Revolution in Greece Follows Defeat.

The Greek people seem to blame King Constantine and his cabinet for the defeat of the Greek army. Whether they are right or not at any rate the king has been forced to abdicate and a new regime will follow in that country.

The Greek army reminds one of the ordinary electorate in any democratic country. It is changeable as the winds and exceedingly fickle. Often the men who serve the people best are the ones spurned.

Difficulty of Serving Public.

Constantine probably got what he deserved, but at the same time it is evident that serving the public is the most thankless job there is. The public has no idea of gratitude and men are thrown over after doing good service without any thought for them or their welfare.

Even in minor positions in the country, those who serve the people collectively have a difficult time. Officials who have to meet people and try to help them find themselves continually annoyed and worried because some person makes himself obnoxious. Usually trouble arises because a few people consider they should have more than their share of attention and the official knows that they have no right to it.

Happy Position of Not Being Dependent.

Any person who is dependent on public favor is bound to get into difficulties, especially if he feels his dependent position. Anyone who is independent and does not have to care in a happy position. He is able to go his way and do his duty without fear of losing his job.

Many people like to be elected to a public position because they feel it is an honor, and so it is. To serve a community is the greatest honor that can come to a person but let the man who sets out to do it beware. He is bound to get into difficulties. He is bound to feel at times that the people are ungrateful and just when he thinks he is doing his best work he is likely to be deposed.

William Randolph Hearst Ambitious.

William Randolph Hearst is anxious to serve the public as president of the United States. He has plenty of money and he has about all the newspapers he wants. He is able to hold up his finger and a newspaper in each big city of the country responds. To that extent he has an immense lot of power, but he covets more. He is clever and he may eventually get to the top position. He will certainly neglect no opportunity to put himself there if there is a possibility of doing so.

TENDERS ARE CALLED FOR WHARF ADDITION AND SHED AT STEWART

Increase of Business at Mining Camp Makes Extension Necessary.

Tenders are being called by the department of public works of the Dominion Government for the construction of an addition to the wharf at Stewart and for the erection of an addition to the freight shed thereon.

The addition has been made necessary owing to the increase in business at that point due to the development of the mines. While only one or two of the mines have shipped ore in addition to the Premier, several more will do so in the near future and it is expected that before long there will be a number of shipping mines at Stewart.

NEW ENGLAND SUPPER WAS GREAT SUCCESS AT TERRACE MONDAY

Excellent Program Followed Beans and Pumpkin Pie in Presbyterian Church.

A New England supper was held in the Presbyterian Church Monday evening under the auspices of the Ladies' Guild. The proverbial pork and beans, brown bread and pumpkin pie were served in abundance. The Church was beautifully decorated with some of the prize winning fruit, vegetables and grains from the Fair and one of the most interesting events of the evening occurred when Mr. Bishop,

PARADISE BENEATH CROSSING SCIMITARS

Turk Interprets Indefinite Saying in Koran as Blessing on War

In the shades of the crossing scimitars there is paradise, says the Koran, and the Ottoman Turk has always been ready to take this promise as a direct command to war on the unbeliever, says the Toronto Globe. Mahomet nowhere expressly stated that there must be constant warfare between Islam and the rest of the world, but history shows that the Turk has not awaited an explicit admonition to battle when he scents carnage from afar. He is, by law and custom, a soldier, and each fighter goes into battle in the firm assurance that, should he be killed in defence of the faith, he will immediately be translated to the enjoyment of the special delights which await him in paradise.

It is a strange turn of the wheel that would put Kemal Pasha at the head of an army fighting a Jihad or holy war. The Young Turks and the Nationalists broke violently away from the traditions of their forefathers and openly flouted the tenets of Mahomet. They have warred on the Sultan himself and borne arms against the Commander of the Faithful, even although he was supported with all the authority of the spiritual arm as wielded by the Sheikh ul Islam. Since the first shot was fired across the Danube in 1914 the world has grown accustomed to strange alliances and changes in orientation, but there have been a few stranger than the spectacle presented by the head of the Young Turks being hailed by Islam as the champion of the faith of the Prophet.
