UNITY OF PURPOSE.

The value of unity of purpose has been well exemplified in the recent campaign to secure a supply of fish cars to the business here. The plan received this morning from Mayor Rochester in reply to the letter from the general manager of the G. T. P., which is most reassuring and tends to indicate that the campaign has been a success. Some money has been spent and a good deal of effort put forth to try to make the railway company and the Government of Canada realize the need of a plentiful supply of fish cars here, and the consummation of the combined effort is most satisfactory. It is to be hoped that the officials that control the destinies of the Canadian National Railway, whoever they may be, will see that from this time on there is no relapse to the former state of affairs.

Archbishop Du Vernet on Modern Phases of Religion

Speaks of Power of Press, but also Urges Value of Personal Contact and Interdependence of Individuals and Nations

"The individual by himself as a separate unit is a myth, a fiction of the imagination," declared Archbishop Du Vernet at the men's banquet at the Anglican Church last night. The individual man is a member of society and only as such can he be considered. He is a ministering member of the great society of mankind.

The Archbishop spoke of the value of personal contact. For thirty years he had been a student of psychology and he recognized the power of the press. Through the press one was sure of an audience which was not always the case through the pulpit. He had taken advantage of an offer from Canada's greatest newspaper to address a half million readers on the question of psychology, whereas in church he could address comparatively few.

While he recognized the power of the press and the value of the written word, the Archbishop went on to tell of the inspiration that came from speaking face to face. The inspiration of God was secured through the personality of man. When a church was filled both preacher and audience got an inspiration. There was a sympathetic radiation which was well recognized by psychologists.

There was a wonderful power came from the blending of mind and spirit in common worship. Recent Revolution. During the last 75 years the greatest revolution had come which was ever known. It came without the clashing of swords or the bursting of bombs. He referred to the revolution in the philosophy of thought. The whole basis of thought had changed in that time. The new conception of God and the universe and the wonderful relation of body, mind and spirit had been revealed. As with man so with the classes. There was the commercial class from banker to baker and there was the working class, but class warfare was unthinkable to the man who had studied sociology. All were interdependent.

Community of Nations. Archbishop Du Vernet went on to speak of the relation of nations one to the other. As no person could live to himself so no nation could live to itself. All must be ministering members of a great society, bound in the common brotherhood of men.

Perhaps the most wonderful revelation was the new conception of God. The Oriental God was linked with the thought of abso-

OTTAWA, February 3.—The judgment of the Board of Railway Commissioners' express rates case was issued yesterday afternoon by Chairman Carvell. It grants considerable increases although not as much as the 40 per cent asked.

The increases granted follow: First class rates, 35 per cent. Second class, 25 per cent.

On such commodities as fish, cream and fruit 20 per cent. This judgment is in line with the judgment of the board on freight rates delivered last autumn under which an advance of 40 per cent was granted on most commodities. Since that time, however, there has been a considerable reduction in the cost of living, and in many cases wages have been reduced.

Archdeacon Collison, of Kincollith, Left Last Night to Conduct Ceremonies.

HANDSOME EDIFICE OF WHICH NATIVES PROUD

Archdeacon W. H. Collison sailed last evening by the Prince John for Massett where he will open the new native church on the Indian reserve at that point. Archdeacon Collison has made special arrangements with the steamship company to call at the reserve when the steamer is in the inlet tomorrow when he will conduct the opening ceremony and on the return twelve hours later from Port Clements the vessel will stop again and take him so he will return here on Saturday. The original intention had been to have the opening today but as the John is making the southern island points first the vessel will not arrive in Massett Inlet until tomorrow.

The new church is of handsome architecture and has been a year under construction, all the labor being that of the Haida Indians. The edifice is one of which the natives are justly proud.
