Boy Scouts Listen to Advice From Different Authorities and Are Puzzled

LONDON, Sept. 22. — It would appear to be the fate of Boy Scouts the world over to have to listen to good advice from their elders. In England the boys take it good humoredly and patiently as all in the day's work.

But recently a group of scouts must have been perplexed, as well as amused, when the good advice from two speakers did not in the least agree. They had come into Bedford to attend church. The vicar, the Rev. A. O. Cheney, addressed them. He warned them against smoking as "a dirty and disgusting habit."

He told them to remember to keep the Sabbath day holy and not to go about "making a noise and disturbing the villagers." (The boys had marched to church headed by bugles and drums.)

Nor, he said, should anything be done on Sunday which entailed extra work for anyone. (The villagers had agreed to entertain the visiting scouts to tea.)

The vicar said he never entertained anyone on Sundays; people should stay at home on Sunday and help along the activities of the church.

Contrary Advice

After the service Lord Amphill got his turn at the boys. He said that smoking had been helpful to some of the greatest men in the world. One of the wisest philosophers used to smoke like a chimney. But, of course, it wouldn't be right for small boys to smoke.

He always entertained his friends on Sunday, he said. He honored God by going to church Sunday morning, but afterwards he sometimes did a bit of carpentry. The idea of Sunday, he told the boys, was that it should be a day of rest which meant abstention from ordinary work. Manual labor on Sundays rested him rather more than anything else because, during the week, he had to attend a good many meetings in hot stuffy rooms.

So long as they did not disturb the peace of their villages, they need have no compunctions in turning out on Sunday to pay a friendly compliment to a new troop.

One of the grownups suggested that the Peer and the Parson should hold a public discussion on the subject, the proceeds to be divided equally between the church and the scouts.

STUDENTS MENACE TO EGYPTIAN GOVERNMENT

Latest Cry is For Elimination of Examinations in Schools

CAIRO, Egypt, Sept. 22. — The inauguration of a strict policy by the Egyptian government to deal with the fanatical enthusiasm of the school boy politicians is regarded by all the native papers as a necessity of the hour, if the Egyptian political and educational structures are to be saved from disruption.

The students in the universities and high school of the country who came forward last year and joined in street demonstrations to help win political freedom for Egypt, have now developed a new movement which seems to be a general revolt against all existing customs that conflict with their own personal aggrandisement.

The students, conscious of their power, have returned their energies to eliminating examinations. Their political slogan a year ago was: "We do not want the English." Today they are shouting: "We want no more examinations." And they are keen enough to plan a campaign which will use politics as a lever to make easier their classroom work.

The elections for members of the new Parliament are set for October. The students aim to see that only candidates who meet their demands are returned to both houses. Their election cries are now being tried out in this wise: "Vote for Mahmud Bey and no examinations."

Followers of Zaghloul Pasha are taking advantage of the students' over-zealousness and are showering upon them all kinds of promises in return for votes at the coming elections.

DREAMING OF AIR SHIPS OVER OCEAN

Germans Still Look to See Monster Air Lines Carrying 150 People

BERLIN, Sept. 2. — Will the air over the Atlantic shortly be roaring with giant floating palaces capable of making the trans-oceanic flight in 60 hours?

Some enthusiasts, who claimed definite plans are under consideration for the monster trans-Atlantic air liners, are described in other quarters as mere "pipe-dreamers," dealing in just ordinary "rattles in the air."

The proposed ships would each have a gds capacity of 110,000 to 150,000 cubic meters. They would tear through the clouds at the rate of 150 miles an hour, unless there was no urgent demand for speed, in which case they would slow down to 100 miles. Such a vessel would be 275 meters long, 35 meters wide at its greatest diameter, and 39 meters high from the top of the gas-bag to the bottom of the body. The power would be provided by five motors of 800 horsepower each.

Crew of Fifty

Its carrying capacity would be 60,000 kilograms, of which 40,000 would be required for fuel, food, etcetera, the remainder being for mails and passengers. The estimated passenger accommodations would allow for 100 fares in addition to a crew of 50. The mammoth airships would be equipped with all possible comforts and conveniences, resembling in comfort the great ocean steamships now in service.

German gossip on the aerial possibilities of the near future does not rest, however, with the channels over the Atlantic. A prophecy is made that many years will not pass before the United States will have inaugurated a service between her mainland and the islands she holds in the Far East.

BOYCOTT STREET CARS AT BEIRUT

Public Demand That Fares Be Reduced and Refuse to Ride.

BEIRUT, SYRIA, Sept. 21. — The public of this Syrian city is on strike against excessive street car fares, and the local tramway company, instead of taking in $800 a day, now collects not more than five pounds daily. Everyone is wondering how long the Belgian company that owns the trolley service can hold out.

The few short lines in the city are not more than a third the length of the lines in a city of similar size in America, and although the service is far inferior, the fares are about double the American rate.

The public demanded a 50 per cent decrease, and not getting it, a boycott of the system was started. For once the people have stood together. The first few days a very few people attempted to ride, but sticks and stones soon made the cars so unpopular that all deserted. A number of cars were pretty well smashed up by the hoodlum element, and then for a week not a car came out of the barns. Government aid was asked, and three policemen were furnished for each car and they began to run. But the public stuck together, and the police were the only passengers.

Then the jitneys started up. Small American motor cars are doing a thriving business, and the cab horses are getting thinner and thinner from long hours and little sleep. Although this state of affairs has continued for over a month, there seems
