Georgia River Gold Commanding Interest—Premier Takes Over Property Near Juneau—Activity In Telegraph Creek District

Recent strong interest in Georgia River Gold on the stock markets has directed attention to the east side of Portland Canal in which Georgia River is situated about eight miles south of Stewart. Georgia River Gold consists of thirty-four crown-granted claims with an area of about 1235.81 acres. Gold values are definitely established by assays of $33 to the ton in No. 1 tunnel on the Bullion vein which is typical of the mine workings. Ore bodies are in close proximity to vein intersections and near the surface the Summit, Southwest and Camp veins have been found to contain free gold. Like the Bullion vein, they are quartz-filled and easily traceable for several thousand feet on the property. Development work on the Georgia River Gold, which has been proceeding steadily, consists of tunnels, drifts, cross-cuts, raises and open cuts. There are five tunnels in addition to considerable other development. New mine equipment and splendid accommodation for the crew, together with office and laboratory facilities, are features of the property. Since news was received about a fortnight ago of progress of development at the property, the price of Georgia River stock has been advancing steadily in Vancouver, the bids gradually ascending to 4 1/4c.

A large gold property near Juneau, Alaska, has been acquired under bond by the Premier Gold Mining Co. Ltd. and extensive exploration of the property has commenced. It is a group carrying wide, low-grade veins of commercial ore. Bert F. Smith, for many years assistant manager of the Premier mine in the Portland Canal district, has been placed in charge of operations on the Alaska property. The Premier Co. recently had engineers in the Bridge River district but no information is available as to whether or not the company may become interested in that area.

There has been considerable prospecting activity during the past season in the Peace River Block. William Braden of North Rolla has returned from the upper Peace where he spent the summer prospecting and is anxious to return to that district again next spring. Game, he reports, is plentiful but gun shy.

Telegraph Creek mining district has not revealed anything of a very spectacular nature during the 1932 season but operations by several interests have warranted further work, according to H. W. Dodds, for years gold commissioner and government agent at Telegraph Creek, who was recently moved to Stewart. Principal development has been on Palmer Creek, situated about eight miles east of Dease Lake. Last season encouraging results were obtained and this year hydraulic pipe and drill were packed in. About fifteen men are employed on ten leases. Difficulty was experienced by the Barrington interests on the Clearwater getting a dredge into the property. In the Dease Lake section slides interfered with the operations of the Cassiar Hydraulic Co., resulting in a lesser gold production than had been anticipated. Gibson interests on Mosquito Creek report fair production. Several outfits are working on McDames Creek. In addition to these operations, individual prospectors have been working. Gold production is expected to be better next season when the outfits which have been doing preparatory work will probably go into production.

Placer prospects on the Bell-Triving watershed, north of Stewart, are to be the scene of a permanent camp during the approaching winter according to Paul Morrison and Paul Merger who recently returned to Stewart to renew their supplies. The party will be increased, one of the men to join it being David Guna-Noot, son of the late Simon Guna-Noot, well known Indian.

Important developments this summer in the Omineca Mining Division were reported recently in Vancouver by L. S. McGill, well known Smithers barrister and mining man. In the placer regions at Nation River, Manson River and Germanson Creek, north of Vanderhoof, there has been more activity this year than during past seasons though it was chiefly development work with a view to future operations. McConnell Creek and the northerly portions received a good deal of exploration the result of which was to discount exaggerated rumors which were circulated some months ago but at the same time proving that there are many opportunities awaiting capital in sufficient quantity to do something on a large scale. In the Bulkley Valley section the Babine Gold Mines Ltd., a private company owned by W. R. Wilson & Sons of Vancouver, developed by surface prospecting some gold quartz showings on a property between 25 and 30 miles east of Telkwa on Dome Mountain, some high values having been obtained. The same interests also carried out further preliminary work on the Silver Lake group on Hudson Bay Mountain, the results having been favorable and a large program of tunnel work being planned for next season. This will involve the running of not less than 2000 feet of tunnel to cross-cut high grade galena veins already opened up. Development of the Jessie Gold Mines Ltd. has continued steadily during the past four months and will go on throughout the winter.

Depression Discussed

The principal business was the discussion of matters pertaining to the depression. It was disclosed that this country guarantees annual payments of over $100,000,000 to holders of war bonds. While everything else has depreciated interest has not followed suit and this money must be met. The figures for Canada are not available but, for an idea and as an indication of the trend of modern life, in the United States after the war there were 20,000,000 holders of war bonds, which number in 12 years is reduced to 200,000. This means that 99% of the original buyers have had to relinquish their holdings, and that the major part of the issues are now in the hands of the half dozen banking corporations. It is in times of economic distress that high finance reaps its harvest and will emerge from the depression stronger than ever while the mass of the people, having been forced to see their possessions gradually diminish and disappear, have to start all over again. The following resolution was passed as the outcome of the discussion and is being forwarded to Premier Bennett at Ottawa for his consideration.

"That the Dominion Parliament, now in session, enact the required legislation to the end that the present high interest rate of Canadian war bonds and post-war bonds be drastically reduced and that a sufficient portion of the money thus saved be allotted to the purpose of providing all unemployed war veterans and their dependents with a standard of living based upon justice and equity."

The meeting declared itself as strictly against internment in "prison camps" for unemployed single men.

The next meeting will be held on Friday next.

Pleased With The Convention

Dr. H. C. Wrinch of Hazelton Says Big Event Was Earnest Effort to Benefit Country

The recent Liberal convention in Vancouver was a great event, according to Dr. H. C. Wrinch, of Hazelton, member for Skeena in the Legislature, who has been in the city over the holiday. While only about 250 delegates were expected, over 600 appeared and all took a keen interest in the affair. The convention was characterized by its earnestness and helpfulness. Narrow partyism was conspicuous by its absence. All seemed bent on doing something for their country rather than for their party.

Dr. and Mrs. Wrinch will be leaving for home tomorrow.
