BRINGING UP FATHER

Prince Rupert General Hospital Affairs Since Inception 12 Years Ago

Today being National Hospital Day a brief narrative of the twelve years history of the local institution and an account of its present day activities, much enlarged and improved from the beginnings in 1909, may be of interest both to those who have lived in the city since the early days and have seen it grow in importance and value to the community and to those of later arrival who have known the Prince Rupert General Hospital only as it is today. The story shows that although the progress in hospital affairs has been commensurate in a degree with the progress of the city many more improvements are needed and the support which the hospital merits should be forthcoming more readily.

The Prince Rupert General Hospital was given birth at a meeting of citizens held in the old Methodist church on February 16, 1909, called for the purpose of organizing a General Hospital Society. J. A. Kirkpatrick was elected to the chair and M. M. Stephens was the secretary. Rev. W. J. Kidd, and John Houston addressed the meeting.

On January 14, 1910, the first annual general meeting of the Hospital Society was held and the articles of the association and the by-laws were adopted. J. A. Kirkpatrick was elected the first president, G. W. Morrow, vice-president, E. K. Strathly, T. D.

LATE DR. J. O. REDDIE.

One of the Early Medical Practitioners in the General Hospital.

Pattullo, D. G. Stewart, G. R. Naden and A. Carss, directors, and A. Cuthbert, secretary-treasurer.

The First Wing

Early in 1910 the first wing of the General Hospital was opened with a capacity of 25 beds, and Miss Kate McTavish was appointed matron. At this period there was no such convenience as an operating theatre, and the operations were then performed in improvised quarters.

The original wing of the hospital was built by public subscription with the aid of the provincial government. The sum of $40,000 was raised publicly and the government furnished an additional $10,000. All persons who subscribed $50 to the fund were made life members of the Hospital Association, today the Hospital Board being constituted of life members who subscribed at that time.

An additional wing to the hospital was opened in 1912, the opening ceremony being performed by the Duke of Connaught, then Governor-General of Canada, when on a tour through northern British Columbia.

Increase Since 1910

Since 1910 the hospital accommodation has been increased from 25 to some 60 beds. During the year ending December 31, 1921, 756 cases were admitted to the General Hospital, the hospital days numbered 16,474, and 242 operations were performed.

Departments now operating include a modern operating theatre embodying the latest appliances that medical science has devised, a maternity department, medical and surgical departments, a fully equipped medical laboratory and X-ray facilities.

To take care of the nursing requirements of the community it is necessary that pupil teachers be enrolled to fill vacancies occurring from time to time. The educational requirements for pupil nurses are such that they should have had at least one year at high school and must be between the age of 20 and 35 on entering. The entire course covers a period of three years.

The Nurses' Home

Outside of the running of the hospital there is another very important upkeep to be considered that of the nurses home. The house now occupied as a nurses home, situated near the hospital, is very inadequate for present needs and proper facilities are not afforded for the home life of the nurses. If girls, leaving good homes, are to be encouraged to spend several years of their lives in the welfare of their fellow beings it is most essential that every home comfort and convenience be afforded them and some attraction and inducement held out to them for their sacrifice. Accommodation affording separate bedrooms, a properly equipped classroom, a recreation room, library, is badly needed.

The Hospital Staff

The personnel of the staff of the hospital is at present as follows:

Miss C. Black, matron.
Miss Pearl V. Wall, operating theatre supervisor.
Miss Margaret Murray, supervisor of women's medical and surgical departments.
Miss H. Hamilton and Miss E. Palmer, night supervisors.
Mrs. Hutchison and Miss Jackson, head nurses.

In addition to these graduate

HON. T. D. PUTTALLO.

One of the First Directors of the Prince Rupert General Hospital.

nurses there are, at the present time, eleven pupil nurses enrolled embodying senior, intermediate and junior.

The senior pupil nurses are: Miss Hazel Lodge, Miss Mary McLennan and Miss Florence Byatt.

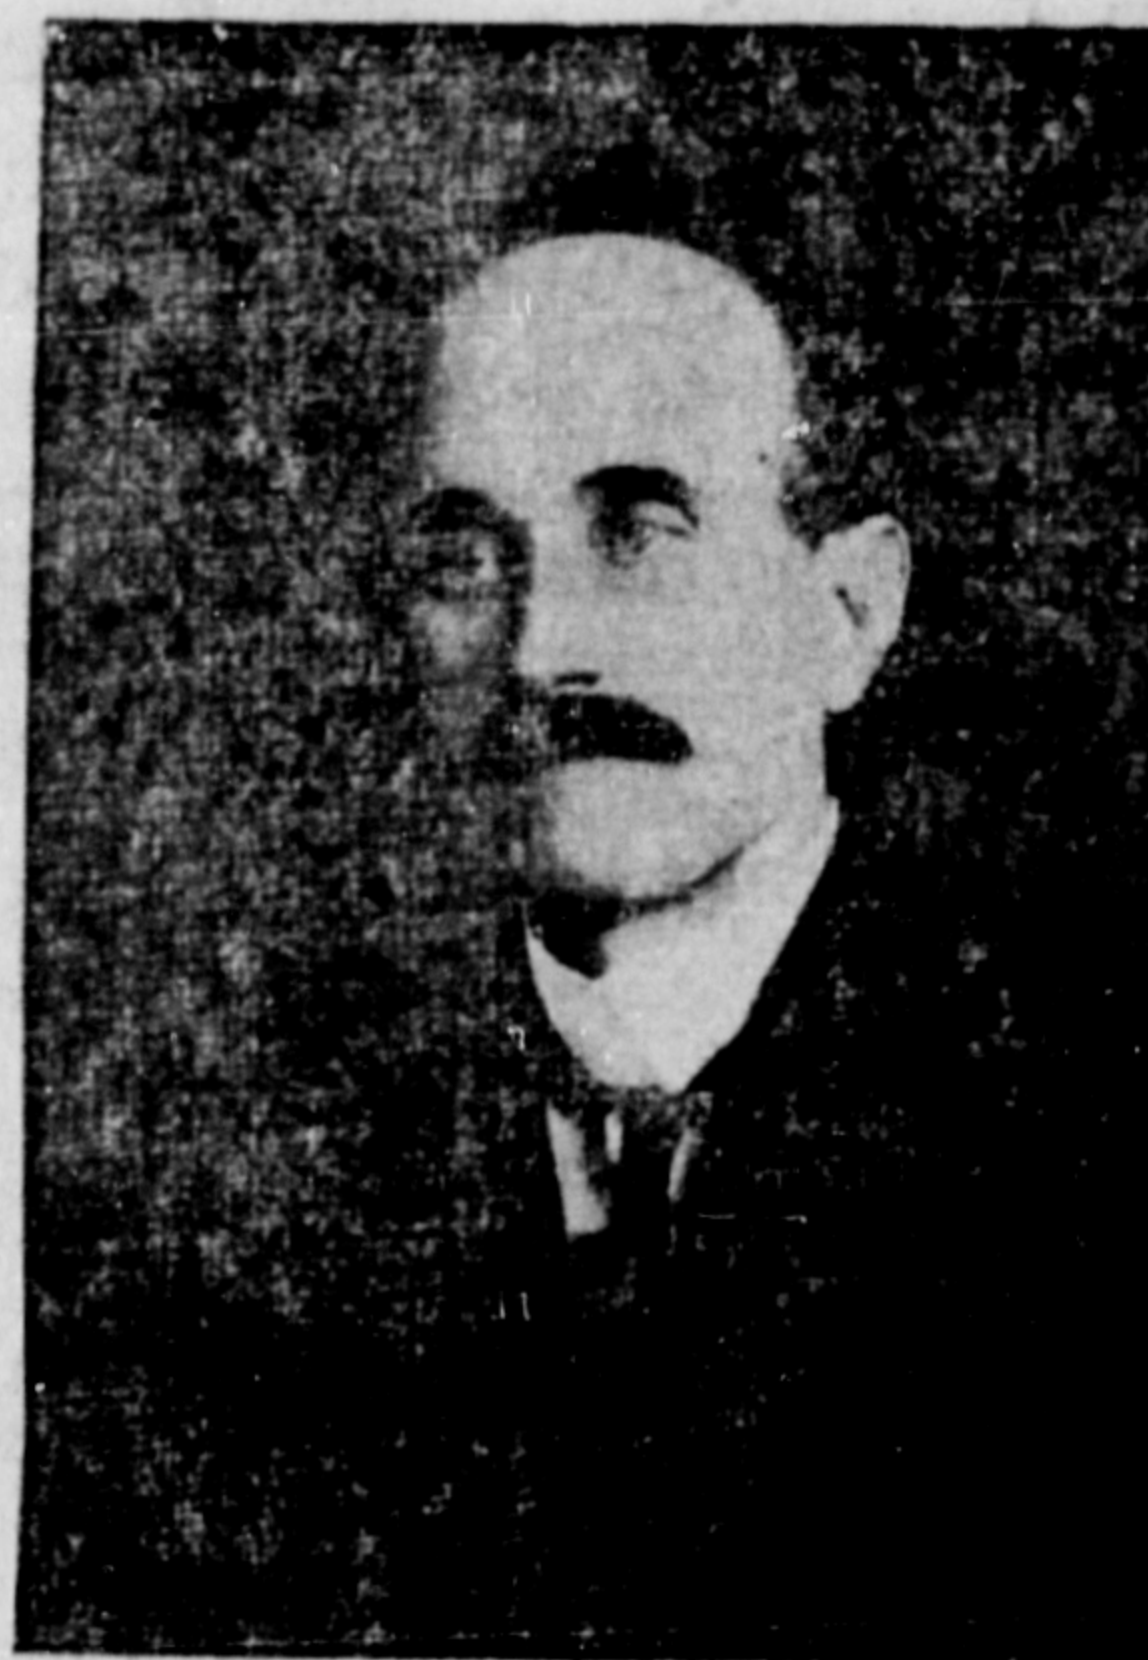

Intermediate: Miss F. Hedden, Miss Ella Frank, Miss B. White, Miss Y. Roberge, Miss F. Swanson and Miss E. Weller.

Junior: Miss G. Brooks and Miss G. Morgan.

Ladies' Auxiliary.

The Ladies' Hospital Auxiliary have done excellent work in connection with the hospital and have given very practical and timely aid. One of the outstanding features of the practical help derived by the hospital from this source was the opening up a couple of years ago of the laboratory costing in the neighborhood of $1,000. New pillows and two sets of Getz springs have also been purchased. The auxiliary is now working to obtain a further tray service, the cost of which will be about $500.

A Hospital Tag Day, under the auspices of the Ladies' Auxiliary, is to be held on Saturday, May 20. It is the intention of this organization to hold hospital teas during the summer months.

The graduating ceremony, held recently in honor of Nurse F. Fraser of Anxox, was undertaken by the Ladies' Auxiliary who made themselves responsible for the carrying out of the details with a grant from the Hospital Board.

Members of Auxiliary

The members of Ladies' Hospital Auxiliary are:
Mrs. T. C. Pringle (president), Mrs. J. Campbell, Mrs. J. W. Potter, Mrs. Dr. L. W. Kergin, Mrs. T. C. Duncan (treasurer), Mrs. Capt. Groves, Mrs. R. Blance, Mrs. C. A. Egert, Mrs. T. McClymont, Mrs. D. Thompson, Mrs. S. Darton, Mrs. J. L. Lee, Mrs. W. L. Sandison (secretary), Mrs. S. P. McDermid, Mrs. Dr. W. T. Kergin, Mrs. R. Parsons, Mrs. H. Atkins, Mrs. J. Barnsley, Mrs. Dr. L. W. Kergin, Mrs. D. W. Morressey, Mrs. T. Spencer, Mrs. C. E. Starr, Mrs. R. Warrior, Mrs. M. M. Stephens, Mrs. M. Heilbroner, Mrs. Jarvis McLeod, Mrs. H. Lipsett, Mrs. E. N. Valentine, Mrs. G. G. Backer, and Mrs. D. A. Candow. Mrs. S. Darton and Mrs. Jarvis McLeod are the representatives to the Hospital Board.

Hospital Finances

In addition to local requirements the hospital takes care of a number of outside cases yearly, which come in from lumber camps, mining camps, villages and towns in the interior. The total requirements far exceed the present financial budget of the hospital.

The average cost per hospital patient per day is $3.24. In well regulated hospitals the cost of patients differ very little.
