WEEK AT THEATRE

Tuesday—Victorian Sardou's Immortal Spectacular drama "Theodora."

Wednesday and Thursday—Anita Stewart in "A Question of Honor," Gaiety Comedy "Wild and Willie."

Friday and Saturday—The Saturday Matinee—"The Bonnie Brier Bush," From Ian MacLaren's famous story. The first picture produced in Great Britain by the famous Lasky Corporation with an all-star British cast, shown in Prince Rupert.

The popularity of the flapper is shown by the latest pictures which feature her. One of these is "Flapper Love" which is being made this fall. Another is "Up and at 'em," a flapper comedy starring Doris May. Then there is Dorothy Gish in "The Country Flapper."

There is a movie reform fight on in Kansas City but the reformers are too bloodthirsty and have not the sympathy of the public. Dr. Fleming is leading the fight. He is the paid manager of the National Reform Association.

Aspersions on the character of Jack Pickford have been disproven. The movie star, it seems, was a witness for the prosecution in bribery charges during the war and came out with a clean record.

"Dorothy Vernon of Haddon Hall" is to be Mary Pickford's next starring picture. At least every indication points to that now. She has already purchased the rights to the Charles Major novel, according to word from the Pickford-Fairbanks Studios. The deal was arranged by Ruth Allen, well-known agent for photoplays in Hollywood. The sum is stated to be one of the largest paid for a story this year.

THEODORA SHOW AT THE WESTHOLME

Big Feature Will Be Seen There Again Tonight.

"Theodora," the big feature shown last night and to be seen again tonight at the Westholme, is a scorching of Sardou's famous romance, built around the historic personage of the Empress Theodora who ruled the Roman Empire in the sixth century as the wife of the celebrated Justinian. Historians have decreed for many centuries about the virtues and the faults of the great Theodora, but all agree that she was of surpassing loveliness and exquisite charm. She was the daughter of a lion tamer in the circus at Byzantium (as Constantinople was then called) and led a life of pleasure until she met Justinian, the heir to the throne of the Caesars. He fell madly in love with her and their marriage elevated her to the throne when he became emperor.

The life of Theodora after she became an empress is reflected in the film, together with the historic love story of her mad infatuation for the young Greek, Andreas, for whom she sacrificed her throne. The screen story follows the general outlines of Sardou's famous romance, acted originally by Sarah Bernhardt, and glorifies Theodora in her supreme sacrifice for the one real love that came into her life. Yet Theodora, with all her charm, was a mad unreasoning woman when it came to saving the life of her lover. In order to distract attention when he is sentenced to death, she turns forty lions loose into the arena among the mob so that Andreas made his escape in the confusion. This startling effect was screened with the utmost realism in "Theodora."

There are many massive sets, several immense ensembles which employ as many as 25,000 people at one time, and a large cast, headed by the French actress, Rita Jolivet in the title role of Theodora.

ANITA STEWART GLAD WITHOUT FINE CLOTHES

Says Shopping a Nuisance and Hard to Keep Track of Gowns

Have you ever heard of a girl rejoicing because she did not have to wear a lot of pretty gowns? Sounds almost unbelievable, doesn't it?

Had Solomon given the local gazette an interview on the subject of women he would probably have said that the one thing on which all of them could agree was the fascination of personal adornment.

Yet, here comes a 20th Century girl, Anita Stewart, who claims that she was glad she didn't have to wear many gowns, modish suits or chic hats in her latest picture, "A Question of Honor." The film offers the star in a role that smacks of the outdoors and is costumed chiefly in simple sport clothes.

Of course, there are beautiful gowns in Miss Stewart's wardrobe for some of the interior scenes, but not many. Reports have it, however, that these few are sufficiently elaborate and expensive to more than make up for any deficiency there might be in numbers.

In explaining her reasons for happiness because of the few costume changes in the play, the star, often called "the smartest dressed girl in films," has the following to say:

Gowns a Nuisance

"Few girls realize what a nuisance too many gowns in a picture can become. I like to wear them. Any girl would. But the pleasure is more than outweighed by the penalty. In order to meet the demands of the ultra-critical, I must be sure that my clothes are in style. This, in itself, makes shopping a severe task when one considers that in June I must get things for pictures that will not be seen on the screen until the following November or January."

"Then there is the matter of keeping track of clothes by scenes. My maid has a book just like a bank ledger in which the various indoor and outdoor scenes are tabulated according to the hats, furs, coats, dresses, handbags, stockings and shoes worn in them. It is of the utmost importance that clothes be watched in this careful manner as an error in costume is listed in studio circles as an unpardonable sin."

Choose Your Preserving Utensils Carefully

MANY women enjoy great success with their preserving year after year for the simple reason that they use the best enameled ware that money can buy. They use either Diamond Ware or Pearl Ware. The porcelain-like surface of either of these wares keeps as clean as a glass jar. Acidic fruit juices cannot affect their non-metallic surface. Ensure success in your preserving by using

SMP Diamond or Pearl WARE

"A Face of Porcelain and a Heart of Steel"

The hardest cooking or preserving leaves it as easy to clean as china. It cannot absorb grease or odors. And it will mean much lower cooking fuel bills, because it cooks food far faster than all-metal utensils.

Do you know that the Diamond Ware or Pearl Ware pot or pan that cost $1.50 last year can now be bought for 90 cents? Ask your regular hardware merchant.

Diamond Ware is sky blue and white outside, all white inside, with three coats of enamel fused on shapes of steel. Pearl Ware is pearly grey inside and out and has two coats of special SMP enamel fused on steel shapes. Either will suit you admirably.

Reduced Prices on Preserving Sets

HARDWARE merchants who sell SMP Wares have put a special price this year on Diamond Ware and Pearl Ware preserving sets—comprising preserving kettles, sauce pans, culenders, measures, fruit jar fillers, flat skimmers, ladles, spoons, pitchers and so on.

Clip this advertisement from the paper. Take it to your regular hardware man's store and he will give you a very moderate price on a preserving set—much cheaper than buying the utensils at the regular price piece by piece. It's a great saving. And make sure the SMP trade mark is on every utensil.
