INSIDE LIFE DALAI LAMA

Residence of Great Religious Chief is Wonderland of Flowers and Birds.

LONDON, Feb. 24.—The Dalai Lama of Tibet, the religious and secular head of that secluded country has to work harder than the average British or American business man. He gets up at 4 o'clock in the morning and labors until midnight, notwithstanding the fact that he is unquestionably the "big boss."

Sir Charles Bell, a British political officer in India, who has just returned after a year's residence in the romantic "forbidden city" of Lhasa, the Tibetan capital, says the Dalai Lama is a "wonderful personality." Sir Charles is one of the few Europeans who have mastered the Tibetan language and this helped him to become friendly with the head of all Tibet.

Forbidden Enclosure.
"He paid me the honor of inviting me into the forbidden enclosure of his country palace," said Sir Charles.

"This was a little wonderland of flowers, birds and wild animals—a hidden retreat where he gives deep thought both to his religious and state affairs. Hundreds of canaries were singing here, and there were also stags, pheasants and a great tiger from Bengal."

The climate was intensely cold when Sir Charles arrived, and for days the temperature indoors never rose above freezing point. In the place of window glass, Tibetans used a sort of wax cloth. It lets the wind in, but they are a hardy race and do not appear to feel the discomfort of the cold.

"Mutton, yak beef and pork are the staple diet," Sir Charles went on. "Tibetans do not like either chicken or eggs. They do not sleep on beds but on the floor, on which are placed large downy cushions. You lie on top of these and fold them over you. They are very comfortable and warm."

Sticklers for Etiquette.
"There is an official date for winter to begin and end, and the fur hat and other warm garments ordained for officials are invariably worn without regard to weather conditions between those dates. However comfortable the official may be with the fur hat April 25 or without it after that date, he would never dream of departing from the sartorial convention in public for five minutes. The etiquette of the people is very elaborate and strict.

"There are, practically speaking, no police, no firemen and no wheeled traffic in Lhasa. If a man suffers from toothache, he goes with a few friends on to the flat roof of his house. His friends bring a big stone, round which they fasten a string. The string is then tied to the bad tooth, and the stone dropped over the roof top. Two or three friends hold on to the patient to prevent him from going over, too."

LABOR TO CONDUCT BIG FIGHT IN LONDON FOR COUNTY COUNCIL

LONDON, Feb. 24.—Labor is squaring up for a big fight to secure control of this metropolis through the London County Council elections, which take place early next March.

Labor's opponents, the Municipal Reform party and the Progressive party, although divided in policy, are practically united to keep out the Labor Socialists. The latter have collected an election fighting fund of £20,000 by a levy on all their members.

Their program includes municipal trading on a large scale in meat, coal, bread, fish and milk, and the provision of various medical services free to all, which is characterized as a revolution in municipal government.

The London County Council consists of 124 councillors, 19 aldermen and the chairman.

AVIATOR ROSS IS TO CROSS CANADA ON HIS ROUND WORLD FLIGHT

WINNIPEG, Feb. 24.—Sir Ross Smith, the British aviator who made the England to Australia flight, will come across Canada next year in an all around the world trip by air, and the National air board has mapped out an air route and landing stations for him in the Dominion, according to the statement of Capt. N. R. Anderson, of Ottawa, who is here.

Captain Anderson is here in connection with commercial flying, to inspect any airdromes and facilities for taking off and landing, and to examine pilots and engineers, and to put them through necessary tests. His department, he said, was simply trying to assist commercial aviation as much as possible, and it was giving commercial companies all information they desired regarding the latest type of machines, mapping air routes for them and arranging landing stations. There was no doubt that commercial flying was coming in the not distant future. Hitherto this had been limited to passengers, but now that the novelty had worn off business in this direction was falling away. When commercial flying was once definitely adopted, he believed, it would be here to stay.

GALLANT MANNERS RAPIDLY RETURNING

MOSCOW, Feb. 24.—The gallant manners of old Russia are coming back rapidly. Men again kiss the hands of women acquaintances when they meet in the streets. Too, when men ride with women in sleighs about the city they put their right arm about the woman's waist, ostensibly to hold them in the sleigh.

UNEXPECTED.
