

FAMOUS FOUR OARED SHELL

"Dunstan on Tyne" Has Been Model for All Rowing Racers.

PHILADELPHIA, April 9.—A four-oared shell, in which two world's rowing championships and a number of national championships were won, has just been presented to the Philadelphia Barge Club by Ellis F. Ward, former rowing coach of the University of Pennsylvania.

Built in 1869, the thin cedar craft had been in continuous use up until two years ago and is still in good condition and although a little narrow, has been used as a model by boat builders in this country for years. It is 12 feet long.

Originally the shell was built for an English crew, the Ben-forths, who rowed against the Paris crew of St. Johns, New Brunswick, for the world's championship. This was the first race in which the shell was used and the English crew won. The boat was named the "Dunstan-on-Tyne."

Shortly afterward the shell was purchased by the mayor of Pittsburgh as a souvenir.

Record Still Stands.

In 1871 another match race was arranged for the championship of the world, to be held at Saratoga Lake. Ellis Ward and his three brothers had gained the reputation of being the best American blade wielders, but were without a shell. They ordered a new boat from Robert Jewett, of England, who built the "Dunstan-on-Tyne" but he disappointed them. Shortly afterward they received a telegram from the mayor of Pittsburgh offering to sell them the "Dunstan-on-Tyne." The Wards accepted. They found the boat narrow and hard to "set up," but they soon mastered it.

The race was rowed over a four-mile course, and the Wards won, setting a new record of 24 minutes, 40 seconds, which still stands. They defeated two English and three American crews.

SUMMARY OF OLYMPIC GAMES

Report Tells of Attendance at Various Events at Antwerp

ANTWERP, April 9.—The Olympic Games of 1920 were a success from both a financial and attendance standpoint according to a complete and detailed statement issued by the Belgium Olympic Executive Committee. The attendance and receipt figures attached to the report show that the keen interest displayed in the soccer football play helped greatly to lift the international competition across the line which divides failure and success.

While only 28,665 persons, all told, paid admission, other than holders of season ticket holders to the stadium, to witness the athletic games in which America triumphed, 63,642 persons paid to see the Olympic football games.

A total of 219,689 persons paid to see the Olympic games, including ice hockey, and all other sports, and, according to the committee, this number exceeded the attendance at Stockholm, and put the 1920 Olympiad on an attendance footing equal to that of most of its predecessors.

The detailed report, showing attendance at all Olympic events gives an interesting index to the sport preferences of Europeans:

Ice Hockey	6,946
Bicycle races	835
Archery	28,665
Gymnastics	16,795
Lawn Tennis	7,524
Wrestling and Boxing	15,158
Rowing	6,617
Swimming	24,549
Football	63,642
Horsemanship	11,251
Polo	1,140

COLLECTION OF UNUSUAL MERIT

Indian Agent Perry Has Most Interesting Exhibit of Native Handicraft in Office.

C. C. Perry, Indian agent for Skeena River division, has just recently completed the assembling of what is probably the most complete and most handsome collection of Indian handicraft north of Vancouver. This week he was offered $1,000 cash for it. The collection is made up largely of baskets, there being 150 single pieces of all sizes and shapes ranging from the smallest, 3 inches by one inch, to the largest, 22 inches by 19 inches. The pieces have been gathered by Mr. Perry since he became Indian agent here some ten years ago.

The baskets were worked by the natives out of spruce roots, cedar bark and different varieties of grasses. In many of them designs have been woven in with different kinds and colors of strands while others have been painted with the native paint of burnt stone and salmon eggs. What is considered the finest basket of the whole collection is one from Agassiz into which four deer have been woven. Snowflake and tree designs characterize many of the baskets where the designs are thus woven in. There are also a number of mats and other articles in the basketry section of the collection.

From Many Parts.

The collection comprises pieces from the Haida tribe, of the Queen Charlotte Islands; Tsimpsian, Port Simpson and Melakalla; Salish; West Coast of Vancouver Island tribes; Fraser River, Thompson River, Agassiz, North Vancouver, Nanaimo, Nishkas, the Naas River; Owekanos of Bella Coola district, and Kwakwaka'wakw of Alert Bay.

Included in the collection are also eight totem poles and several paddles. Two of the poles are seven feet high and one of the smaller ones is surmounted with an eagle carved out of wood, which is almost perfect in workmanship and resemblance to the natural object.

Interesting Relic.

Another interesting object Mr. Perry has in his office but which does not form a part of the collection is a circular piece of the mahogany compass base of the vessel Susan Sturgis which fell victim to the depredations of the Haida Indians in 1852. This boat was run ashore at Rose Spit by one of the Edenshaws of an earlier generation and was pillaged by the wild Haida hordes, the crew being held for a high ransom. The compass base is exquisitely carved and the holes in which the compass were fastened have been filled in with abalone.

NEW YORK IN FAVOR DEMPSEY

Although Carpentier Has a Good Following, American Still Holds Balance of Odds.

NEFF DOING WELL, WANTS COME NORTH

In the course of his recent tour, Ben Self, who returned to town on Thursday, visited Madison Square Garden, the big New York boxing headquarters. He found opinion there fairly evenly divided as to the outcome of the proposed Carpentier-Dempsey heavyweight battle. Of course Dempsey is the favored man and odds are placed on him about 6 to 1 but despite this Carpentier is steadily gaining favor. While in the big city Mr. Self saw Tex Rickard, the famous promoter, but was not speaking to him.

Several contests were witnessed by Mr. Self and he saw Tommy Gibbons, the brother of Mike, in action. He is somewhat heavier than his champion brother and in the fight in which he was seen he delivered a knockout.

Chet Neff Seen.

In California Mr. Self met Chet Neff, the lightweight, who spent several months here last summer and who became quite a favorite in local boxing circles. He had just returned to Los Angeles from St. Louis when seen. He is now sporting a big touring car and looks quite prosperous.

Although he is getting good receptions wherever he goes in the south, Chet feels that he would like to pay a visit here again and has written to Roi Barnes, his local backer, that he will come back if two or three contests can be arranged. He would make this his headquarters and would probably visit Alaskan cities and towns on the prairies. It is possible that if things pick up here he may be sent for again but nothing definite has yet been arranged.

If you wish to live long, walk. Walkers live to a ripe old age. "Lepper" Hughes, famous pedestrian, is dead at seventy. He was called "Lepper" because of his eight foot bounds while walking.

Thirty years or so ago he thought nothing of walking twenty-two hours a day for six days. In these off-time times, with motor cars and other means of rapid transit, men consider it a hardship if they have to walk an hour a day. Thus men do not now get proper exercise and do not live long. George Littlewood, Charlie Rowell, Jimmy Albert, John Ennis, Gus Guerrero and Pete Hegelman took part in six day races with Hughes thirty-five years ago and are still living. Weston, famed from coast to coast as a walker, lived long. Walk five miles a day, or longer if possible. Do not stroll merely, but walk. You will double the years of your life.

The International Sporting Club of New York which has been instrumental in the framing of modern boxing, has decided to take the initiative in forming a national association to control wrestling. It is the intention to prohibit all holds that are merely punishing in effect and thus the head lock, toe hold and body and head scissors would have to go. In fact it is the intention to do away with all locks where the contestant is forced to give way on account of unbearable pain. Such locks are not only brutal, but they tend to prevent the wrestlers from putting forth their best efforts by using objectionable holds which are neither spirited or scientific. Jack Curley, who has practised controlling wrestling in the East for many years is in favor of the new association and its rules.
