OLD LADIES DANCE AT PUBLIC FUNCTIONS

LONDON, July 26.—At all recent festivities the number of old ladies present has been astonishing. There were dozens of them at Princess Mary's ball, and quite a number were dancing with young men. One old lady, very stout and small, had a charming cavalier and fox-trotted very gaily. Many of these pleasure-loving dowagers, who are not asked to "young" dances, can satisfy their love of dancing only by attending the big charity balls, for which they take boxes, and to which young competitors are not asked, but only young dancing men. They are also to be seen at the raccourses and riding round the paddock and betting with considerable judgment.

WIFE A VAGABOND

Retired Builder Writes to Father-in-law Scathing Letter Complaining About Daughter.

LONDON, July 26.—Mrs. Eleanor Lillian Pearce, whose maiden name was Beyer, of Aberdare-gardens, prayed for a judicial separation from Simon Henry Pearce, a retired builder, on the ground of his cruelty. The respondent denied the cruelty and prayed for a judicial separation on the ground of his wife's cruelty towards him. This the petitioner denied.

Mr. Cartwright Sharp said that the parties were married on April 30, 1911. Mrs. Pearce complained of her husband's heavy drinking, of his abominable language and of his violence. He had struck her and had given her black eyes. On the anniversary of their wedding day he wrote the following letter to his father-in-law at Southsea:

Dear Sir.—Just a reminder that ten years ago today I married the greatest vagabond, liar, and thief on earth. Nothing in the house is safe. She steals, pawns, shouts, and is a curse to the neighborhood. The police have been here many times. This morning I again caught her red-handed stealing money from my trousers pocket. She thinks she was born into the world to powder her face, smoke cigarettes, burn furniture and carpets, spend her time in picture palaces, music halls, and stop out every night with my brother.

The servant is as bad as her, and, with the aid of the police, is being thrown out on Wednesday, and your daughter will follow. She is ruining my boy, and the proper place for her to live is where she was born.—Yours faithfully, S. H. Pearce.

COURTEOUS DISCRETION.

Judge Elbert H. Gray, when questioned by reporters recently concerning a White House conference, refused any information either in confidence or for publication.

"Such information should come only from the President," he said, "and it would not be courteous for me to say anything."

"Is it a question of being courteous or of being discreet?" one of the newspaper men asked.

The Judge paused a moment and then countered with a thrust that ended the interview:

"It is always discreet to be courteous."
