Budget About To Make Appearance.

Hon. W. S. Fielding's first budget, long-looked for and much demanded by the Conservative element in the Canadian House of Commons, is making its appearance this afternoon. Its submission at this time is generally conceded to be a sort of earnest of good faith and a desire to meet, at least partially, the demand of private members for more information regarding the government policies and intentions. Although Mr. Fielding recently took the rank and file of the Liberal party into his confidence at a general caucus to the extent of asking them to express their views on the tariff, he has, until this time, given little indication of what the budget contains exactly. Under the Canadian budget system it is obviously impossible that a Finance Minister should give even the smallest inkling of his fiscal intentions. The present minister was for 15 years tariff-maker and keeper of the treasury keys under Sir Wilfrid Laurier. He was noted then for his reticence; he has not changed since. At the party caucus, it is stated, the majority of the members favored a similar budget to the first delivered by the present minister in 1897. It was pretty generally understood that it would be such insofar as present day conditions may make it possible.

Is Most Interesting Item of Program.

Budget announcements are probably the most interesting single items that ordinary sessions of parliaments have to offer. This is not because of the figures given because they are generally wearisome, but it is because governmental policy is possibly given more indication by this means than by any other. It is on budget matters that political divisions are usually made for party policies are always reflected in them. The tariff is one of these. So far this session there has been little discussion of tariff for the simple reason that the government had not made a definite announcement regarding it. Present indications are that there will be no general revision of tariff although any changes that will be proposed, it may be expected, will receive opposition from the Conservative ranks. The Progressives will have to learn what alterations are to be made before they will take a stand and on account of this Progressive bloc it is rather likely that there will be no radical alterations.

Another interesting matter in all budgets is that of taxation. It is here that the government announces what old taxes are to be dropped or what new ones are to be adopted. This is where the people are affected personally, and it is for this reason that the public awaits with interest the budget speech.

The present budget contains less of an outstanding nature than many others of the past. It is only a very reasonable one that can be adopted, but nevertheless, there are facts and conditions that must be faced and it is the minister's duty in his budget to announce his solution for them.

Dr. Cruikshank, with his family, is in the city. This is the doctor's second visit to Prince Rupert, and he expressed himself well pleased with the rapid development going on. Dr. Cruikshank is an old school mate of Joe Scott of the Kaien Hardware Company.

J. E. Purcell, connected with the Naden Harbor Coal and Oil Development Co., is in the city. Mr. Purcell states that the company is employing eight men on the coal areas at Naden Harbor. They are engaged in making ready for the oil and coal drilling machinery which is expected to arrive about the first of June. Camps and a floating wharf have been built, and as soon as the drilling machinery arrives rapid progress will be made towards development. The company owns some 90 odd coal claims, in what experts believe to be the best likely location on Graham Island.

DRY DOCK GETS NO REFUND ON POWER ACCOUNT ASKED FOR

A report from the Utilities Committee recommending that the application from the dry dock for refund on electric account for the months of January and February be not granted but recommending that, effective March 1, the plant be put on the 4¢ to 1¢ power rate was adopted by the city council last night.

Ald. McLeod wanted to know why the refund was not granted, Ald. Kelly replying that there had been two rates in effect there for three years and, up to this time, there had been no objection made.

Ald. Montgomery questioned the advisability of extending of the 4¢ to 1¢ rate to the dry dock without formal application for it being made.

ROCK QUARRYING AT
SMITH ISLAND HELD UP; WORKMEN QUIT

A dispute between Henry Wulf, the city contractor, for the quarrying of rock at Smith Island, and his workmen has arisen and the work is closed down at the present time. The workmen, alleging that they have received no pay for their work, have quit the job and are now awaiting the action of the city council. Last night four of them headed by G. A. Swanson and Fred Martinson appeared before the council and were told by the mayor that the matter was now under advisement and he hoped that some kind of a suitable arrangement might be reached by this afternoon.

REAL FIGHT IN
CHARLES RAY FILM

This is Not All, However, and Interest is Held to End

There is a fight in "Scrap Iron," the latest Charles Ray feature, distributed through First National, which was shown at the Westholme Theatre last night and will be repeated tonight. It is probably the most realistic fight seen on the screen and with its dramatic finish, one would naturally imagine that the logical end of the photoplay had arrived. As a matter of fact, the end of the fight is not even anticlimactical, for what follows holds the interest tensely to the very last scene.

One after another the troubles of the plucky boy pile up until the relief comes at the last moment, and it is safe to say that the last scene, a close-up showing just the heads of the mother and the boy will be long remembered by those who see the picture. It is a radical departure from the accepted end of a feature.
