Bert Manthrop, steamboat ina letter to the editor

"Box 10, Terrace, B.C.
"31.7.22.

"Dear Mr. Editor:

"Although this is the age of scientific wonders and fresh reports are daily published of new advances and larger conquests, yet I have had such a remarkable recovery that I make no further apology for asking you to publish this letter.

"Last March I met with an accident which displaced my right hip bone. At first the pain was not severe and I treated it for sprain, but eventually discovered that the bone was out. By that time the pain had become very troublesome, and on June 26 I travelled to Prince Rupert Hospital for treatment. I only spent four days in the hospital as the doctor told me that the bone could not now be replaced but he ordered rest and massage which he said should restore me.

"However, these hopes were doomed to disappointment and I grew steadily worse until by July it was impossible to walk or stand. The least movement was likely to start the pain and sleep was only possible in rare snatches. In the meantime we had made enquiries for the address of a Chiropractor, and on July 13 received from a friend the address of Dr. Barton at Prince Rupert. Next day, Friday, we sent a letter to Dr. Barton asking him to come as quickly as possible. He came on the Saturday train arriving about 11 p.m., and immediately crossed the river and made a careful examination.

"He told me that the trouble was in the Sacro-Iliac Articulation, in the so-called immovable joint where the Innominate or hip bone is attached to the Sacrum. Dr. Barton then set to work to correct the condition, and after about fifteen minutes told me to walk, and much to my amazement I found I could do so. On Sunday morning Dr. Barton returned and completed the adjustment, the whole work being carried out so rapidly and easily that it was over before I had time to realize it had actually commenced.

"After Dr. Barton left I carefully obeyed instruction as to massage, exercises, etc., with the result that by July 19th, just three days after the adjustment, I was able to walk about quite freely, naturally and absolutely free from pain. Then Dr. Barton came again on July 23 and he was able to declare me quite restored.

"Naturally, from my point of view, the work and the speed with which it was carried out seems nothing short of marvellous. One needs to have faced the possibility of a crippled condition becoming permanent to really appreciate the joy of such a recovery. I have asked permission to publish this letter because I feel it is the duty of those who have benefited by Chiropractic treatment to acknowledge the fact as publicly as possible just at present. Owing to the unreasonable persecution of Chiropractors there is a danger that the help which has restored us may be rendered unattainable to others, and I for one would not willingly doom another to the pain I have so narrowly escaped.

"May I appeal through the columns of your paper for the sympathetic support of all fair minded people for those who are at present being persecuted for practicing such a science of healing. Apparently the only present acknowledgment the Dominion makes of these men and women, who are undeniably advancing the health of so many people, is imprisonment and fine.

"All roads that lead to health are good: Physics, Surgery, Manipulation or Suggestion.

"'Tis life of which our nerves are scant,
"Tis life, more life, for which we pant,
"More life and fuller that we want."

"Most human experience will endorse the poet's opinion, then why set up a barrier across any one of the avenues that lead to the hope of higher efficiency? Religious toleration seems so essentially just and reasonable that in these days it is hard to understand why our forefathers had to strive and suffer so to win it. Yet our own generation are acting in a manner even more narrow-minded than the persecutors of old, for religious theories cannot be demonstrated as these results from Chiropractic treatment can.

"This is the age of specialists and it can hardly be expected of any one man that he should crowd the knowledge of every branch of the science and art of healing into one human brain. Let the doctors show that the public good is their first concern and if they are still too prejudiced to welcome other certified healers into their own exclusive circles let them at least cease a persecution which threatens eventually to destroy the public's trust in themselves but which cannot cause more than a temporary check to Chiropractics. May be I speak with feeling, but wheas I was lame, now I can walk.

"I would like to add that this letter is absolutely unsolicited, and should further evidence be required for the facts stated, there are many who would willingly bear witness to them.

"Yours sincerely,
(Signed) "GLADYS TOOMBS."
