Splendid Work Of The Northern Cross.

The missionary launch known up and down this coast as the Northern Cross has just completed ten years of efficient service having been in commission almost continuously during this time. Rev. W. F. Rushbrook, who prior to this had been seven years at Port Essington, has been the first and only skipper of this launch, many of his suggestions having been embodied in the plans drawn by the naval architects for the launch was built to the order of the Anglican Synod.

It is scarcely possible to adequately describe the good work done by Canon Rushbrook on this coast. He is a master-mariner, a fine scholar, having taken a science course in the University of Toronto he finds his knowledge of geology and botany most useful, a practical gardener and poultryman, and so able to give expert advice to the settlers; a most genial nature, carrying sunshine wherever he goes.

As I have been with him on some of his trips I can testify to the way the lonely settlers greet him, their faces beaming with pleasure to see him again, children especially being attracted to him as to a magnet. He visits lighthouse keepers as well as scattered settlers and holds religious services once a month at a stated time in about twenty different places. He distributes literature and does obliging acts. Through ten years of faithful service in these northern waters the Northern Cross has embodied the spirit of sacrifice for the good of others which is the meaning of the Cross of Christ.

Quick Changes Taking Place.

In the old days people used to sing about this being a world of change, but they knew nothing of what was meant by modern quick changes. These are the days of change or rapid transition and of the rolling away of ancient landmarks.

Perhaps the world was getting into a rut and was needing an awakening. At any rate the awakening came with the great war and as soon as the people showed a tendency to relapse into the old ways other awakenings came to keep them alive to the necessity of remaining awake to modern thought and trend. The future is not all clear but it is surely making for betterment, even though in the process many may suffer. Nature always seems ruthless in her methods. She has no pity. Beneath it all, however, is the evolutionary movement always going on. As the poet Lowell said:

Even the clod feels a stir of might
Something within it which reaches and towers
And groping blindly above it for light
Climbs to a soul in grass and flowers.

Materialism Becoming A Spent Force.

In his address to the Methodist General Conference this week, Dr. Ghown, the president, said: "Materialism, which gave some of our fathers grave concern, and bombarded our educational institutions with such ceaseless fire, appears to be rapidly becoming a spent force. The hypothesis of evolution, regarded as a divine method, will likely stand, but conceived of as alone due to natural laws supposed to have native force in themselves and to be self-acting, appears to a layman to have been successfully attacked as incompetent to account for origins, for instincts, and for the whole realm of spiritual intuitions, which now not only challenges, but is receiving the major attention of the thinking world."

"In practice materialism is condemned as failing to supply the compelling altruistic ideals which indubitably, from within the British Empire at least, swayed the hearts of multitudes of men, and settled world destiny during the Great War."

"The only religion where materialism continues to manifest striking power is in its appeal to the acquisitive instinct, producing desire for immense accumulations of this world's goods. But even here its control is being seriously disputed by the growing humanity of man, and is doomed to early defeat. Its reign as a respectable motive or even influence in human affairs draws to a close. In the secret heart of men apparently most addicted to accumulation, the strongest motive is the satisfaction of playing a winning hand in the game of life. The pity of it is that their sport should spell misery and injustice to so many millions of their less fortunate fellows."

HAVE YOU A HUSBAND

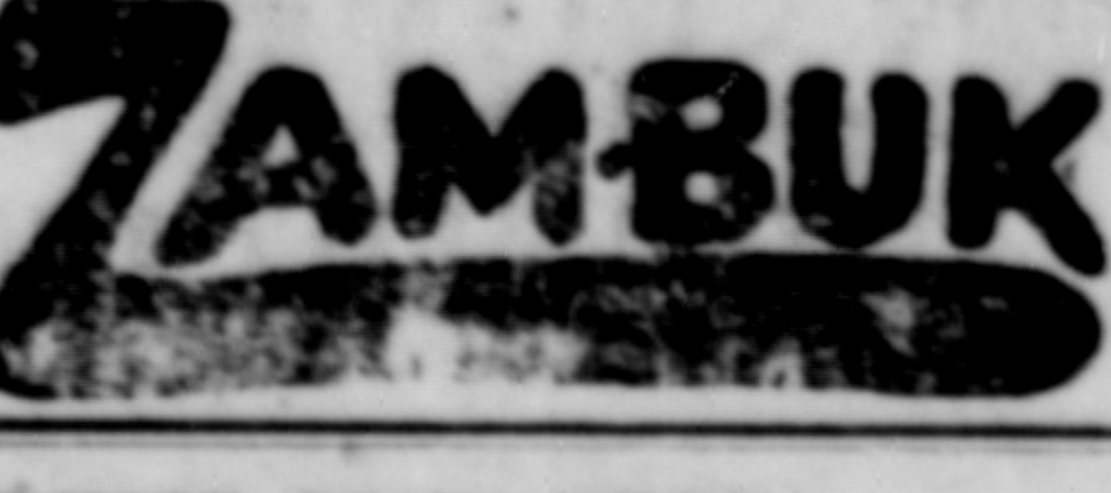

child or friend, who is suffering from eczema, or other skin disease, or an obstinate sore that has defied medical treatment? If so, that is a case for Zam-Buk.

Mrs. B. Ellis, of Castleton, Ont., writes: "My husband suffered intensely with a running sore on his foot. The sore penetrated to the bone, and the inflammation was so bad that he could not sleep at nights. After spending a lot of money and trying every remedy we heard of, with no result, I read of a cure which Zam-Buk had effected in a similar case, and got a box.

"Within two hours after the first application the pain was eased; and with perseverance the inflammation was drawn out, the swelling reduced, and before long the sore was entirely healed."

Zam-Buk also cures ulcers, abscesses, eczema, poisoned wounds, pimples, cold sores, chapped hands and chilblains.

50c box 3 for $1.25, at all druggists, or Zam-Buk Co., Toronto.

PRINCE JOHN HERE FROM Q.C. ISLANDS

Boon-men Strike at Sedgewick Bay-Freight For Jap Salt-eries - Canneries Done For Year

The G. T. P. passenger steamer Prince John, Capt. Harry Nedden, arrived in port at 7 o'clock this morning from Vancouver via the Queen Charlotte Islands. The steamer had a full passenger list from Vancouver for the Islands and look on another full list at various points there for Prince Rupert. Included in the latter were several boon men from Sedgewick Bay who have gone on strike for $5.75 a day instead of $5.25 now being paid. It is reported that their departure will have little effect on operations, however, and that their places will soon be filled.

The John also had a good cargo of freight from the south for the Islands including supplies for the four Japanese dog salmon salteries at Jedway, Lazoon Bay, Lookport and Cumshewa. These fish are being put up at these points for export to Japan.

All canneries on the Islands are now closed, officers of the boat report, but logging operations continue steadily which means quite a shipping business. The three canneries operating on the Islands this year were at Watun River, Alford Bay and Lazoon Bay.

Ten Years Ago in Prince Rupert

September 29, 1912.

A great blast, in which between fifteen and twenty tons of powder was used, was successfully shot in the clearing operations at Hays Cove yesterday afternoon. Five coyotes had been bored and many tons of rock were loosened. Archie McDugall, contractor, was actively in charge.

Leo Reitel has been in town for the past three weeks visiting his brother, E. O. Reitel. He will return to his home in Vancouver tomorrow morning.

EDUCATIONAL SYSTEM, B.C.

Principal Campbell Explains How Young Idea Is Taught to Sprout

"There is a decided lack of information in regard to the educational system of British Columbia and as to the difference between the systems in vogue today and those used when the older people went to school," declared Harold Campbell, supervising principal of the Prince Rupert public schools, at the Rotary Club luncheon yesterday afternoon. The information regarding modern education is based on what people remember of their own school days added to what the children tell them and what they hear from their neighbors.

The Organization

To begin with the British North America Act provides that education shall be a matter with which the provinces will deal as apart from federal control, said the speaker. A minister of education has charge of it and associated with him is a council of public instruction made up of a group of educationists and statesmen. The present minister of education, Dr. McLean, is also provincial secretary.

At the head of the education office is a superintendent of education and an assistant superintendent, the present holders of those positions being S. J. Willis and John Gillis respectively. The council of public instruction formulates the course of study with rules and regulations and the education office promulgates them and sees that they are enforced. In order to do this they appoint inspectors for each district who have a general oversight over the work of the schools. The courses are uniform throughout the province.

Financing Schools

Part of the expense of carrying on the education work is undertaken by the provincial government through the education department. In what are known as assisted schools the department bears practically all the expense. In rural schools, the trustees appoint the teacher and bear part of the expense, the money being raised by a school rate levied through the government. In municipalities still a larger part of the expense rests on the local community, municipal share of the money for upkeep being raised from local rates.

The school board looks after the administration wherever this is now in conflict with the provincial control. The board however, has no control of the subjects to be taught or of the arrangement of the curriculum, that being carried out under instructions from the local inspector.

Occupies Seven Years

The public school course occupies about seven years, the period being divided into fourteen terms. The grades are divided into junior, intermediate and senior, and each of these grades is again subdivided. The subjects taught are phonics, reading, writing, spelling, nature, geography, language, manual work, drawing, dictation, composition, health, Canadian history, British history, grammar, and literature.

Mr. Campbell then outlined the method used in teaching arithmetic. He said that in every organized school the subjects were divided to correspond with the teaching periods and a record is kept every day of all subjects taught and the time devoted to each.

There was a popular idea that teaching was a hit or miss profession, but as a matter of fact everything was carefully planned and worked out with precision with especial care to see that the backward pupils received attention.

Mr. Campbell was thanked for his address which he illustrated by charts, and at the conclusion received many personal congratulations from members of the club who were surprised and pleased at the evident mastery of the subject displayed by the speaker.
