Talking Politics
Is All Right.

It is all right to talk politics.

Politics is the science of government and to talk about methods and manner of governing the country is a most estimable thing. Incidentally it may be mentioned that there is the national government, provincial government, civic government, and the government of the household. Each of these is a separate form of government but each is very closely related to all the others, and to talk about any of them is to talk politics.

Just now for the next two or three months we shall be talking about city government. That is talking politics. Some people think we should have less politics, but what we need is more politics. We should have a deeper study of the science of government and we should all take a keen interest in the problems which the country has to solve through its various governments.

The man who is the best politician is the best mayor. He makes an intensive study of civic affairs. He visits other cities and studies their methods. He reads about municipal problems and he studies most particularly how to get value for the money expended. He has to be able to deal with men and in his own business must have shown aptitude in that direction. If he is not a success in his own business he cannot expect to be a success in running the much larger business of the whole city.

Why Not All
Discuss Our Problems?

Why do not the various clubs and organizations take up some of these municipal, provincial and national problems and thrash them out. The farmers on the prairies—about to do that. They are discussing national and provincial problems this winter through the farmers' organizations. Here are some of the problems put in the form of resolutions that they are to discuss:

Resolved that the medical profession should be nationalized.

That proportional representation should be adopted in provincial elections.

That direct taxation should be substituted for indirect.

That the sales tax should be abolished.

That the Dominion of Canada establish a national bank.

That the Senate should be abolished.

That there should be perfect legal equality of the sexes and a social equality.

That grain should be marketed through the farmers' own companies.

That land be the basis for all taxation.

That income is the only proper basis for taxation but that income derived from land in rural districts be exempt.

That licenses be used as a temporary basis for revenue.

That all taxes in the municipalities be collected by the municipality and the provincial governments levy according to the value of the land.

Civic Problems
Are Numerous.

The farmers in their program did not touch very much on civic problems because few of them live in the cities. There are, however, a lot of problems that might well be taken up such as unemployment relief and the duties of the state in regard to the unemployed; contract versus day labor on civic work; land taxation of improvements; the duty of the city in providing for aesthetic education and culture; the value of higher education; the value of training young people to work with the hands; the training of children; the duty of the citizen to the city, the province and the country; the place of religion in the community; housing problems; the inalienable rights of the individual; the right to work and the right to eat; laziness and deterioration; loyalty to the family, the city, the province, the country and the empire; the psychology of a small town; the evils of gossip; amusements and their effect on old and young; the value of athletics; the need of a well balanced life; the social value of the church and lodge.

These subjects get away sometimes from the civic idea but most of them have an effect direct or indirect on the lives of the people here. We devote so much of our time to the problems of getting on in the world, financially, that we often neglect the consideration of the broader problems of life, especially in relation to the lives of our fellows.

IS SUCCESSThrongs of Visitors Attend Affair Under Auspices of Catholic Church

The great annual rendezvous down town is the Catholic Bazaar, which opened in the Moody Block on Sixth Street yesterday afternoon, under the direct management of Father McGrath.

The spacious premises occupied have been given a splendid gala appearance, the decorations having been executed very artistically, and throngs crowded the bountifully displayed booths last night.

Included in the galaxy of entertainment is all the fun of the fair and there is something on hand to amuse both young and old.

Judging from the large attendance yesterday afternoon and evening the Catholic Bazaar this year promises to be the most successful ever held. Following is a list of the booths with the respective committees in charge:

Knights of Columbus Booth, at which everyone gets a prize, in charge of Jack Venables, assisted by A. Astoria and H. McEwen.

Home cooking booth is in charge of Mrs. J. G. Gavigan, assisted by Mrs. W. Gratton and Mrs. O'Reilly.

Home made candy and ice cream booth, in charge of Mrs. G. W. Nickerson assisted by Mrs. J. Pitts, Miss Astoria and Mrs. Early.

Fancy work booth, in charge of Mrs. Lorna MacLaren, assisted by Mrs. A. D. Gillies, and Mrs. D. H. McDonald.

Children's booth, in charge of Mrs. Moersch and Mrs. Keele.

Ten room, in charge of Mrs. Henning and Mrs. Morrissey.

A special musical program will be rendered this afternoon by the Count de Scheda Concert party, and to-night the grand drawing for the following prizes will be held.

The first prize—$50.00 Victory Bond, donated by J. C. Gavigan. Second Prize—$50.00 Victory Bond, donated by Jas. McNulty. Third prize—$50.00 Victory Bond, donated by A. Friend. Fourth prize—Chair, value $10 donated by Geo. D. Tite. Fifth prize—One ton of coal, donated by Consumers Coal Co. Sixth prize—One ton of coal, donated by the Edson Coal Co.

ADAM may have been a wise man but I doubt it. He never had a grown up daughter.

NOW that duck shooting out of a launch is forbidden, let's go deer hunting.

THERE are a few wise old dogs in the country and the country is going to them.

ONE of the things that won't get you anywhere is figuring out how to get along without paying for the school.

S.S. PRINCESS MARY
WAS MUCH DELAYEDArrived Yesterday Afternoon 24
Hours Overdue With Passengers From Yukon

The C.P.R. steamer Princess Mary, Capt. S. H. Ormiston, arrived in port at 2.45 yesterday afternoon with 210 passengers from the Yukon territory, being 24 hours overdue. A thick fog was encountered between Skagway and Juneau and the unloading of a heavy cargo of coal at Skagway delayed her considerably.

With the closing of navigation on the Yukon river the officials and crews of the river steamers are returning south for the winter months.

The Princess Mary cleared port at 1.15 yesterday afternoon for Vancouver.

RED MOUNTAIN

When this property was acquired in 1915 by Mr. George Wingfield and his associates in the Goldfield Consolidated Mines Company, it had been opened only to a depth of 200 feet, it had not established earning record and ore reserves were confined to blocks above the 200 foot level.

During the administration of Mr. Wingfield, from 1916 to 1918, the vein was proven to a depth of 500 feet and for a length of 950 feet, more than trebling the visible ore. Little of this ore has been extracted. Today the company has power and milling facilities adequate to show profits from these added ore reserves for years to come.

It would appear reasonable that if Boundary Red Mountain, in the prospect stage, was good enough to enlist the interest of this multi-millionaire mine operator, that it is deserving of your present consideration under vastly more favorable conditions.
