forward in the right spirit. He spoke about the state in which the war had left us. It was said that the world would never be the same after the war, that the result of the war was going to bring us to the Golden Age, but we saw today that we had not arrived at the Golden Age, neither were we the same people as before the war. He said there was a great amount of restlessness and carelessness in the world today no doubt due to the reaction of the time of stress and anxiety under which people labored during those anxious days, although to some extent the world was better in ideals, especially so in social ideals, but that we had to face the matter fairly and squarely.

New Ideals.

"If there was one thing now that we should keep before us in the same degree as in those days of war," the speaker said, "it was that every man, woman and child must do their bit." The thing most needed in the world today was for every man, woman and child to do their bit in making the home, church, town or neighborhood in which they lived a little brighter and a little happier with new ideals. The Junior Choir constituted the following members.

Sopranos: Misses Hester Black, Grace Brooks, May Brooks, Sunday Calderone, Jean Currie, Winnifred Dibb, Bessie Derry, Laura Frizzell, Florrie Gawthorn, Doris Gawthorn, Catherine Irvine, Margaret Kergin, Marjorie Lancaster, Ina Lindland, Petra Lindland, Mary Murray, Mary Sim, Ella Steen, Verna Thompson, Doreen Woods.
Altos: Misses Lizzie Cuprie, Gwen Morgan and Vera Shockley.

Mrs. J. Gawthorn acted as the accompanist, and Messrs. Wolstenholme, Edwards and Whalen were on the doors.

The singing of God Save the King brought a very successful evening to a close.

COULDN'T DO
HOUSEWORK
HEART WAS SO BAD

Many women get weak and run down and unable to look after their household duties owing to the heart action becoming unbalanced or the nervous system unstrung. Nature intended women to be strong, healthy and happy instead of sick and wretched. But how can a woman be strong and healthy when day in and day out she has to go through the same routine of work, sweeping, dusting, cooking, washing, etc.? If any wonder that the heart becomes affected and she gets irritable and nervous, has hot flushes, faint and dizzy spells, smothering and sinking spells and can't sleep at night.

To all women whose heart is weak and whose nerves are unstrung we would recommend MILBURN'S HEART AND NERVE PILLS.

As the best remedy to tone up the system and strengthen the weakened organs. Mrs. Daniel Branson, Loganville, N. H., writes: "As I was troubled with a weak heart for nearly two years I am writing to tell you what your great remedy, Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, has done for me."

My heart was so bad at night I could not sleep, I would take smothering spells, and was so weak I could not do my housework. I tried two doctors, but got no results. A friend advised me to try your pills. I used six boxes and am completely relieved. I think they are the best remedy for heart trouble there is."
