Ten Years Ago

in Prince Rupert

June 24, 1912.

Through the generosity of local merchants and citizens, the finest list of prizes ever offered athletes of Prince Rupert is being prepared for the Dominion Day Celebration. The day gives promise of being the most interesting and exciting ever.

W. G. Dennis, Malcolm Lamb and Ben Ferguson nearly lost their lives in mid-harbor yesterday afternoon when their canoe capsized and they had a fifteen minute struggle in the water before being rescued by R. W. Cameron and his brother in a row boat. Dennis and Lamb saved the life of Ferguson who was unable to swim.

Twelve salmon canneries have opened on the Skeena River for the sockeye run which gives promise of being a record this year.

LIKES ISLANDS.

Massett, B. C., June 22.

Editor Daily News—

Please find enclosed a half year's subscription to Daily News. I have been an old subscriber and I find your paper very interesting, especially your letterbox regarding settlement on Graham Island and the straightforward interest in your publicity in this matter. I am here a survivor of the old pioneer rush, but I did not come here just to speculate. I have to settle and work and find a home, and to build up this country. The possibilities of which I recognize.

Through work and interest I have learned to like it here and I am thoroughly aware that a bright future is the destiny of a land with such resources.
