Michael Collins Buried Amid Grief DEVELOPMENT STEWART PERMANENT MINING CAMP PROCEEDS

Many Mining Men National Repute Visit Stewart; Great Development Going on there

STEWART, Aug. 28.—Every steamer that arrives brings mining men of national repute, prospectors, business men who see a chance of making money in mines or from miners' supplies and laborers who are looking for permanent work with a chance to get on something good when out in the hills. Most of them remain here but some go away. All who know anything about mining are agreed that Stewart is now looking like a real mining camp.

Never before in the history of Stewart, even in the boom days when everyone was gambling on possibilities, has there been as much interest taken here by real miners as there is today. The men who have likely looking properties are either developing them or are trying to interest capitalists who have money to take an interest in them.

The Premier continues to do as well as ever. While shipping is going steadily on it is accompanied by development work and a permanent camp is springing up around the mine at Premier. In the same neighborhood are a number of good looking prospects all of which have good showings. A recent good strike on Glacier Creek in a tunnel being driven on the Dunwell property struck some high grade ore last week, the native silver being almost exactly similar to that taken from Premier. The Dunwell property is a consolidation of the old Stewart mine and the Dunwell claims. It is only five miles from Stewart, and is at an elevation of 1,500 feet above sea level.

Work is proceeding on the Big Missouri, where high grade ore carrying very high values in gold were recently reported. The Fish Creek property is to be worked all winter, a new camp being in course of erection capable of accommodating 25 men. Some big values in silver and gold have been taken from ores taken from a tunnel on this property.

Gus Seiffert, who has bonded the Rufus property is going east in connection with the property. A lot of money is to be spent in development work, he says.

Capt. C. A. MacKenzie is going to do development work on the Prince John property.

A. B. Trites has taken a working bond on the Unicorn group from John Howland and Louis Watkins. A crew of men has been put to work there.

HAVRE, Aug. 28.—The Franklin Club in which thousands of rioting strikers took refuge has been captured by troops with a total casualty list of three killed and 53 wounded.

One regiment refused to fight against the strikers and several soldiers were arrested.

While Collins' body was being removed through the streets to the cathedral preparatory to the funeral today, a group of five men were dragged from their respective homes, hurried through the city in an auto to the suburbs where children were playing and the children forced to watch them shot down, protesting and begging to know at least what crime they had committed.

Dundalk was terrorized by the guerrilla warfare of republicans. Gork city is filled with the noise of shooting and bombing.

WAS PICKED UP BY FISHING BOAT OUT IN HECATE STRAITS

Old Man Who Gave His Name as Anthon Doll Said He was on Way to Vancouver and Australia.

When the fishing boat Joe Baker was crossing Hecate Straits at the week end it came across a man who gave his name as Anthon Doll in an old sail boat who said he was on his way to Vancouver and Australia. The Joe Baker towed the boat to Seow Harbor, Aristobel Island, where the Lillooet is now doing survey work and the officers and men on the Lillooet are keeping an eye on the craft and its queer occupant.

Collins Funeral Wonderful Display of National Grief

DUBLIN, Aug. 28.—The body of Michael Collins was laid to rest here today in Glasnevin, after a demonstration of national grief seldom seen in long centuries of the troubled history of Ireland. Collins went to his grave amid the tears of a nation that worshipped him personally as a gallant young patriot in whom were combined all the traits Irishmen hold dear, humor, oratorical power, laughing in disregard of death.

Sister Mary Celestina came from the convent in England to pray for her baby brother. Beside her knelt Sean Collins, the general's brother, but it was on the trembling young woman nearby that all eyes fell most piteously, Kitty Kernan, Collins' betrothed.
