Immigration to Fill Vacant Lands.

Australia has been encouraging immigration and the result has been that thousands of British people have flocked to that country since the war, while Canada has secured very few. This has been noted by the Canadian statesmen and as a result efforts are to be made to get our share of the settlers. The lands here are vacant and there are people across the Pacific who are anxious to come. We must either let the people from the East into those lands or we must populate them elsewhere. We can not permanently carry on with a dog-in-the-manger policy. The Indians were dispossessed because they were not using the country. So we shall be dispossessed if we do not use it.

As a nation Canadians are not in favor of creating a standing army or spending large sums on a navy. As a matter of fact they are not a very military people. The Japanese are a military people and are very ambitious. If we are going to stand on the threshold of the country and keep people out we must be prepared to spend immense sums in providing an army and navy and coast defences. Eventually we shall have to defend our unoccupied country. If, however, the country is filled with white settlers there will be no cause for any country to look with envious eyes on it. This is not an imaginary case. It is simply an argument based on history.

Vision of Future Needed by Statesmen.

Vision for the future is needed by statesmen. We all look to the future, but we must learn to see things large. The member for this district has the vision in regard to immigration and it is to be hoped that he can impress the Ottawa people with his views and get them to co-operate in carrying out a vigorous policy. There are plenty of people anxious to come to this country, but in the past every obstacle has been put in their way. We want to make it easy to come here, easy to get land, easy to get started. At the same time we want the class of people who will make good.

New York Police Commission Ridiculous.

The New York police commission made itself ridiculous in attempting to legislate against women exercising the same rights as men. The United States is still a long way behind other countries in the matter of women's rights.

This is not an argument in favor of women smoking in public but it is in favor of women having the same rights as men. If men can walk around puffing a cigar there seems to be no reason why a woman, if she wishes, should not chew the end of a stogie and blow out occasional clouds of smoke as she chats with a friend on the street corner.

We are met with the argument that it does not seem right. That women are respected more if they avoid doing these things. Granted. It does not seem right, and women are more highly respected if they avoid conduct of that kind, but as long as we do that sort of thing and spit all over the sidewalk, we have no right to demand that women should not have the right. It is up to her. If women are to be prevented from smoking in public, the regulation should also apply to men. Either would be ridiculous. Excess of zeal in small matters and a lack of zeal in matters which really mean something leads many officials astray. There is a lack of proportion in the minds of many which leads them to see small things important and large things unimportant.

Curious Case of Rat Fish Wound.

The story recounted yesterday of how the fisherman who was seriously injured by a rat fish caused a great deal of comment and interest around town last evening. It reminds us how little those who are not fishermen know of the denizens of the deep, their habits and structure. It reminds us that the fishermen have a knowledge of nature of which most of us are very ignorant. Perhaps some day we shall have in Prince Rupert a museum where samples of these curious fish may be kept and where we may get some idea of what they are.

ALBERTA RAISE STANDARD OF HIGH SCHOOL

Province Follows Lead of British Columbia in Making Change.

EDMONTON, March 29.—Following the lead of British Columbia the school authorities here have decided to raise the standard of high school work. The following are the general principles affecting the change:

1—Greater flexibility of the course to meet varying needs of pupils under different conditions and to meet limitations of various school boards.

2—Reduction of a number of subjects to be taken concurrently.

3—Provincial examinations in all subjects. All applicants for these examinations must be admitted, whether qualifying on day or night schools, promotion being by subjects.

4—Minimum standard of efficiency to be further considered and probably raised to 50 per cent. The minimum is now 34 per cent.

5—Course for graduation from high school to be extended to four years, but provision to be made that requirements for normal entrance or junior matriculation can be completed in three years.

6—English and physical education obligatory for all four years. History for first two years.

7—Direct methods of teaching modern languages to be adopted.

8—Provision to be made for a general course to lead to a high school graduation diploma on the completion of 24 units of work.

EXAMINATION OF WALLS AT SCHOOL NOW IN PROGRESS

Following the heating out of the Booth Memorial School during the past ten days in an attempt to thoroughly dry out the walls, the city engineer is making an examination of the walls with a view to making a report to the city council and the school board on their condition. The board is taking time by the forelock and is making preparations to secure accommodation for the pupils of the school in case it is decided to close down the place until repairs are made. Eleven rooms will be needed if it is decided to take this course.

The board is having a special meeting this afternoon to appoint a successor to Miss G. Hall, resigned. Booth Memorial school matters may be also taken up at this meeting.

The Happiest Time of Her Life

Admiration, attention—groups of eager young men awaiting her appearance and more partners than she can dance with—this makes girlhood days the happiest time of a woman's life.

To miss this popularity is a tragedy. Yet many girls are socially unsuccessful because of some lack in charm.

What constitutes this charm is hard to define—but one thing is certain. The popular girl, the successful girl, the gay, happy, all-admired girl, is always distinguished by a fresh, radiant skin.

How to have this perfect complexion is the problem of many girls, but we can solve it for you. It's a simple secret, discovered many thousand years ago.

What spoils complexions

Every day your skin accumulates a coating of dust, dirt and general soil. Every day you apply powder, and every day most women use a little or much cold cream.

This dirt, powder and cold cream penetrates the tiny skin pores and fills them. Perspiration completes the clogging. You can judge for yourself what happens if you fail to wash these accumulations away.

Once a day your skin needs careful, thorough cleansing to remove these clogging deposits. Otherwise you will soon be afflicted with coarseness, blackheads and blotches.

How soap beautifies

Mild, pure, soothing soap, such as Palmolive, is a simple yet certain beautifier. Its profuse, creamy lather penetrates the network of skin pores and dissolves all dangerous deposits. Gentle rinsing carries them away.

When your skin is thus cleansed, it quickly responds with fresh, smooth radiance. The healthful stimulation results in natural becoming color. And the lotion-like qualities of the Palmolive lather keeps your complexion delightfully soft.

Now, when your skin is healthfully clean, is the time to apply cold cream. Now, powder and that touch of rouge are harmless. You can perfect your good complexion and beautify one not so good by the means of this simple cosmetic cleansing.

Cleopatra's way

With all classic peoples, bathing was a daily rite never neglected. The ruins of Cleopatra's sumptuous marble bath are ample proof of her faith in this ancient beauty secret.

Palm and olive oils were the cleansers used—the same bland oriental oils we blend scientifically in Palmolive. The lotion-like qualities which made them the most highly prized of all old world beautifiers are imparted to Palmolive Soap.

A low-cost luxury

The vast volume in which we produce Palmolive to supply the world-wide demand naturally lowers cost. If made in small quantities the price would be at least 25 cents. Manufacturing economy permits us to offer this finest facial soap at a low price.

Thus you can afford to share Cleopatra's favorite luxury. Use Palmolive for bathing and let it do for your body what it does for your face.

PIPE DREAMS

By Newton Pullen

The individual faced by a holdup man should speak the telephone number of the local police station in a loud, firm voice in the hope of striking terror to the heart of the bandit.

A woman over a hundred years of age in Kansas City recently was to have married an octogenarian, but the man fled at the last minute after chasing reporters and press photographers out of the house. The age of discretion is not a matter regulated by calendar but may be attained suddenly at any moment.

"Have you a little spooklet in your home?" Since the Antigonish episode, ghosts have been discovered in various parts of the country. Affairs are getting to the point now that when one hears footsteps on the next floor up one is never sure whether it is the sound of soles or souls.

The British are chewing more and more gum. English reserve may in future apply to the Old Countryman's diffidence regarding the mastication of more than one stick at a time.

A newspaperman is a member of a learned profession, according to a ruling of the United States immigration officials in Montreal. Some people would class him with the milkman as an individual capable of making much out of little, and with the costumer as one having ability to dress up facts and hide the truth from the public.

Down there in Ottawa they have had a speech from the throne and also from the overthrown, Mr. Meighen having given the new Government its first verbal spanking.

Senator Bradbury draws attention to the fact that a Danish explorer is said to be giving Danish names to various bays and capes in Canadian territory. After seeing on the map of Denmark such names as Ringkjøbing, Linn Fjord, Hjørring, Grenaa, Roeskilde, and Nykøbing I can sympathize with any complaint which he might have in this matter.

The Man in the Moon SAYS:

THE New York police commission seem to be impressed with the limitations of women. They might draw up a series of commandments guiding their conduct. Apparently they think women should still be controlled by men who should issue orders applicable to women only. I suggest the following:

I, MAN, am your lord and master. Thou shalt have none other lord and master but me.

Thou shalt not make of thyself a creature like unto men, thou shalt not emulate them in any of their actions in public, in private or even in thine own chamber.

Thou shalt not attempt in any way to make thyself like unto them for I, man, am jealous of my rights and will visit the sins of the woman upon her offspring, if she has any, to the third and fourth generation of them that transgress, but will be chivalrous and condescending to thousands of women if they keep any commandments.

Thou shalt not take the name of thy husband in vain, for thy husband will not hold her guiltless that speaks lightly of his fame.

REMEMBER that thou labor in the interests of thy husband. Six days shalt thou attend to the ordinary affairs of the household and on the seventh thou shalt attend to the other odd jobs.

HONOR those who honor men that the days may be long as a privileged wife of thy lawful husband.

Thou shalt not drink strong liquor.

Thou shalt not smoke.

Thou shalt not wear men's clothing.

Thou shalt not inspect thy husband's pockets.

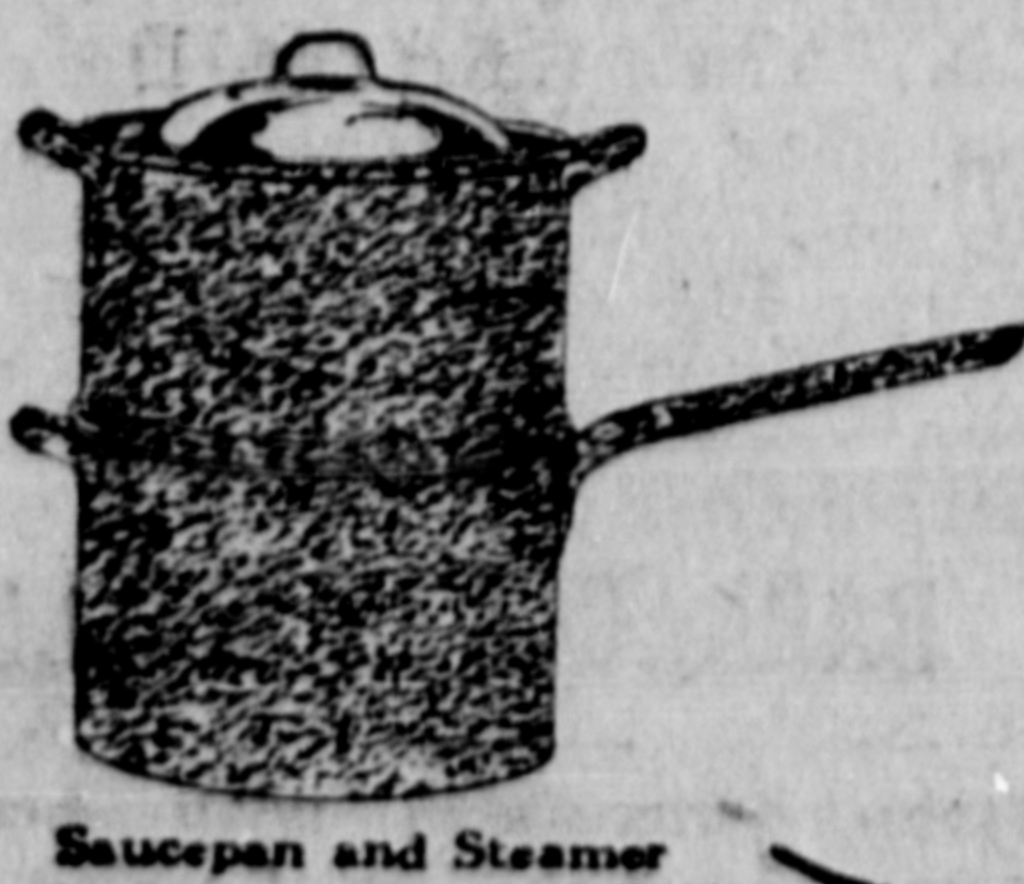

Thou shalt not covet thy husband's liberty, thou shalt not covet thy husband's habits, nor his weaknesses nor his morals, nor his privileges, nor his power, nor anything that is his.
