Value Of Chautauqua
 To A Community.

The annual Chautauqua commences here tomorrow evening with a musical entertainment and lecture and continues until Saturday night with varied programs of a musical and instructive nature. The idea is a good one and should be well supported. There is no other way in which Prince Rupert people can get a group of entertainers together who can reach widely scattered points, such as those of Northern British Columbia and Alaska.

There is little sentiment about this Chautauqua entertainment, but there is a lot of benefit to be obtained from it. We are cut off from the rest of the country so that we are unable to attend entertainments as we would like. We seldom get an opportunity to hear anything high class in the way of musical events or good speakers. Now we have the opportunity and this is the time to take advantage of it.

Round The World
 In An Airplane.

To go around the world in an airplane is a big order. Major Blake did not quite realize what it meant to fly day after day in new country, among new people, and with new difficulties besetting him and with the continual mental strain of the journey on him. Some day we may have flying so perfected that it will be rather a simple matter to fly around the world, but in the meantime there are a lot of big flights to be taken individually without trying to make them all consecutively.

So far no one has flown across the Pacific. Prest tried to reach Siberia and failed. Had Major Blake managed to get to the Pacific coast it is doubtful if he could have crossed Behring Sea in the autumn and flown down the coast to Vancouver.

Life Insurance And Success.

That the principle of protecting bank loans by life insurance is based upon the fundamentals of business, was the statement made by H. W. Manning to the delegates of the joint convention of Life Underwriters of the United States and Canada in Toronto.

Life insurance is a gauge whereby the banks may determine the extent of a man's ability, and his determination to pay, two factors in advancing credit. A policy payable on death provides ready cash for meeting loans, releasing invested capital and arranging the immediate expenses of readjustment. Ample life insurance indicates to the banker that the person possesses that quality of mind which prompts him to provide for the greatest of all his obligations—that of his home. The man who neglects this will probably hold in slight regard his obligations to those further removed from him.

In Canada, he pointed out, a canvas of the banks has shown that without exception they have regard to life insurance in making loans. The largest banks insert in their application for credit specific questions as to the amount and status of life insurance carried. Some banks prefer that a client submit a statement of his affairs in his own way. The banks who do not ask actual questions regarding life insurance in the application for credit, are in the minority. The practice is general though the procedure is different. The bank is interested not only in the intrinsic value of the life insurance, but also in the extent to which it denotes the character and type of mind of the client, because they realize that that quality of mind which induces one to take out life insurance is the quality that best insures success in business.

WIRELESS MAY

Marconi Firm at Outs with Employes Through Effort to Reduce Wages.

VICTORIA, Aug. 28.—Wireless operators on this coast are affected by the Dominion-wide dispute now in progress with the Marconi Wireless Telegraph Company of Canada. The "Sparks" employed on all the coastwise ships, barring the fisheries and naval patrol steamers in these waters, and the men on the transpacific liners of the C.P.O.S., Ltd., C. G. M. M. and Dollar Line are all supplied by this company. They are opposing a cut in salary recently announced by the Marconi firm. There is some talk of striking, but it is not considered likely that action of that sort will be taken.

The operators, who belong to the Commercial Telegraphers' Union of America, system division No. 59, have applied to Ottawa for a board of conciliation, and have named Thomas Taylor, of Toronto, as their representative. Negotiations are now under way.

Should efforts to bring about a settlement fail, the strike would include about 300 men, about two-thirds of whom are aboard ship on both coasts. Should the operators quit their posts, the trouble would be felt in various parts of the world, wherever Canadian-manned ships are plying. The clash is the result of the company's move to cut wages 15 per cent, altering the scale which has been in effect since January, 1926. Wages run from $70 to $120 per month, exclusive of allowances, and from $110 to $175 per month, including allowance made for board and lodging on shipboard. There are thirty coast stations of the company in Canada, each with a staff of three men. The 200 and more remaining operators involved are at sea.

Board of Works to Bring in Full
 Report on Work—Third Avenue East and Fulton Street

The down town street surfacing work was under discussion by the city council last night, a report from the board of works recommending certain changes in the top surfacing of certain portions of the work having been received. On motion of Ald. Perry, seconded by Ald. Montgomery, it was decided to have the board of works bring in a full report covering all streets involved.

The tarvia finishing of First Avenue from Second Street to Manson Way is to be eliminated and Third Avenue from McBride to the provincial government's new road done instead. It was also decided last night to eliminate the finishing of Eighth Street from Second to Third Avenue and do Fulton Street to Fifth Avenue instead.

MOTHER OF LOCAL RESIDENT DIES AT TORONTO LAST WEEK

R. L. McIntosh, Former Postmaster Here, Arrived Too
 Late to See Parent
 Alive.

On Monday afternoon of this week there passed away peacefully, after a comparatively short illness, one of the oldest residents of Toronto, Mrs. Maria McIntosh, widow of the late W. D. McIntosh, the greater part of whose married life was spent under happy auspices at their fine old home, No. 56 Grenville Street, which they occupied together for over forty years, and where much gracious and genuine hospitality was dispensed, says the Toronto Globe of recent date.

Was Scottish.

Like her late husband, Mrs. McIntosh came from one of the Border counties of Scotland. A native of Hawick, she came to Canada in the year 1858, and soon settled in Toronto. Her husband, a native of Jedburgh, Scotland, came to Canada about the same time and shortly after their arrival they were married in Toronto by the Rev. Dr. Jennings, the minister of old Bay Street Presbyterian Church, one branch of which afterwards became Gould Street Church, now St. James' Square Church. With the membership of that congregation, they became thus early identified, and during their long life together Mr. and Mrs. McIntosh enjoyed unbroken fellowship in the old church, sitting under every one of its ministers down to the present pastorate of the Rev. D. N. Morden. In everything connected with the well-being of the church they took the keenest and most sympathetic interest, until it became proverbial that the old church was in a very real sense their life's hobby. No good scheme for the welfare of the Presbyterian communion and of the things of the Kingdom was ever propounded that did not find in them its zealous supporters. In all these things the late Mrs. McIntosh was a true helpmeet to her devoted husband.

In token of her zeal for the church, and in memory of her late husband and of her son, the late W. D. McIntosh, Jr., Mrs. McIntosh presented to St. James' Square Church the fine memorial window which now adorns the south facade, and is a matter of very great pride to the congregation. Mrs. McIntosh is survived by her son, Mr. Robert McIntosh, formerly Postmaster of Prince Rupert, B. C., and by her daughter, Mrs. Mercer J. Adams of No. 53 Avenue road, this city; also by six grandchildren and five grand-children. One grandson, Mr. Mercer John Adams, died recently in New Zealand, as a result of illness contracted while serving with the New Zealand contingent during the great war.

Mr. McIntosh was on the way to see his mother when her death occurred.

Ten Years Ago
 in Prince Rupert

August 29, 1912

The sale of government lots on the townsite concluded this afternoon. High values were set in the prices and the aggregate ran over the million and a half mark. Bidding was keen throughout.

Dr. J. O. Reddie, the pioneer physician of Prince Rupert, passed away last night after a long and piteous fight against a serious internal affliction.

R. A. Renwick, deputy minister of lands for the provincial government, and Mrs. Renwick are visitors in the city.

The sale of government lots in the Prince Rupert townsite starts today, Auctioneer Frank Ellis in charge. Intense interest has been excited among real estate men, citizens and the many visitors who are in the city for the occasion. High prices are predicted. Several of the visitors made a trip to Port Howard, the industrial suburb, yesterday.

The civic finance committee, after much labor, has presented its estimates for the year. The tax rate will be 20 1/2 mills on

Mrs.
 Carpenter
 Tried Everything

Mrs. S. C. Carpenter says that two of her neighbors recommended another brand of milk, which she tried, not being familiar with the brands on sale in the West. She says they tasted strong, seeming to be tainted by the tin, though, of course, this is not the fact. Someone mentioned Pacific Milk one day in a grocer's store and she tried that. In her letter she says that not only does it seem much richer, but the flavor is like that of fresh cream, and has none of that "can taste."

Why Fresh Roasted?

Why does the local baker buy his flour in bulk and bake bread, pies and cakes daily?
 Why does the butcher slice his dried beef and bacon as they are called for instead of buying them ready sliced?
 Why does the local fruit store or peanut man roast peanuts daily in- stead of getting a month's supply at a time or three months' supply? We might go on indefinitely asking such questions, but why multiply the evidence? The answer is time that elapses between the finishing process mentioned and delivery to the user the more satisfaction with the product.
