TWO FINE PICTURES

Special Double-Bill Being Offered on Screen of Capitol Theatre For Middle of Week

"The False Madonna," starring Kay Francis, William Boyd and Conway Tearle, and "The Forgotten Commandments," with Sari Maritza, Gene Raymond, Marguerite Churchill and Irving Pichel in the leading roles, are being offered on a special double screen bill for the middle of the week at the Capitol Theatre here. Either picture would ordinarily be adequate in itself for a single program feature.

"The False Madonna" tells vividly and thrillingly of the adventures of a lovely impostor who boldly masquerades as the mother of a dying boy and receives honest affection in return for her counterfeit love. A pathetic situation that wrings the heart finally exposes her deception. Yet, by courage and self-sacrifice, she obtains the romance and security that a shady career had denied her.

Highly spectacular scenes are flashed on the screen in "The Forgotten Commandments." It is a stirring, dramatic romance about ultra-modern life as contained in a present-day big city. The action of the story is fast and the sequence logical. Excerpts from the famous classic "The Ten Commandments" have been worked into the picture.

A. Davidson, in addition to extending tunnels on the Wild Cat, is at present developing the Summit group. He is working on a galena ore body with satisfactory results.

Archie McPhail, who has done considerable work on the Highland Boy group, is said to have developed a big body of galena ore this season. Morris Peterson, who has carried on development work on the Vanguard this year, has located a body of ore carrying good gold values.

J. Hauber, while working on the Lucky Strike group above the Vanguard, also struck a vein of gold-bearing ore.

MACKENZIE KING AND EMPIRE CONFERENCE

Editor, Daily News:—

With regard to your editorial yesterday I think you have not grasped Mackenzie King's point. His position is that now the United Kingdom is prepared to give Canada preferential treatment he would give her a real preference up to fifty percent of the general tariff.

His opposition to the Bennett trade agreement is that Bennett has raised in many instances a tariff which is already too high in order to give the United Kingdom preferences. King would lower the general tariff while at the same time increasing the preference to the British people. His position is that unduly elevating tariff walls is bound to result in lessening Canada's foreign trade while at the same time raising the price to the Canadian consumer of the goods protected. King's position is that Canada's foreign trade is her life's blood and cannot be interfered with without grave danger to her future prosperity. Raising tariffs will surely result in retaliation and bad feeling in foreign countries with whom we trade with a resultant loss to our foreign business.

NEW HAZELTON

At a meeting of ratepayers of Hazelton the building of an addition to the present school house was up for consideration. It was decided that, if the government would contribute forty percent of the cost and providing the balance of the money could be borrowed at six percent, to authorize the borrowing of the balance on the credit of the school district.

Riding of the rods in this district has dwindled to zero now following the edict of the government that the practice shall be punishable by imprisonment. The itinerants are now taking to walking the ties.

Miss Henderson, Houston school teacher, was the guest here recently of Miss Jean Burns.
