CANADA AS A NEW NATION

Sir Campbell Stuart, Managing Director London Times Writes on Subject.

PAYS VISIT TO QUEBEC.

To See Premier Mackenzie King at Head of Affairs Was Real Inspiration.

In returning to Canada this last summer I had a fixed intention to revisit the great Prairie Provinces and see for myself the new Canada that had developed there since I was a boy, says Sir Campbell Stuart, managing director of the London Times, writing in his paper. Ill-health prevented the realization of that wish and I had to content myself with remaining in my native Province of Quebec. I do not want it to be thought that I grumbled at having to stay there, for I wonder if anywhere in the world the traveller can find such peace and contentment as in the back country of French Canada. Labor difficulties are practically unknown, and the simple, picturesque, healthy life of the French-Canadian habitants always proved to me that they had learned the secret of happiness. They seem to have learned also the secret of prosperity. The Province of Quebec had a surplus this year of about $600,000, a surplus which, according to M. Taschereau, the Provincial Premier, is equal to the surplus of all the other Provinces for the last five years.

Different Canada.

I found a very different Canada from the one I had known. I found the young men were more interested in public affairs than before the war. I found the consciousness of nationhood more apparent. I found a greater appreciation of the fact that she needs all her brains, be they in the east or in the west, English or French, to guide her destines at this critical hour in her history. I found a real desire to remain a nation in the British League of Nations, but at the same time a very proper wish to look after her own affairs. I found a greater interest in her history and traditions. There are no more romantic pages than those of Francis Parkman, and I fully sympathize with the present Prime Minister in his wish that a national memorial should be erected to the memory of that great historian.

New Responsibilities.

But nationhood brings responsibilities. Let no Canadian misunderstand that. Once assumed they are not easy to lay aside. The important international question which interests Canada today is the appointment of a Canadian Minister to Washington. The Order in Council provided that in the absence of the British Ambassador he should be in charge of the Embassy. In my opinion the minister will have enough to do to look after the affairs of Canada, to whom he is responsible, without embroiling her in world problems—and perhaps a world quarrel. Could not the British Counsellor of Embassy become Charge d'Affaires in the ordinary way? That Canada should have a minister there I have no doubt. Canada's interests at Washington are enormous, and the man who is charged with them should understand in every detail the feelings and the wishes of Canadian people.

What Canada needs more than anything else is population. She needs a strong immigration policy, together with the widest possible advertisement of what she has to offer. Her empty spaces are calling for settlers. She has less than three people to the square mile, whereas her neighbor across the border has thirty-five, and the Japanese across the Pacific has more than three hundred.

Was Inspiration.

It was a real inspiration to see the grandson of the great Canadian reformer, William Lyon Mackenzie, directing the destinies of his country. Senator Ingham wrote in his immortal poem that "opportunity knocks once at every door." I say with much respect that at no door has it ever knocked more loudly than at that of William Lyon Mackenzie King, the man who has been entrusted by the people with the highest office in their gift. He inherits a new Canada, sanctified by war, recognizing for the first time her own strength, respected by the whole world as a factor to be reckoned with, harassed by problems of transportation, possession of illimitable resources. It is his great hour of opportunity. He has attained the highest position to which a Canadian can aspire, and while he holds that office it is the duty of every Canadian who lives away from home, far from the turmoil of party politics to uphold him and assist him in every possible way for the good of the land they love so well.

FOR THE FANS.

"Do you regard baseball as a healthful game, doctor?" "Well, I should say it ought to do a great deal towards strengthening people's lungs."

VANDERHOOF

The Montreal Board of Trade and English parliamentary visitors who were here on Sunday afternoon were taken by cars to see the farming section north of the Nechako River. W. L. Egert was in charge of their reception. The visiting ladies were entertained by Vanderhoof ladies at an afternoon tea in the Nechazo Hotel those in charge being Mrs. W. Ross Stone, Mrs. E. C. McGeachy, Mrs. R. G. Matthews, Mrs. J. B. Armistead, Mrs. J. M. Johnston and Mrs. E. E. W. Heath. A special attraction at the hotel was an exhibition of Vanderhoof district grains, grasses, vegetables and dairy products. The visitors were deeply interested and much impressed with all they saw.

Fred C. Borhaven, of Vanderhoof, competing against the best Guernsey breeders in the Fraser Valley, took three first prizes and three second prizes with exhibits of his stock at the Chilliwack Fair.

Mrs. A. Nelson, of Prince George, has arrived in Vanderhoof to take a position in the Nechako drug store.

Miss L. Kinley, of Vancouver has taken charge of the Ellisby school which reopened last week. Other new teachers in the district are Mr. Day at Mapes, Miss Lillian Rafferty of Vancouver, at Bulahit, and W. Troughton, of Vancouver at Chilco.

Mrs. Long, who came from England to visit with her daughter, Mrs. F. Choveaux, has returned to Montreal.

ALICE ARM

Tretheway Bros., of Abbotsford, have recently made a contract with the Pacific Mills calling for delivery of twenty million feet of logs from their Alice Arm limits, the timber to be delivered within two years. Reports have reached here that the work of getting out the logs will commence this fall. It is understood that the stumps will be pulled out of the logged over land which will then be available for agricultural purposes.

Mrs. T. W. Falconer and her sister, Miss Velma Selkirk, of Vancouver, have been spending a few days at Anxox the guests of Mrs. Whalen.

High grade ore is coming down from the Esperanza mine in a steady stream and is being hauled to the government wharf from which it will be shipped to the Anxox smelter. Over twenty-five tons is now ready.
