MAKES FINE LARGE PHOTOS

New Enlarging Apparatus Installed by McRae Bros. is Latest Thing Out.

One of the attractions of Third Avenue today is the window of photographic enlargements of McRae Brothers and prominent among the enlargements is a fine picture of the fish boats at the old fish wharf.

The pictures have been made by the McRae Brothers with a new enlarging apparatus known as the Eastman Projection Printer. It is the very latest thing in making enlargements and is so accurate and works so rapidly that making an enlargement to any size becomes the easiest thing in the world.

The new machine focuses automatically. All that is necessary is to decide the size of picture needed and the machine does the work more accurately and better than any human being could do it.

The installing of this new machine makes it unnecessary to send away pictures to be enlarged, for McRae Brothers have adopted the Eastman scale of prices, exactly the same as that used in the city of Toronto. The machine is rather costly but it gives results and the old established firm is to be congratulated by a good many people on keeping right up to date in the shop in this particular line of work.

LOOK FOR LARGE SALMON PACK IN YAKUTAT CANNERY

JUNEAU, April 9.—There will be no curtailment in the output of the Yakutat cannery of Libby, McNeil & Libby, according to E. M. Exelson, United States Commissioner, of Yakutat, who has arrived in Juneau to spend two or three weeks. Mr. Exelson says the company is making plans to put up a larger pack than last year, which aggregated about 65,000 cases, chiefly red salmon.

The cannery tender Libby Maine, which recently landed the first crews and supplies at Yakutat, is now on its way to Seattle to load a similar cargo for the cannery at Kenai, after which it will return to the Sound and outfit for a trip to the Bristol Bay canneries of the company. Libby, McNeil & Libby will be one of the few Alaskan concerns preparing for a normal canning season. The plant at Taku Harbor is expected to put up its usual pack.

Mrs. John Maitland, wife of the engineering superintendent at the shipyards, and Mrs. James Maitland, wife of one of the draftsmen, arrived yesterday afternoon on the Princess Mary from Vancouver.

AMSTERDAM IMPORTS TO KEEP DOWN COST

Other Municipalities Also Go into Business and Sell at Low Prices

AMSTERDAM, April 8.—A number of Dutch municipalities, including Amsterdam, are going into the importing business themselves in an effort to force down the cost of living and expose profiteering.

A year ago, some of the municipalities bought American shoes and put them on sale at a price much below that charged by the Dutch merchants.

Some months later they imported beef from the Argentine and put it on the market at about half the price charged for Dutch meat.

Coals to Newcastle

The latest move of the Amsterdam city council is to import into Holland, one of the greatest dairying countries in the world, butter from Denmark, which is to be sold at a price of 50 Dutch cents a kilogram below the quotations for Dutch butter of the same grade.

These municipal bodies, in which there are many socialists, believe that Dutch middlemen demand exorbitant profits and that this habit can only be broken when the people find they can buy imported commodities much cheaper than domestic even after freight and duty charges have been paid.

Dutch manufacturers have demanded of parliament a protective tariff, in addition to the ordinary five per cent duty charged on most commodities, but the government has declined to adopt a general policy along this line.
