

STUART SHIELD TO CANADIANS

Cinched Trophy by Beating Callies Last Night 4 to 1

Defeating the Callies in last night's football game by a score of 4 to 1, the Sons of Canada took a cinch on the Stuart Benefit shield, thus winning their fourth athletic trophy of the year and the second at soccer. Their victory was easy, not only through their own merits but also on account of the rather poor showing of the Scots in the first half of the game. At least two of which were caused by the errors of Kinghorn on the Scottish back line. However, the Canadians also showed their superiority at the same in their period and were warranted a lead. It was only in the second half that the Callies showed any style at all and then they did have the lion's share of the play and only missed narrowly scoring more than the solitary one that came their way.

In the first half the Callies only fielded ten men, Currie being absent from the inside left position, and also they played against the grade and wind. The play of this period was almost entirely in the Sons' quarter and only once did the ball come in close proximity of Scott, the Sons' goalie, that being on a long wide shot from left forward which crossed in front of the goal over the life. The first goal for the Sons was ten minutes after the opening when they were awarded a penalty off Murray who handled. Warren took the kick and made no mistake about the leather clearing Brice. After a close try by Davis which was saved by Brice but left the ball still in close proximity of the goal mouth, Jimmie Marks hung up the second from close range for the Canadians five minutes later. But three minutes more elapsed before S. Marks got the third which might well have been cleared. The Scottish spectators began to groan, groaning more when, at 27 minutes, C. Blythe kicked in from outside right, Abe Kinghorn finishing the job by leading right into the opponents' goal. The Sons missed at least one more chance with an open goal in front of them and the first half ended 3 to nil. Throughout the period the Sons had played pretty football with several brilliant individual showings, while the Callies seemed helpless to clear and get in the play themselves, the backs especially failing them.

Second Half

As far as the Sons of Canada was concerned their play in the second half was not so good and they seemed to rest on their oars with almost deliberate attempts at wasting time by kicking the ball outside the lines instead of keeping it in play. In any case, the Callies were on the offensive and they tried hard pressing the play and making several splendid shots, notably those of Dave Gay and Jack Campbell. However, things were going against them and they just saved themselves from a shut-out seven minutes before the final whistle when Dave Scott scored from a corner taken by Dave Jack. Darkness settled down before the finish and Harry Menzies, the Canadian captain and full back, delayed things considerably when he kicked the ball sky high over the fence on two occasions. Shortly before the end a minute's delay was caused when Charlie Blythe and Abe Kinghorn collided, the latter being temporarily incapacitated after having received a series of hard knocks in the course of the period.

Probably the most noticeable player of the evening was Charlie Blythe who, at outside right for the Sons, played safe a dozen crosses to the centre and came close to scoring himself on more than one occasion. Charlie, though not an experienced soccerist, showed form that might not have been realized and gave his side excellent service. The Marks brothers showed their value and so did Warren. La Casse's speed outshining his edginess at the game. Jimmie Mitchell and D. Davis held their own at half back, the Menzie boys made many a long safe clearance from the full back line and Scott played goal to good advantage in the second half, the only period of the game when he was called upon at all.

Callies' Playing

George Sellars, who played inside left for Currie, filling the gap in the Callies' line-up in the second half, made the best showing of the forward line of that side. Gay and Jack, however, also made good in the second half but Mackintosh was decidedly off color. The half backs gave average service, but Kinghorn made as many misses as saves at full. Brice could not be blamed for the Callies' loss although he might have saved one that went through him. The full back line was the weakest spot, however.

Alex. Holmberg refereed and R. Rowe and G. Waugh were linesmen, the players being as follows:

Callies — Brice; Kinghorn and Murray; Abbott, Scott and Campbell; Anderson, Sellars (second half only), Mackintosh, Gay and Jack.

Sons of Canada—Scott; V. Menzies and H. Menzies; J. Mitchell, Davis and G. Mitchell; La Casse, Warren, J. Marks, S. Marks, Blythe.

Scorers—Scott, 1; Kinghorn, 1 (for Sons of Canada); Warren, 1; J. Marks, 1; S. Marks, 1.

The weather was cold and murky and the attendance was slim.

HISTORY OF THE GIANTS

For More Than a Quarter Century They Have Lived up to Their Name

NEW YORK, Sept. 28.—"Giants in action as well as in stature," mused old Jim Mutrie, one day more than a quarter of a century ago as he sat observing the New York team, then an aggregation of six-footers, stride to victory as easily as a fairy-book man wearing seven-league boots would win a Marathon race.

Ever since they have been the "Giants"—professionally, competitively and financially. Jim was the "Daddy of the Giants" and had the right to attach a moniker to his figurative progeny, but when he uttered his now famous phrase he did it out of simple admiration. A reporter sitting near to him usurped the ministerial function and did the baptizing.

The Giants are now 40 years old. Mutrie brought the club into existence in 1893 by inducing John B. Day, a rabid fan of the sideburns days, to finance this idea. Jim took the management and played the first seasons on the old Polo Grounds, then on Fifth Avenue, gaining admittance to the National League in its initial year by replacing the Troy team.

Some Old Timers

On that "nine" figuratively and actually a "nine" with no substitute pitchers nor catchers, were "Buck Ewing," Mickey Welch, Roger Connor, Pat Gillespie and E. Haskins, all big muscular men. Day sold his interests to Cornelius Van Gott in 1893. Van Gott didn't stick along, disposing of the franchise in 1895 after the club had finished fifth in 1891.

Andrew Freedman was the next owner, retaining control for eight years, but the club was unsuccessful, finishing in the second division in every year except 1897. In his eight-year span Freedman had eleven managers, including George Davis, Jack Doyle, Harvey Watkins, Arthur Irwin, Bill Joyce, Captain A. C. Anson, John B. Day, Fred Hoey, Buck Ewing, George Smith and Horace Fogel.

McGraw Comes In

John Joseph McGraw, "Napoleon of Baseball," came to the helm in 1903 after he had lost both his heart and head in the old Baltimore Orioles, and finished second his first year. John T. Brush, builder of the present imposing edifice, sometimes called the Brush Stadium, was the owner then.

The following year McGraw's team won the pennant but refused to play the Boston Americans for the World's Championship. The refusal led to the formation of the former National Commission in the following year and it at once made mandatory a series of contests for the supremacy of the world. The Giants won the pennant again the next year and defeated the Philadelphia Athletics, four games to one, for the title.

Harry Rempstead, in 1911, succeeded his father-in-law, John E. Brush, as head of the club, and six years later gave McGraw a new contract which included stock in the operating company. Two years later Charles A. Stoneham, Francis McQuade and McGraw purchased the club from the Brush estate and Stoneham became the president.

leaving Canada for good as he will return to this side of the Atlantic next year but he then intends to settle permanently in Eastern Canada. He plans to reach England in time for Christmas but will spend a holiday in Ontario before going across. Mr. Day Bell is now in his thirtieth year of residence in this city. Ever since his arrival he has worked energetically and effectively towards developing athletics of the better kind in the city. He was one of the first to kick a football on the old G. T. P. wharf a dozen years ago and helped to organize as well as played in the first Sons of England football team in the city. Ten years ago he took a leading part in the agitation for the making of the Aeropolis Hill grounds. Also a good swimmer, Mr. Day Bell was one of the first members of the Prince Rupert Swimming Club and for one season was official trainer for the society. His departure from the city will be a matter of regret generally and it is hoped that some day he may see fit to return.

Sport Chat

At this time when interest in the Stuart Shield football competition may be appearing to flag it will not be amiss to remind fans of the worthy object that the proceeds of the game are being devoted to. There still remain two fixtures on the schedule to be played off and fans will get their money's worth of soccer besides helping in a good cause. The next game will be tomorrow night between the Sons of England and Grotto with the date of the postponed Sons of England vs. Callies match yet to be set. In all probability it will be some evening next week.

Prince Rupert is to lose one of her real pioneer sports very soon in the person of John Day Bell who leaves a week from Sunday night for the south enroute to Eastern Canada and England. Mr. Day Bell is not

TO MAKE IMPROVEMENT BOAT CLUB PREMISES

Lease For Property Signed Yesterday; Vote of Thanks to McLean

At a meeting of directors of the Prince Rupert Yacht and Rowing Club, president Dr. W. T. Kergin, presiding, it was decided to erect a home for the caretaker of the club on the float built for that purpose last summer. The new building will cost about $500.

Yesterday a lease for the property was signed with the Grand Trunk Pacific Development Co. under which the club undertakes to pay a dollar a year rent and the taxes on an 87 foot frontage amounting to $243.80.

A vote of thanks to M. McLean was passed for his excellent work and supervision in connection with the building of the floats.

Persistent advertising is absolutely necessary to success.
