ATTORNEY-GENERAL'S BAPTISM OF FIRE

Vancouver Speaks of Moral Courage of Hon. A. M. Manson Regarding Liquor Traffic

Discussing the recent flurry over the liquor business in which Hon. A. M. Manson has been called upon to defend his position...

Realizing the progress Attorney-General Manson has been making towards cleaning up his department, it was expected too much to believe that his political opponents and enemies within the party would leave him alone.

Under his first baptism of fire the Attorney-General has been somewhat indulgent in the language used against his critics especially since the object of their criticism was to try and draw him out.

The liquor business at its best is an outlaw traffic, and since the world began has put a curse on nearly everybody connected with it.

Placed in such a position, an official lacking moral conviction will at once be swamped in corruption. Placed in the same position, an official with moral courage enough to follow the dictates of his conscience will be under continual fire.

Until the millennium is reached, individuals, institutions and governments will continue, as a matter of self preservation, to favor their friends...

Friends of Hon. Alex. Manson feel they will never be called upon to defend him upon this score. They feel that, whatever his faults, he is morally clean.
