Give A Reason For Our Faith.

Why do you think Prince Rupert is likely to go ahead in the near future? was a question asked recently. It is a question that is often asked and it requires an answer. Those who live here are, speaking generally, optimists. A few are not, but they will be soon unless they have got into the rut or are wading in the slough of despond. There is already a tendency toward better times here. Many local businessmen are doing well and the others will soon feel the impetus. Here are a few of the reasons why we may feel optimistic:

Look Ahead And See The Future.

In the first place the fishing business is in a healthy condition generally. The United States duty has put a crimp into some of the local boats, but they are still fishing and are getting a good price for their fish. The future of the fishing industry is bright.

The complications in connection with the local lumber mill and pulp limits have been cleaned up and there is every prospect that reorganization will take place very soon and that the business may develop into a real pulp and paper factory with power and other subsidiaries.

The Buckley Mill on Massett Inlet is almost ready to commence work and in the spring will be running full blast with seven or eight hundred men employed in the mill and logging camps. A weekly boat service will be operated to this port and Prince Rupert will benefit very materially from the operations.

Several new logging camps in addition to the Buckley camps are to open on the Islands very soon. These will get out lumber for the pulp mills and other concerns to the south.

With the development of the lumber business other mills than those already mentioned will be again in operation in this neighborhood.

Stearns is steadily developing and increased business at any of the mining camps will be of advantage to this place.

Restrictions are likely to be placed on Orientals in regard to salmon fishing and gas boats are likely to be allowed. These changes it is claimed will help Prince Rupert.

The tourist business is steadily improving and the interior country developing, all of which benefits the port.

Business at the local shipyard and drydock is improving and there is a steady pay roll which is bringing business here which formerly went to other ports.

There is a plan on hand for the steady operation of the reduction plant at Tucks Inlet.

The new dock which cost the Railway Company $600,000 is almost completed and will be ready for operation soon.

Most Important Of All Prospects.

All the above are natural developments and have nothing to do with the recent new appointments to the Board of Directors of the Canadian National Railways. That is the greatest cause for optimism of all and for that reason has been placed last on the list.

Sir Henry Thornton is a businessman who understands making railroads pay. He will see here a splendid railway, with a splendid harbor, both railway and harbor being equal in many respects to any in the world. He will find here a few dock not yet used and a shipyard and drydock that could be utilized to advantage in connection with the local roundhouses, machine shops, car shops as well as for marine work. Being a business man he will not allow all these facilities to be idle. As a recent visitor to the city remarked: "There is more cause for optimism in the appointment of Sir Henry Thornton than in anything else that has occurred here since the city was commenced."

Then there is the added fact that we have a local representative on the Board of Directors of the railway. So much has been said about it already that it is useless to repeat, but with businessmen at the head of the railway and a Government sympathetic to this railway and district and with a local representative at Ottawa, we see more hope for this railway and port than we have ever seen before. The future is very bright unless we are sadly mistaken. We have already struck rock bottom and from this time on there should be a steady improvement. That is what makes some of us optimistic. If grain elevators and shipping do not follow, we have mistaken our guess.

SINGING CLASS HERE FOR SCHOOL TEACHERS

One to be Opened to Enable Staff to Qualify as Instructors

The question of all teachers becoming qualified to teach singing, which resulted from a resolution passed by the School Board some time ago, was brought up at the meeting of the School Board held in the City Hall last night by H. L. Campbell, principal of public schools. He said that with very few exceptions the teachers in the city were not at present qualified to teach singing. Many of the teachers did not wish to devote the whole summer course to singing instruction preferring to take up a more important subject.

He had taken the matter up with the superintendent of education, asking him if the teachers could take singing courses during the winter months, and asked the board if they would concur in this.

Mr. Campbell suggested that a singing class be created at night school and thought there would be no difficulty in obtaining a singing teacher locally to conduct such a class.

L. W. Patmore made the motion that the proposal be accepted as satisfactory to the board, Mr. Campbell to take the matter up as suggested with the teachers and J. Pinder-Moss.

The motion was seconded by J. C. McLennan and carried.

MORE PUPILS WILL GO TO BOOTH SCHOOL

Borden Street is Crowded And Not Sufficient Accommodation There

At the meeting of the School Board held in the City Hall last night, public school principal, H. L. Campbell, spoke on the question of transfer of pupils from the Borden Street School to the Booth School, owing to the congestion at the former.

Mr. Campbell suggested that all pupils who lived on the opposite side of Fulton Street to the Borden Street School should attend the Booth School. He said that eight class rooms were already in use at the Borden Street School and that it was only a matter of time until something would have to be done. The only extension which could be made at present would be to use the basement. He thought that sooner or later some of the children would have to attend the Booth School. Mr. Campbell suggested that he write letters thoroughly explaining the matter to parents of the children concerned.

J. C. McLennan concurred with Mr. Campbell in his suggestion, and made the motion that this course should be taken. The motion was seconded by L. W. Patmore and carried.

CONSTANCE BINNEY AS EARL'S DAUGHTER

Fascinating Story at Westholme in Feature Picture tonight and Tomorrow.

The old Earl of Kildoran and his only child, the Lady Noreen, live in a run down castle in the midst of their once grand estate, now gone to seed and saddled with a heavy mortgage which is held by one Ephraim Roach, a petty country lawyer who nevertheless has a comfortable fortune. That is the opening scene in the picture featuring Constance Binney at the Westholme tonight and tomorrow.

The mortgage is about to be foreclosed, and Roach calls upon the Earl to offer what he considers a wonderful solution—namely, that the Lady Noreen shall marry young Desmond, his son, a smart, scheming youth. The Earl is outraged by the suggestion that Lady Noreen should marry outside the nobility.

Next day the Earl is killed in the hunting field and Lady Noreen inherits nothing but his pride and the mortgaged estate. In despair over the financial crisis, but determined to save the ancestral castle at all costs, she advertises it for rent, and secures as a tenant a young American engineer named O'Brien.

She has the word go around that Lady Noreen has gone away for the summer, and then she takes the place of a maid at the castle, as old Mary and Collins, the only servants left, are too old to do all the work; they are like the leaks in the roof—having been there for more than twenty years.

O'Brien sees through the girl's pretense, but humors it and admires the little lady's pluck. Presently O'Brien is host to his fiancée and her brother. Nora plays the maid to this overbearing young snob very demurely, but manages to put the visitor in such a ridiculous position that she leaves in a huff, after breaking her engagement.

Desmond Roach comes to foreclose the mortgage and is thrown out by O'Brien, who announces that he has bought the mortgage. Of course he does not evict Lady Noreen.

MANUAL TRAINING BENCHES WARPED

At a meeting of the School Board, held in the City Hall last night, R. H. Shockley, manual training instructor, informed the board that the work benches in the manual training room at the Booth School were all cracked and badly warped as a result of the heat put on in the school. The tops would need to be dressed off and certain repairs would have to be made to the benches. He said that iron bars were necessary to brace the benches.

Dr. W. T. Kergin enquired as to what the cost would be for the necessary repair. Mr. Shockley thought that not more than $50 or $60 would be enough. L. W. Patmore made the mo-

MRS. LING RESIGNS FROM SCHOOL BOARD

At a meeting of the School Board held last night in the City Hall a letter of resignation was read from Mrs. C. V. Ling, who is leaving for the south shortly to take up permanent residence.

L. W. Patmore moved that the board accept Mrs. Ling's resignation. He said that it was with regret he made this motion, as Mrs. Ling had always been a hard working member of the board and they could ill afford to lose her. The motion was seconded by J. C. McLennan who said he regretted the ladies' resignation as she had always been a particularly conscientious worker as a member of the board, and he was very sorry indeed to see her go. The motion was carried.

RED MOUNTAIN

The main vein on this property, 80 miles southeast of Vancouver, has been opened to a depth exceeding 500 ft. and for a length of 950 ft. On the lowest level the vein is wider and the values higher than on the levels above. In no direction have the possibilities of this vein been fully disclosed. Every hundred feet of work adds materially to the established ore reserves.

Our confidence in Boundary Red Mountain is based on potential developments in the work now in progress on this vein, as well as on its status as a well-managed, completely equipped gold mine.
