SWAMP POINT FLUX CAMP CLOSED DOWN

Supply of Lime Rock is Exhausted—Another Quarry Will be Developed

The quartz quarry at Swamp Point, which is situated up the Portland Canal, and which has been operated by the Granby Co. for a number of years, has been closed down, the lime rock being exhausted, says the Alice Arm Herald.

It is understood that another quarry will be developed on the property next spring, and in the meantime the ore from the Esperanza, at Alice Arm, and the Premier, at Stewart, with the lime rock in storage, will be sufficient for fluxing purposes.

Mr. A. B. Wing, who was in charge of operations, will spend the winter in the south in company with Mrs. Wing. Mr. and Mrs. J. Ferguson will move over to Hidden Creek mine.
