Georgetown Illustrates Local Handicap.

The fact that the Georgetown mill is compelled to ship its clear spruce for the overseas market direct to Vancouver to be transferred there to Canadian Government Merchant Marine steamers is illustrative of a condition in regard to this port which should not be allowed to exist. There are three main reasons why Georgetown and other mills in the district can not handle their lumber through Prince Rupert: First, freight rates are so high that it can not be shipped across Canada by rail; second, there is no lumber assembly dock here, and, thirdly, Canadian Government Merchant Marine steamers do not make Prince Rupert a port of call. The city is looking for a remedy for these conditions and it is very likely that it will come before long. Of one thing we are assured, that is that Canadian Government Merchant Marine steamers will be calling here before long to undergo repairs in the local shipyard. At the same time they can load cargo here if it offers. The remedying of the freight rates situation is now being dealt with at Ottawa. As far as the lumber assembly wharf is concerned we have not yet been given any definite assurance. With all the Canadian Pacific ports clamoring for harbor improvements and enlarged facilities, it may be a little early as yet to expect much in this regard. However, after the visit of the ministers here in the summer, some action will likely be decided upon and Prince Rupert is pretty certain of getting her share of what is going.

Another Development In Dolly Varden Case.

The despatch from Vancouver published today telling that George Wingfield, the Colorado creditor of the Dolly Varden mine and railway, is taking foreclosure proceedings on the mortgage which he holds on the property may mean good news for Alice Arm mining district. Certainly the situation can not be any worse than it is today, with an eighteen-mile railway line, on which a whole mining district is dependent, lying idle. As far as can be ascertained financial troubles are holding up the Taylor Mining Co. Ltd. from going on with development work on the property. The outlook under the present management does not look bright, and it is probably in view of this that Mr. Wingfield has decided to take immediate action. Whether he means to realize on his credit by seizing and disposing of the equipment of the railway and mine or whether he wishes to gain control to proceed with development work and get his money out that way is not indicated. If the Dolly Varden is really worthy of further development he would likely follow the latter course, while if that is not the case there would be no danger of his doing so. At any rate, if he goes through with his intentions the Dolly Varden affair may be cleared up once and for all. While some mining authorities are skeptical as to the Dolly Varden and some of them have gone so far as to express that skepticism, Alice Arm people are still confident that the Dolly Varden is capable of great production and liken its history to that of the Hidden Creek and Premier mines, both of which lay idle for periods of years before their ultimate potentialities were developed and brought to light by operation.

Interesting News For Rum Runners.

Alaska is to change its scheme of dealing with illicit importers of liquor if the recommendation of the grand jury at Juneau yesterday is acted upon by the authorities. This may be of interest to local people, for it is generally understood that "rum runners" are plying their trade in Alaska, working out of Prince Rupert and Vancouver. While present laws make this permissible as far as Canada is concerned, it is not legal in Alaska, and the importers are merely "bootleggers" as far as the northern territory is concerned.

The Secret of Good Health

Assist Nature back to normal action

Take

When Nature requires assistance, she will not be slow in conveying to you an intimation of the fact. Decline of energy, inability to sleep well, headache, biliousness, constipation, a general sluggishness of mind and body and any sign of digestive "unrest" should impel you to seek the aid of a reliable medicine without delay. There is no better—no surer—no safer—than this proven remedy.

CRIPPLED WITH RHEUMATISM

Then She Took "FRUIT-A-TIVES" And Has Been Well Ever Since

MADAM SLOAT

PERTH JUNCTION, N.B., Jan. 22nd, 1920

"For many years, I was a great sufferer from Indigestion, Constipation and Rheumatism. My Stomach was weak and gave me constant distress, while Rheumatism in my joints made me almost a cripple. was treated by two different doctors but their medicine did me no good.

Then I tried "Fruit-a-tives" and at once that fruit medicine helped me. Soon the Constipation and Indigestion were relieved and the Rheumatism began to go away, and in a few months entirely disappeared. For twelve years now, my health has been first class, and I attribute it to the use of "Fruit-a-tives" which I take regularly.

FRED STORK ON DAYLIGHT SAVING

Says Would Be Wrong to Children—Also Confusing.

In speaking to the motion in the House of Commons to prohibit the adoption of daylight saving, Fred Stork, the local member, according to Hansard, said:

Mr. Speaker, I am going to support the amendment because my observation has shown me that all attempts to interfere with the workings of Father Time have been failures. The only man who made a success of altering time was Joshua, when he made the sun stand still. We have had daylight saving in operation in the past in the province of British Columbia, and I think I can speak for the people who live in that western province when I say that they have not found it to be a success. In a province where we have daylight enough to read a newspaper by at 11 o'clock at night, I think ample time is given for labor, for rest and for recreation, and daylight saving simply makes confusion. Where we have different times, where the railroad operates on one time and the factory and foundry on another, that does not make for municipal progress. I have particularly in view the cause and welfare of our children. Children going to school are, under daylight saving, compelled to rise an hour earlier in the morning; they do not go to bed at night at the accustomed time, and as has been pointed out before, the mothers taking care of the children are penalized to that extent.

Much Confusion.

"I remember in British Columbia some years ago a liquor prosecution was on, and the whole trial hinged on the question of time. A charge was laid that a violation of the act took place at a certain specified hour. After a lengthy and expensive trial, the case was dismissed on the ground that standard time was set at Victoria and in the eastern part of the province of British Columbia, and that this infringement had not taken place within the specified time. We have fire insurance policies issued in this country, and if any one who has a fire insurance policy will read it he will find that it reads that 'this policy is for one year from a certain date to a certain date and expires at 12 o'clock noon.'

"THE CHARM SCHOOL" IS WORTHY SEQUEL TO "DANCING FOOL"

Wallace Reid Scores Heavily in New Comedy.

"The Charm School," which scored heavily at the Westholme Theatre last night, is a typical Wallace Reid jazz picture and duplicates the success of "The Dancing Fool." The picture is a genuine blues chaser. Reid puts over a lot of good snappy action and he is well supported by Lila Lee and a capable cast. An added feature is the presence of a large number of young "charmers," all under twenty, who are the pupils of the girls' boarding school which Reid, as Austin Bevans, inherits, and of which he makes himself principal. It is easy to imagine the romantic complications which result when a handsome young man becomes principal of a girls' boarding school and supplants the old methods of academic instruction with lessons on how to be charming. The support is excellent.
