First Fruits Of What May Be Done Here.

The busy time we have been having of late in entertaining visitors is just a little of what may be done to bring business this way when we have the thorough co-operation of the railway. The Shriners, the Rotarians, the Masons, and the tourists who are beginning to use this district are all in a small way bringing business and are advertising the town. It is the first fruits of what may be done in the not too distant future as a result of united effort.

Eventually Prince Rupert will be more than a shipping port. It will be a tourist resort. People will come here for the fine trout fishing and the scenic trips. When there are short excursions to Wark Canal, to the Exstall River, the Khyex River and other points such as the hot-springs on the Skeena we shall begin to realize one of our ambitions. We shall become a radiating centre for pleasure seekers in the north.

Must Have Still Better Co-operation.

Yesterday Major Langley of Victoria was in the city. While in the East he decided to take in Prince Rupert on the way home. The officials at two of the big centres in the East did not know how to route him here and one suggested he had better go to Vancouver and take the steamer up the coast. He insisted on coming direct and then was directed in such a way that he arrived on the prairies on the one day of the week when there was no train to Prince Rupert. Yet the man at the other end had carefully figured out the trip for him. It seemed that he had not yet received the latest time table and was routing on the old schedule.

Local railway officials are anxious to trace down these lapses in order to make sure that this section of the line is taken care of. The difficulty is that no man likes to have to be an informant against railway officials and the tendency is to try to make him out a falsifier if he does so. It is not up to the travelling public to look after the railway employees but is part of the work of railroad management. They seem to have been so well trained in the East in giving Prince Rupert the go by that it is difficult for them to change their methods immediately. Similar stories to that told by Major Langley are constantly coming to hand but the informants do not care to complain officially. When a man is seeking information he does not take the name of the informant and often he could not even describe the man who sold him the ticket. All he knows is that he failed to secure the information or that he was given it wrong.

Railway Officials May Be Changed.

It is understood that immediately after the session changes will be made in the management of the Canadian National Railways. When such a change takes place most Prince Rupert people will be hopeful that W. P. Hinton is given an executive position. He is a friend of this city and he knows our needs. Always he has shown himself keen to look after our interests so far as it was possible for him to do so. He is a Grand Trunk Pacific man and would like to see the G.T.P. a success. His appointment would mean much to this port.

There is no intimation in this that Mr. Hinton would not do justice to any part of the road over which he had jurisdiction. He is a practical railroad man and as such would not be a party to any of the petty prejudices of which Prince Rupert has been a victim. All we want here is a fair deal and that is what we certainly have not had in the past.

LUX

For All Fine Fabrics

If you have something especially nice and dainty that you do not feel like sending with the regular washing, you can easily and quickly cleanse it with Lux. The thin, white, satiny-like flakes of Lux are made by our own exclusive process, and readily dissolve into a rich, bubbling lather, as harmless to fine fabrics as pure water itself.

Lux is supreme for washing fine garments. It is sold only in sealed packets—dust-proof!

The Man in the Moon SAYS:-

WHAT I don't like about this Masonic visit is that we all have to get up in the morning as usual.

EVEN if the alarm clock goes on a bust, the call of duty wakes the local people before breakfast.

WHEN one has to choose between liars, give me a cheerful liar every time.

THE difficulty about this changeable weather is that the visitors do not have a chance to see us in our straw hats.

THERE is a difference between an old timer and an early settler. An old timer is one who came here before the townsite was incorporated. An early settler is one who pays his bills without being asked a second time.

THE most uncertain thing in the world is the "sure thing" your friend wants you to buy.

Ten Years Ago in Prince Rupert

June 23, 1912. The hospital board has decided to call for tenders at once for the erection of the new wing to the present building. The provincial government has advanced $10,000, the board has $4,000 in hand and the city council is to be asked for a grant.

P. Moriarity, a laborer on the railway, met his death yesterday afternoon while ballasting track at Mile 41. The funeral will take place this afternoon.

Captain F. S. Saunders, formerly skipper of the steamer Prince George, is coming north early next week to take up his new duties as marine superintendent at Digby Island.

Skeena River arrivals in the city on last night's train included J. G. Dorman, Claxton, J. F. Strang, Sunnyside; Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Adamson and W. Kidler, Port Edward; T. A. Sandison, Haysport; Constable R. Gibson, Port Essington, and Henry Wulf, Smith Island.

VISITORS AT ROTARY CLUB

Number of Places Represented at Luncheon Yesterday.

Whenever I leave Victoria I'm as blue as can be. There's no other city Means so much to me, Oh, how I miss Victoria And my afternoon tea Come over, you'll be welcome In the capital of B. C. Oh, Victoria, what! what! That was the refrain of the seven members of the Victoria Rotary Club who attended the Rotary Club luncheon here yesterday afternoon. They sang the song after Ernie Hayward of their club had brought greetings from the capital.

There were Rotary representatives at the gathering from Vancouver, Victoria, Edmonton, Nanaimo, Kamloops and Hull, England. The last mentioned was Will Johnson, brother of President Tom Johnson of the local club. He came from the only English club that has so far been represented at a luncheon in Prince Rupert.

Speaker of the day was Thomas McClymont who spoke of the demise of the old booster clubs and the increasing prosperity of the Rotary Clubs everywhere. He spoke of the suggestion that Vancouver should take away Prince Rupert's drydock, saying that it was at present owned by the Government and it was only natural the Government ships should come here to dock. Prince Rupert intended to keep her own dock.

M. P. McCaffery: "If the dock goes anywhere it should go to Victoria." (laughter).

Mr. McClymont went on to say that this was the logical site for a smelter, which would treat the ores coming from Stewart and other coast points and also from the interior. The special advantages of the place should be recognized. In the past, owing to lobbying, money had been diverted to places where expenditures were not warranted. In the end trade would follow the line of least resistance and Prince Rupert would get her share.

Vancouver's Greetings. Frank Hurde, manager of the Vancouver Province, brought greetings from Vancouver Club. With the Rotary spirit so much in evidence here he felt no doubt about the future of Prince Rupert. They all appreciated the hospitality shown them here.

Ernie Hayward of Victoria brought greetings from the capital and said he had been struck by the community spirit evidenced in Prince Rupert, even under somewhat adverse conditions. With such a spirit in evidence, he prophesied a great future for the place. Rotarian Shaw of Nanaimo brought greetings from the coal city. Over there they had forty members and they met every week to sing, talk and eat.

Link with Old Land. Will Johnson from Hull, England, who arrived Wednesday evening and is spending a few days with his brother, the manager of the cold storage plant, brought greetings from Hull. He said Rotary clubs were making progress in England and this would mean another link strengthening the ties of the Dominions with the Old Land. It was seven years since he visited Prince Rupert and in that time he saw great improvements. He had a grouse, however, and that was at having no observation car on the train between Jasper and this city. S. K. Campbell entertained the club with solos and there were a number of choruses.

TRIP ON THE WATER IN LOCAL LAUNCHES

Visitors Entertained by Run Out to Metlakatla Passage Yesterday

Yesterday afternoon the Masonic visitors were given a run out on the harbor to Metlakatla Passage. The trip was a somewhat short one owing to the desire of the ladies to get back to the tea at the Prince Rupert Club. The boats taking the visitors out were George Bryant's "Harla," Dr. W. T. Kergin's "Gagoom," Alex. McKee's "Lois M." Mitchell & Currie's "Donnie Mac," John
