

Doctor Said "Keep on Using Zam-Buk"

"My little son was badly scalded by pulling a pan of boiling water over himself," writes Mrs. Albert Sawyer, of Midland, Ontario. "I called in a doctor, but his ointments failed to ease the child's intense pain. I therefore discontinued the treatment and began with Zam-Buk instead."

"This wonderful balm appeared to relieve pain almost immediately, but to make sure I was doing the right thing, I called in a second doctor. When I told him what I was using, he said:— 'That's right—just keep on with Zam-Buk, there's nothing so good for scalds and burns.'"

"As I persevered with Zam-Buk all soreness and inflammation was drawn out of the injuries and new skin gradually formed. It was not long before the scalds—although so extensive and severe—were completely healed."

Zam-Buk obtainable of all chemists and stores, 50c. box, is equally splendid for the treatment of eczema, ulcers, ringworm, piles, varicose sores, poisoned wounds, chaps, cold-sores, chilblains etc.

Library Advocates Present Petition to City Council Asking for Passing of Bylaw

A delegation from the Prince Rupert Library Association, comprising Rev. G. G. Hacker (chairman), W. E. Williams, H. F. Pullen, Howard White, T. Ross McKay, Mrs. H. Pattinson and G. V. Wilkinson, appeared before the city council last night asking that a bylaw for the establishment of a municipal library in the city be put to the electors at the earliest possible moment. A widely signed petition was also submitted to the meeting. The delegation was given a favorable hearing and was told that the main difficulty would be one of finance. The petition was referred to the city clerk to be checked up to ascertain of the required 100 property owners have signed it.

Mr. Hacker, the spokesman of the delegation, stated that the time had now come for the establishment of a library. A representative meeting of the Association had unanimously decided that the city should be asked to put through a bylaw to go before the people as soon as possible. An initial grant of $2,500 covering $1000 for librarian's salary, $1000 for books and $500 for incidentals, would be required. A like sum would be necessary each year. The present reading room, with slightly larger extensions than had been planned, would serve the purpose of the library as well.

Public Opinion With It.

Mr. Hacker stated that the petition which was being presented had been signed in a very few hours and that there had been only one or two who objected to it. One of these had said that the young people would not be given the proper kind of reading. In his mind, this was a strong argument in favor of the library rather than against it. A proper library would attend to this need. Although times were hard, the unemployed would benefit to a great extent through such a library and many pleasant hours could be spent. The taxpayers strongly favored the library and public opinion was behind the movement. It was the duty of the council to act when the people were expecting it.

Mr. Pullen said that public sentiment was undoubtedly strongly in favor of the library. The cost would be very small and a levy of a quarter of a mill would cover it. Miss Stewart, president of the Library Association of B. C., a government institution, in conversation with him, had said that Prince Rupert was one of the places that was causing worry to the Association. She had wondered why something had not been done here. All the data had been given by her. A bylaw could be put up at any time a money bylaw was presented. The people were anxious to have a library.

Trained Librarian.

Mr. Pullen pointed out the necessity for a trained librarian, preferably a lady. The life of the whole institution would be in the hands of the librarian and it would only be successful by having one. The present reading room would be a suitable place and it might be possible for the librarian to supervise that as well. The people would then get something for their money. Mr. Pullen declared that the association could have filled the council chamber with an enthusiastic delegation of citizens.

Real Demand.

Mr. Williams concurred in the statement that now was the time to get the library started. There was a real demand and necessity for it. The city had been criticized because there was no Y. M. C. A. and no place for people to go. Books had gone up 75 per cent in price in the last seven or eight years. Prince Rupert was the sort of place where many people had no homes. They either could not afford books or could not carry them around with them. The money in establishing one would be well spent. He was loath to ask the city council to spend money but he thought that, next to the hospital, the library was most worthy of support. The citizens were entitled to it. Where in the Dominion of Canada was there a city the size of Prince Rupert without a library. Because the people were pioneers and ambitious was no reason it should be overlooked. Along the lines of opportunity and education it would be invaluable and it might keep the younger men away from the poolrooms. It was in the interests of the city and the people who had money invested in it to have a library started.

Mr. Williams went on to deal with the legal aspect of the matter saying that the council was in duty bound to present the bylaw at the next election where a money bylaw was submitted. The council assumed no responsibility and it was high time that a start was made.

City Solicitor Hooper agreed that the bylaw could be submitted at any time with another money bylaw.

Mayor Supports.

"I think this is a splendid idea," said Mayor Rochester, "and the city should have a library. There are not many cities of this size that have not one. Perhaps, however, there are not many cities of this size that have as large expenses in making roads and other public works. A public library would be a big asset and I am sure that the council will lend every effort to having it established. The financial end of it seems to me to be the worst feature as the city, through the unemployed, is this year faced with an extra expenditure of many thousands of dollars which had not been expected."

Ald. Dybhavn, chairman of the finance committee, said it was just a question of money and, if it came down to that, he was not prepared just then to say what could be done. As far as money was concerned the time was very inopportune even to submit a bylaw under such uncertain conditions. The usefulness of the library was conceded but the city had other problems just as important or perhaps more so. Just where the money would be obtained was a question and he was not prepared at the present time to give any hope. Passing a bylaw would not find the money.

Aldermen's Views.

Ald. Kelly said he was in favor of the library right through and even if expenditure on something else had to be cut out the bylaw should go to the people.

Ald. Montgomery expressed sympathy with the movement and felt that $2,500 could be spent without seriously affecting the city's finances. A bylaw should

I have in my humble way attempted to check the destructive legislation of the past few years. The world seems to have gone mad with the desire to interfere with the other fellow's business, not to help, but to prohibit; I beg to point out to you once more that service is the base of all business.

The bar-rooms were public club rooms where people congregated to while away the passing hour for which service those people who used these services paid. The community first destroyed this service without having provided something to take its place.

The Bolsheviks or abolitionists or prohibitionists were destroyers. The community found that the destruction of these club services was not wise, that we had erred in doing so. In groping for the remedy we tried Government Control. The idea is practical in the hands of practical men, not in the hands of visionaries. Government control of liquor or dope or food or clothing can only be a success when the government undertakes to perform these services better or cheaper or both, than private individuals can.
